My daughter, who teaches in a mission Sundy school, tells of a Dewey experience she had with a youngster making his first appearance. She had put him through a half hour or more of instructions on the redimentary principals, for he was entirely lacking in information on that pont, and to test him was reviewing her work with him.

"Now," she said, "tell me again who made the world and all that is in it?"

"God did," replied the boy with commemable promptitude.

"God can do everything can't he?" she asked again.

The boy hesitated a moment. "I don't believe he could lick Dewey," he answered at last, and his teacher sat silent between her religion and her patriotism. It wasn't her time to say anything, if she didn't want to lose that boy forever, and she had wit enough to let it go at that.—Washington Star.

An Emperor's forty-six portaaits and poses, with five German warships facing Admiaal Dewey's fleet at Manilla and the intentions of the German Kaiser still a matter of some doubt, the leading article presented in The Cosmopolitan for July will be read with interest. The forty-six portraits and poses of the Emperoir William which illustrates the article are in themselves an extraordinary exhibit. They might be described as "The Evolution of an Emperor shown by forty-six human documents." Undoubtedly so large a number of portraits were never before gathered together of any royal or imperial personage.

A young man in Portland went to enlist last week. He was of foreign birth. He was given a newspaper to read but could not, and was just as successful when asked to write in English, and when reminded of his deficiency, he said: "Well, I can't read nor wride in English, pud I can fighdt in any lang which, and tougnt id vas fighdters you vanted, not professors." He was enthusiastically accepted.—Ex.

takes life's misery to thousands of people. It manifests itself in many different ways, like goiter, swelling, running sores, boils, salt rheum, pimples and other eruptions. Scarcely a man is wholly free from it, in some form. It clings tenaciously to the last vestige of scrofulous poison eradicated by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier.

Thousands of voluntary testimonials tell of suffering from scrofula, our inherited and most tenacious, positively, perfectly and permanently cured by
