A tramp at Portland stepped up to the door of a doctor's residence and asked the pretty woman who opened the door if she would kindly ask the doctor if he had a pair of old pants he was willing to give away. I am the doctor replied the plump and pleasing young woman, and the tramp fainted.

The 305 blankets ordered for the use of the Oregon National Guard, have been received and paid for by the state military board. The blankets are regulation gray, weighing 4½ pounds, with blue stripes for the infantry, yellow for cavalry and red for the artillery. The blankets cost $247½ each, and are pronounced superior in quality.

A short time ago Pat Faulkner, while riding over the divide between Willow and Bully creeks, found a petrified salmon. The head and about one foot of the body comprised the largest piece, while lying close by were the remaining portions of the body, but all in life-like perfection, even the teeth showing as distinctly as when it sported in the once mighty stream or lake that flowed over its late resting place.—Vale Advocate.
