JULIAN BYRD — — — Manager.

There may yet be a contest for seniority in the anti-McKinley ranks between Senator Culver and Mason, of Ill.

Republican shouting is still many miles in advance of real prosperity, but they are afraid to stop long enough to think.

The purchasing quality of the U.S. silver dollar has been impaired by the fall in the price of silver bullion.

Mr. McKinley has taken part in other campaigns in Ohio in which his party got badly licked. So this year's experience will not be unique.

Senator Platt, of N. Y., makes no secret of being more interested in the fight for control of greater New York than in anything else in sight.

If J. H. Sherman could get inside into the mystery of Tesla's wireless telegraphing he might be able to find out what is going on in Hawaii.

It is noticed that those who were at the office and failed to make connection are not talking so much about the return of good times as they were.

Spain will probably use the assassination of her President to work up a little sympathy in Europe which may be the foundation for another loan.

The Cubans are so confident of soon gaining their independence that they are not much interested in what sort of a government Spain has.

Czar Reed must have occupied his time while the extra session of congress was going on by writing pieces for the newspapers and magazines, judging from the number of articles signed by him which have since been printed.

Hello! what's up? Mrs. G. W. Greer, known as "the mother of prohibition in Kansas," has publicly declared that prohibition does not prohibit in Kansas, and that she is sorry to be responsible for the law that has become such a farce.

The middle-of-the-road population of Iowa held a convention at Des Moines on the 19th inst., and passed the following state ticket in the field:

Governor—Chas. A. Lloyd.
Lieutenant Governor—Dr. L. P. Parsons, Judge of supreme court, J. A. Lomax, Superintendent of public institutions, A. C. Fine.

Road commissioners, L. D. Griffith, National minister, M. W. Weeks, L. L. Reel and J. S. Babcock.

There is a pirate vessel on Long Island sound. This vessel is anchored at night near some village or country house and the buccaneers proceed to plunder the inhabitants of town, and before morning they weigh anchor and sail away. An action of a similar character says the Statesman, occurred in the West it would be attributed to the barbarous and uncivilized condition of the Pacific coast.

The part that Canada is playing as a legalized highwayman in her tariff regulations in the Alaska country is very likely to end in a clash, and a serious one. While that country supports such highway robbery, the men who endure the excessive hardships to explore that region where gold is found will not tamely submit to such injustice. Still Canada announces she will keep force enough on hand to enforce her regulations.

When it comes to allowing the other fellow to do the talking, Senator Gorman is right at home.

If that West Virginia judge is not sorry he issued that anti-free speech injunction against Eugene Debs, it is because he hasn't the slightest respect for public opinion.

France is looking out of the corners of its eyes at the hollowness of the Emperors of Germany and Russia, at St. Petersburg, although pretending to be taking no notice of the affairs.

Perhaps there is a connection between the recent numerous hold-ups in the suburbs of Washington and the desperate efforts of the exiles left unprovided for by Mr. McKinley.

Can prompt surgical aid save the life of a man stabbed through the heart? It has always been held that any attempt to operate directly upon the heart was worse than foolish, and to sew up a lesion in the heart proper without killing the patient would be absolutely impossible, says an exchange. Ye D. Rehe, of Frankfort, Germany, at a meeting of the surgical congress in Berlin recently, reported a successful operation of the kind, the first in the history of surgery—and produced a patient living. Before the announcement scientists scoffed justly.

Describing the case, Dr. Rehe said the man had been stabbed in the right side of the heart. He was conveyed with great haste to a hospital and taken directly to the operating room. The surgeon laid bare the heart in a few seconds and found a wound on the right side of the organ. He sawed up the orifice and applied general treatment for arresting hemorrhage. The heart worked violently during the operation, but the commotion of the organ gradually subsided, and in due time the wound healed and the patient recovered.

Fire Engine.

Our noble, long neglected, fire engine is sheltering in its little cabin on the back street, this hot weather, and its cry is "water water." How we pity its forlorn and forsaken condition, more to be pitied than Hank Lerner since his wife has gone to Catlow valley, but there is the certain calm, that over all attacks of melancholy and blues, even if the blues be as blue as blue can be, in the case of Hank, that is the return of his wife in a few days, but the poor mis-guided and broken hearted engine has no hopes of a chance to release it from its present thirsty condition and restore it to a life of liberty and usefulness. And then it argues with itself, "Here I am worth some twelve hundred dollars stored away out of sight thirsty for a drink of the pure ale that flows from Adams fountain and an enjoyment of this great luxury which is said to be free for all. I am too good a soldier and too well used to burst through the dust of this, my noble regiment and paint the town red. I can only pray and trust to Providence that something may soon be done for my forlorn and unhappy state. The cruel, I presume, has forgotten me, and the mayor fails to recognize my existence. I guess I had better take Scottie's advice and apply to the county court to be put on the pauper list and silently bide my way to Father Brown's hospice to receive, at least, the meager alms of attention accorded the poor."

"PIE" IN OREGON.

Under date of August 14, "L. County" writes to the Oregonian as follows under the above caption:

"It must be gratifying to the legion of office seekers in this state to learn that Oregon is not being overlooked in Washington. In the scramble for offices,

"About the first appointment secured by the Oregon delegation was that of ex Congressman Hermann, to the commissionership of the general land office. Then Mr. Hermann's brother was appointed postmaster at Myrtle point; then another brother was appointed to a place in the pension office at Washington, and later Mr. Hermann's brother in law was appointed to a place in the land office. This shows that the Oregon delegation is at work looking after the interests of their constituents, so far as the offices are concerned. But all of the appointees above referred to live in Coos county, and it seems a little strange, in view of the fact that Coos county gave Bryan several hundred majority and has been carried by the republist for the last six years, that Coos should be singled out as the county to be especially favored by the present administration. It is reported that there are several able-bodied members of the Hermann family yet unprovided with an office. For the sake of the thousand or more zealous office seekers in the state outside of Coos county, we trust that this report is unfounded."—Eugene Register.

Here is the way a Texas paper puts it: "When you ask a man to subscribe for your paper and he says, 'Oh, I never read much, besides times are too plagued tight,' for God's sake apologize to him for the mistake and leave him. Life is too short to waste time trying to teach a mule to sing soprano. All gentlemen now days read newspaper—and lots of them. Show us a man who lives in a town or county and never subscribes for the newspaper published there, and we will show you a man whose head is shaped like a piece of pie, with the point up, and whose ignorance is only exceeded by his gigantic gill. A local newspaper is an institution that works every day and night, and every decent man in the community is in honor bound to assist in its support. The great trouble is some swell-headed glib-tongued fancies they are making this editor a pest when they take his paper. We have the profoundest sympathy for a man who lives in a town for years and never subscribes for his home paper. If that poor fellow has to encounter an idea in a way, he would turn and fly the other way, with the tail of his garment beating the atmosphere. One of them hasn't common sense enough to keep warm in hades."—Tribune.

Scandal.

Only some simple queries, passed on from tongue to tongue. Though the ever growing, has out of nothing sprung. Only a faint suggestion, only a doubtful hint. Only a leading question, with a special tone of tint. Only a low "I wonder?" nothing on fair at all. But the whisper grows to thunder, and a scathing bolt may fall. And a good ship is dismantled and hearts are like to break. And a Christian life is blasted for scarcely guessed mistake.

One reason why people never pay any attention to signs and advertisements daubed on old fences, stables and bridges, is because they do not know whether they are reading the advertisement of some firm that is still in business or one that has been dead for years.—Gazette.
