

It is clear that Chauncey De- puy would rather make a speech in Nashville than in the New York Mayorality campaign.

Boss Hanna doesn't know it all but he knew enough to avoid engaging in a financial joint debate with Gen. A. J. Warner, and being made a monkey of.

The capitalist continues to proclaim the era of prosperity as he marks up the price of everything he has to sell. The man who only has his labor to sell hasn't been able to do any marking up.

The prince of Wales has more sense than some people have given him credit for. He refused to act as arbitrator in a labor strike.

Boss Hanna says the demon of coincidence is ever present in his dreams. He should confer with Whitelaw Reid on the results of that sort of nightmare.

Col. Henry Watterson may some day learn that there is a wide difference between being influential and being amusing.

"Thanks, Mr. otherwise engaged," is the substance of the reply that Boss Platt has received from every prominent republican he has asked to help him in New York.

Prosperity has evidently not reached the footpads of Chicago, or they would not have shot and killed a poor newspaper carrier for the purpose of robbing him of $1.50.

Does Gov. Piogree really expect people of sense to believe that he made a trip to Venezuela for the purpose of winning a wagon of a box of cigars?

The physician who claims to have discovered a sure cure for yellow fever would better put it into practical use in New Orleans and do less talking through the newspapers.

If the attempt to make the Members of Utah all vote one political ticket is successful, it will be only a question of time when all the non-Mormons of the State will unite against them, and the latter are probably a majority.

The proprietor of a Pa. factory who discharged a man for stealing a kiss from a pretty girl deserves the strike he has on his hands, in consequence. He should have known better. The 200 men who went on strike knew that it was only a question of time when they would all be discharged, if such a precedent was allowed to stand.

One member of the goldbug so called monetary commission, now in session at Washington, will find himself muzzled by the bankers who created the commission if he keeps on talking about trying to fix things so that Southern and Western farmers can borrow money at low rates of interest as Eastern merchants. That is one of the things that the big bankers do not wish to be fixed.

A revivalist has availed such a storm of religious enthusiasm at Milledgeville, Ga., that a big bonfire was kindled in the streets of the city with checker boards, card and other implements of worldly amusements. Unless this case will differ from many of its predecessors in all parts of the world, there will be a reaction that will take a boom in the towns on the side of the kind of articles that were burned.

Several Klondikers have been driven crazy by their sudden acquisition of wealth. We know at least one man who is willing, aye anxious, to accept wealth and the chances of its making him crazy, something that the lack of wealth has not quite been able to do.

Those who are disposed to praise Gen. Blanco, who will succeed Luther Weyer in a command of the Spanish troops in Cuba, will do well to wait and see whether his acts deserve praise or censure.

No wonder Weyer didn't wish to leave Cuba; he is accused, and it is generally believed truthfully, of having grown rich out of the money appropriated by Spain to carry on the war.

The Platt-McKinley deal probably does not include the making of a speech by Mr. McKinley for Platt's candidate for mayor of New York.

Lou. Sitz and Herman Rub are engaged with their artesian outfit on the ranch of Fred Haines near Harney. Last Saturday they were down 254 feet and the water was within eight feet of the surface. One hundred feet of this is through solid rock. We hope this effort to get artesian water will be a success, and in fact we are satisfied that artesian water can be gotten here at no very great depth, the proof of which is the old well near town. The first flow was reached at some thing over 200 feet.

We wonder why some enterprising individual or firm don't put up a roller process flour mill in or near town. The mill at Drewsey stands idle, machinery and building slowly but surely becoming damaged and no one, seemingly, willing to take hold of what is certainly a paying business. We do not pretend to understand the tangled originators of that mill have gotten into, consequently cannot explain, but we believe some one or it may be several persons, are standing as obstacles in their own path to prosperity, and it certainly is detrimental to the interest of our agricultural pursuits consequently an injury to the county to allow the mill, after completion, except an engine or water power, to remain idle.

A territory of 271,000 square miles comprising Washington, Oregon and Idaho as they are today, was saved to the Union by one man. He had the courage to ride on mule back for three thousand miles. The ride was thrilling, trials and hardships marvelous, the result a glorious one. The whole story, beautifully illustrated, will be given in the November issue of The Ladies Home Journal, under the title, "When Dr. Whitman Added Three Stars to Our Flag" the clearest and most intensely interesting article in the Journal's successful series of "Great Personal Events." The first women to cross the Rockies figure in the story, who proved beyond a doubt that they possessed Fremont, the "Pathfinder," by a x years.
