Gentlemen: I bought a Jones Chain Mower last June and am more than pleased with it. It ran with an Osborne and a Champion. It is lighter draft and does better work than either one of them. If I was to buy another mower I would buy a Jones Chain Drive sure.

The best way to reduce the growing army of office-seekers is to reduce the pay for public work to the same price private establishments pay for similar work.
A Burns Sunday school teacher recently gave her class a very graphic and impressive description of how Eve was created from the rib of Adam. That same evening the youngest member of the class came to his mother, and pressing his hand to his side, said, "Ma'mma, I'm afraid I'm going to have a wife." - Ontario Advocate.
Notice to the Public.
Jorgensen says he is not sold out nor played out but he has got out to complete his course in Optic for the benefit of himself and the public. His business will be carried on at the same old place by his brother and things will be done as old.
That Picnic.
A party of 17 of which "Baby" Anlevine was the smallest and THE TIMES-HERALD was the largest, procured teams and a little lunch and started for Poison creek last Sunday morning to have a picnic and we had it in every sense of the word. One would have thought the Indians had gone on the war path could they have been anywhere in the radius of 2 miles and heard the noise. It was supposed that the crowd went with the intention of catching fish but they were perfectly safe so far as we were concerned, for if we recollect right there were three trout caught and those were not large enough to be kept according to game law as ed by the last Legislature and as THE TIMES-HERALD man took it upon himself to enforce law and order - having been told he was the most sensible one of the number(?) - he compelled them to throw the little speckled fellows back into the brook.
The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Brenton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martir, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Byrd, Mrs. W. Y. King, Misses May Kayce, Verdie Turner, Clara Swain Jennie Racine, Edith Byrd and Messrs Robt Angevine, Frank Welcome, Adolor Racine, M. L. Lewis and Delos Gould. Upon our arrival at the Wilson ranch we found that another party consisting of Capt Gowan and daughter Nabel, C. A. Sweek and two daughters Agnes and Missie, Lona Schneider and Minnie Kelley had preceded us and had full sway. The principal feature of the day, to our notion, was the dinner, which we enjoyed more while eating than afterward. All had a good time with the exception of oneself and the "Baby."
They all seemed to have a grudge against us for some reason or other. When we started home in the evening was when the real fun began. Adolor Racine drove the hack in which we occupied a seat and just before starting up a long hill we were crossing a creek and one of the horses balked. We had been told the team was all right if one knew how to drive them but Adolor had to admit after half an hour of coaxing with a willow, etc that he did not know how to drive them. We felt rather blue as the rest of the party had gone ahead and were out of sight, so we kindly asked our ladies if they would walk on up the hill and then the sir was blue for a while. The horse finally started and we succeeded in getting past way up the hill when Mr. Lewis met us with another team. It was our intention to say a few words not approved in the Bible to the livery men upon our arrival in town, but we found he was not to blame as he thought the horse was to pull. We are going again.

A great many republican members of the House are anxious to know whether the report that Mr. McKinley had said that either Henderson or Sherman would suit him and Hanna for Speaker, is true.
The Czar is considering the advisability of substituting some other punishment for exile to Siberia. If the horrors that some writers have pictured in regard to this "living death" really exists, his Majesty, in his search for an equivalent, will have to go back to boiling in oil or some other artistic function of the dark ages.
There can be no doubt that the most obliging postmaster in the state of Missouri lives at Bethel. He recently put a telephone in his office, and announced that for the benefit of those out-of-town patrons who are connected by wire and who may desire it, he will open their letters and read the contents to them over the 'phone. - Ex.
