A few weeks ago we invited those who were about to send their orders out to the department stores to submit them to us and get our prices. Several persons have done this with the result that we filled the orders, the money was kept in circulation here, and the purchasers were more than satisfied. The merchant who uses in large quantities gets lower prices, quality considered, than are in catalogues. If he doesn't he can't do business on a profit. We haven't got down to the $1.40 or $1.50 basis yet, but we let 'em go at $1.50 to $2 and we believe that the average man or woman will concede that much to the home merchants. There was a game of base ball last Sunday afternoon between what was called the "Regulars" and "Rubber Necks." It was a very close game and those who witnessed it divided the time between laughing at some of the moves of the players and spitting dust out of their mouths. Last Sunday was not what one would call an ideal day for a game of base ball, but some one had persuaded Captain Ed Caldwell that his "rubber neck" nine could beat the boys who are practicing for the 4th and he was determined to go on with the game as arranged. Captain Caldwell did some excellent work with his nine; every time he offered any advice or encouragement the "rubber necks" would go all wrong. The score stood at the end of the seven innings 27 to 9 in favor of the "regulars." Captain Caldwell had to treat the town to beer as the result of his defeat—a thing he did with good grace and the best of humor, although he has lost all confidence in mankind and hereafter will not believe a man when he says he is an old ball player unless he be on his oath. The captain asked us as a favor to him to change the score in his favor. We can assure him of our heartfelt sympathy, but this family journal will have to publish the exact truth about this as it does in all matters—a policy from which we never deviate.
