Prineville man accused of luring minor with meth
A 35-year-old Prineville man was arrested on suspicion of luring a minor after attempting to solicit sex online, according to the Central Oregon Drug Enforcement Team. A detective on the drug enforcement team posed as a 14-year-old girl on social media and randomly contacted Patrick James Adams, a registered sex offender who is prohibited from contacting minors.

Over the past week, Adams pursued the detective believing he was the young girl and sent sexual photographs and messages via social media, according to the drug enforcement team. Adams allegedly continued to solicit sex and offered the supposed minor methamphetamine. The detectives, posing as the young girl, arranged to meet Adams Friday in Bend. At about 12:15 p.m. Friday, detectives and Bend Police officers contacted Adams in downtown Bend at the corner of Wall Street and Franklin Avenue. Adams was arrested and found to be in possession of methamphetamine and other relevant evidence in this case, according to the drug enforcement team.

Authorities believe Adams may have been in contact with actual minors in Central Oregon over social media. Parents and minors are asked to report any contact with Adams on social media to local law enforcement, school resource officers or online with the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children at www.cybertip.org

Adams was booked in Deschutes County jail on charges of luring a minor, online corruption of a child, attempted delivery of a controlled substance, unlawful delivery of methamphetamine and attempted unlawful contact with a child.

A Fruitland, Idaho, man was sentenced to 20 years in prison on Friday in the shooting death of a man across the Oregon border in Ontario. According to court documents, Jaime Anthony Escobedo fatally shot Larry Fuentes Jr., 38, of Portland, in a restaurant parking lot. As part of a plea deal, Escobedo, 43, pleaded guilty April 30 to manslaughter on the basis of having intentionally caused the death of the victim while under extreme emotional disturbance. On Nov. 18, 2018, Ontario Police officers were called to the restaurant over a dispute between two men. Officers then learned a man was shot. A lengthy police pursuit followed the shooting, in which Escobedo was still armed and told police on the phone that he intended to kill himself unless they stopped following him. Police from Nyssa, Oregon eventually took him into custody without incident. — Bulletin staff and wire reports
