Basketball

"It has been frustrating because we've only had a full crew for two practices," said Bend coach Allison Gardner.

Thursday evening, girls basketball made its return to Bend High. The Lava Bears were just a little late to the basketball party that started most places around the state a week earlier, some as early as May 17. In their second game of the season and home opener, the Lava Bears led crosstown rival Summit 31-30 in the game's final minutes. But sophomore guard Rose Koehler scored four of her team-high 13 points in the game's final minute to lead Summit to the 34-31 victory.

"We had the typical early season game with too many turnovers," said Bend coach Allison Gardner after the team's second loss in as many games to open the season. "The fact that we stuck it out and weren't tired in the fourth quarter and we were still making plays, I was proud of that."

Gardner said the circumstances surrounding the program have kept her up at night, wondering how to best navigate the season and recalibrate what the end goal is for the team in the extra-short season.

The Lava Bears — who lost their first game of the season Tuesday at Sheldon, 59-30 — are inexperienced, have had little practice time and are still trying to remain competitive.

"I have so many players that have never seen a varsity minute until today," Gardner said after Thursday night's loss. "So the question is where do we put them so the moment isn't too big for them, not make them a defensive liability. But all you can ask is that they play hard and try their best and see how it goes."

Ryan Brennecke/The Bulletin Bend's Lena Zahniser (52) pulls in a rebound during the first quarter against Summit on Thursday night at Bend High.

Even players with varsity experience, like junior Lena Zahniser, are being quickly thrown into action. Last Saturday, Zahniser

"I'm just expecting us to get better. I don't know where this team is going to go but I hope since it is a young team, they use this as a learning experience. Not just on the court but life in general because this is a pivotal moment in our lives. I hope that this team will be able to grow from this."

– Ava Dennis, Bend High School girls basketball player was playing a softball doubleheader. Three days later she was back on the hardwood.

"It was a fast transition," Zahniser said. "Basketball is such a fast-paced game compared to softball, so to make that switch was really difficult."

With only three weeks and six games remaining on their regular-season schedule, Bend High is just trying to live in the moment. Considering the past month the team has endured, it is all that the Lava Bears can do.

"I'm just expecting us to get better," Dennis said. "I don't know where this team is going to go but I hope since it is a young team, they use this as a learning experience. Not just on the court but life in general because this is a pivotal moment in our lives. I hope that this team will be able to grow from this."

Blazers

The idea that the Blazers might have to move away from Kanter, who during the regular season averaged 11.2 points and 11 rebounds, to Hollis-Jefferson, who was signed late in the season and played 107 minutes in 11 games, is not a positive development.

This is where Collins' absence is truly hurting Portland. Collins severely injured his ankle in the NBA bubble last season but was expected to return by January of this season. Instead, he underwent a second surgery that has kept him sidelined for the entire season.

The Blazers could have used Collins' defense during the regular season, especially while Nurkic was out for a 32-game stretch.

The Blazers survived without that type of depth to this point, but now it's an issue.

Yes, the Blazers shooting just 31.1% on 3s while Denver shot 52.6% was certainly a huge factor in the Game 3 loss. But remember, the Blazers shot 48.5% on threes in Game 2 and still lost by 19, while the regular bench players produced just 14 points.

 lack of bench scoring puts more pressure on the starters to carry the load. In Game 1, the Blazers' starting five combined for 89 points and won. In Game 2, that group put up 88 points and lost. On Thursday, they scored 96 and lost again.

But Lillard said he isn't concerned about the bench's lack of production in each of the last two games. He said that in Game 1, the backups saw more opportunities because of better team ball movement. In that game, Portland fell behind 24-17 in the first quarter before Simons and Anthony combined for 18 points in just over three minutes, and the Blazers led 35-30 heading into the second quarter.

"We had a good game where everybody made shots," Lillard said.

"You've just got to trust the fact that guys are going to come through and do what you need them to do, as we go into each game, one at a time."
