

He Visited Heaven.

Rev. D. Sheldon Taylor is holding revival meetings at the Central Friendly Inn, Cleveland, Ohio, says the Chicago Chronicle. Said he at a recent service: "When working at evangelization in Africa I was sick about two weeks, when I entered a comatose state. The doctors pronounced me dead. The coffin was brought, the grave was dug and all preparations for a funeral were made, when I came to life. I was dead three days. When I fell into that comatose state I felt myself lifted out of my body and, obeying the advice of an angel, I ascended a beautiful mountain, in the rear of which gleamed a radiant light. When I had ascended to the top of the mountain I looked down into the valley on the opposite side to that which I had ascended, and I beheld the wonderful world of which so much is heard and so little known. I saw heaven. I then descended the mountain and entered the city, which I firmly believe to have been heaven. Every one seemed to know me, and they surged around me, welcoming me, and some of them exclaiming: "Here is the little preacher from panama." They were all dressed in white, and the countenances of all beamed with a holy light. The streets were paved with what I know not. The pavement was soft and yielding to the tread. On all sides were buildings of white material. The three days I spent there passed like a moment of time. After I had been there some time an unseen spirit came to me and asked if I would like to return to earth and continue to preach the gospel of Jesus. I would not consent at first, but when asked if I would not do it for Jesus' sake, I consented."

But Little Hope.

Salem, Or., Feb. 27.—Both the senate and house met today and as there was not a quorum in either house an adjournment till tomorrow was taken. The organization of the legislature depends wholly upon the possibility of 40 members of the house coming in and taking their seats. There are now in regular attendance only 30 members. Governor Lord has indicated that he will not call a special session and it is the hope of those present that the demand for legislation and need of the election of a United States senator will force members to come in. If the house can muster a quorum there will be no difficulty in securing one in the senate. In view of the bitter feeling that exists between the different factions, the hope that there will be an organization is a very slender one.

Indian Agent Joseph Emery, of the Klamath Indian reservation, has written a lengthy letter to the United States Attorney Murphy at Portland in regard to some stacks of hay belonging to Joseph Wilson, an Indian, on the northern part of the reservation, having been burned a short time ago, and stating that the Indian police tracked, from the scene of the fire, and captured Jack Drew and Tall Jim, also reservation Indians, who are held in jail on a charge of arson. This being a serious crime, the agent wants some information as to what proceedings shall be taken and what penalty shall be taken and what penalty shall be inflicted if the prisoners are found guilty.
