Wise and Otherwise.

A man is always on the safe side after he has practiced telling a girl the truth so she will think he is fooling.

Let a man walk 10 minutes with the average girl and she'll make up some fool sign that she says means an early wedding.

She: "If we marry will you ever go to work?" He: "I'll go farther than that; I'll go past it."

Mr. A: "Thank goodness there is no marrying in heaven."

Mrs. A: "Of course not; there is not enough men to go around."

He: "These electric lights are so unreliable."

She: "Yes, a girl can't tell what moment she's going to be kissed."

When a man who has flirted all his life finally falls in love, he always thinks of himself as a victim, and how woe the girl was who got him.

When a man starts in to make a girl love him one of the first things he says is that she must come to him for help and advice just as if he was her brother.

Rejected Suitor: "Should you insist upon breaking our engagement I'll publish your letters."

She: "I should be ashamed of nothing exceptin' that they are addressed to you."

The authorship of the much-discussed "Inner Experience of a Cabinet Member's Wife," printed in The Ladies' Home Journal, will be revealed in the June issue of that magazine...
