UO's Wright named to Paul Hornung Award watch list — Oregon's Mykael Wright was named to his second pre-season watch list. The Ducks cornerback is among 57 players named to the watch list for the Paul Hornung Award, which is given annually to the most versatile player in major college football by the Louisville Sports Commission. Previously named to the Thorpe Award watch list, Wright had 25 tackles and nine pass breakups as a first-year starter last season. An Oregon player has never won the Paul Hornung Award.

SEC invites Oklahoma and Texas to join league in 2025 — Southeastern Conference university presidents voted Thursday to invite Texas and Oklahoma to the league and create a 16-team powerhouse on the field and at the bank. The latest step in a move that has potential to help reshape college sports came two days after Texas and Oklahoma requested to join the SEC in 2025. That's when the schools' media rights agreement with the Big 12 expires. SEC leaders voted unanimously to extend an invitation, effective July 1, 2025.

one was expected to be able to compete.

"Once again, abundant caution and our strict protocols continue to keep the team safe," Australian team leader Ian Chesterman said. "We want every Australian athlete to be in a position to have their Olympic moment. We will continue to be vigilant."

Shortly after Kendrick's positive test was announced, another pole vaulter, Germán Chiaraviglio of Argentina, said he, too, was out because of a positive test.

In a posting on social media, he described a series of tests over the past several days, some of which came back positive, others of which came back negative.

"It's really hard to process something like this," Chiaraviglio said.

Unclear is how many other athletes might have had contact with Kendrick, how Olympic officials will figure that out, and what they might demand of them with the track meet only a day away.

Approximately 2,000 athletes are listed in the track lineup — the largest sport on the sprawling Olympic program.

The U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Committee didn't offer details about Kendrick's positive. A social media posting from his dad, which was later deleted, said the 28-year-old from Mississippi, who is a member of the Army reserve, had tested positive but was feeling fine.

"We are following the USOPC and (local organizer's) guidance on next steps to ensure the safety of the remainder of our delegation, and to offer support to Sam," a statement from USA Track and Field said.

The world record holder, Sweden's Armand Duplantis, said he was shocked to hear of Kendrick's withdrawal. This was supposed to be one of the top showdowns of the meet. The final is set for next Tuesday.

"As far as an hour ago I was still preparing myself for a big battle with Sam," Duplantis said. "He's one of my main rivals, and somebody who was definitely going to push me in the final."

Kendricks won the bronze medal at the 2016 Olympics and took gold at the past two world championships. He holds the American record at 19 feet, 10½ inches.

"It's still pretty surreal to me," Cunningham said. "I know how much responsibility comes with being the No. 1 pick. I know how much responsibility a city will put on the guy that they take No. 1. I'm more than excited to take on those tasks and try to deliver to the city of Detroit?"

Cunningham — the first player in Oklahoma State history to be picked No. 1 overall — joins a Pistons franchise that has won 20 games for two straight seasons and hasn't finished better than .500 for five straight years.

Houston followed at No. 2 by grabbing preps-to-pros teenager Jalen Green, who bypassed college basketball to play in the G League. The 6-foot-6 Green averaged 17.9 points on 46% shooting 15 games, showing off high-flying dunks, a willingness to attack the rim and a promising shooting touch.

Green is now part of Houston's rebuilding project after the James Harden trade to Brooklyn. The Rockets entered the night with three first-round picks after having a league-low 17 wins.

"They're going to say it's a great choice because the goals I have for myself," Green said. "I plan on reaching them."

Next up was Southern California freshman big man Evan Mobley, who went to Cleveland at No. 3. The 7-footer has potential as a mobile big man with length and the versatility to switch on switches. He swept Pac-12 individual honors while ranking as one of the nation's top shot blockers and helped the Trojans reach an NCAA regional final for the first time in 20 years.

Then came the first surprise of the night with Florida State forward Scottie Barnes going to Toronto with the No. 4 pick. Barnes is a mobile and versatile 6-8 forward with the potential to be a strong playmaker and elite defender.

That bumped Gonzaga freshman point guard Jalen Suggs down to No. 5 with the Orlando Magic, followed by another surprise in Oklahoma City grabbing 6-foot-8 playmaking teenager Josh Giddey — considered a potential lottery prospect — from Australia.

The draft is later than its traditional late-June slot for the second straight year due to the COVID-19 pandemic that interrupted the 2019-20 season. The 2021-22 season is scheduled to return to its normal schedule, with next year's draft set for June again.
