It really seems a pity to be brushing a country that is as bad off at home as Spain is, but this country has had enough of allowing a change of Ministry at Madrid to influence American policy; and it will not occur a second time. The business on hand is to lick Spain, regardless of who composes the government of that country, and the good work in that line by Dewey in the Pacific is an incentive to pushing the same sort of work in the Atlantic.

Short as the battle of Manila was there was a characteristic bit of Spanish treachery. A Spanish vessel struck her flag in token of surrender, and when approached by a boarding party from one of our ships, poured a volley into our little boat. The little boat escaped, but the treacherous Spanish ship was sent to the bottom with all on board as soon as the treachery was observed.

There have been several false alarms about the capture of Spanish spies, but the man arrested at Washington the other day is said to have had documentary proof that he was the genuine thing. He will be tried by court martial, and if found guilty will forfeit his life.

It seems that the only way in which the Spaniards can destroy an American vessel is to have her anchored in one of their harbors and blow her up. Dewey laughed at their mines in Manila harbor as they were exploded in front of his ship.

The men who have enlisted in our volunteer army did so because they wish to fight the Spaniards; therefore the administration cannot get them to Cuba too soon.

There is no mourning for American dead mixed with the rejoicing over Admiral Dewey's great victory. There was no American dead.

Hurry up boys! Lick 'em quick, so you can get back home to take part in the biggest 4th of July celebration we have ever had.

Americans realize the importance of knowing how to shoot to hit; that's why they win battles.

To shoot like a Spaniard is to miss everything you shoot at.
