We are in receipt of a neat little 32 page illustrated booklet entitled

"Keeping Cows for a Profit," published by the De Laval Separator Co. of New York. It is the latest work out on practical dairying, and treats dairying as a manufacturing business, discussing its problems from a standpoint that every dairy farmer is just as much a business man as though engaged in any other manufacturing or commercial undertaking. If any subscriber of THE TIMES-HERALD would like a copy of the booklet, we will send it free on applying at this office either in person or by letter.

Lewis Zeigler paid this office a call one day this week. He has returned here to look after some horses that belongs to him. Last Tuesday, at John Day, Mrs. A. R. McCollum celebrated her 85th birthday. Fifty relatives and intimate friends called at Mrs. McCollum's home to congratulate her on having reached such a ripe old age and retaining such unusually good health for one so far advanced in years. Grandma is the mother of Mrs. W. H. Kelley of Burns, Mrs. G. I. Hazeltine of Canyon City, Mrs. Van Middleworth, Mrs. Sam Morgan and Frank McCollum of John Day, and Mrs. Dr. Pruden of North Yamhill, Oregon, and is proud of a large number of grand and great grand children. She has lived a long, useful and christian life, and when called hence, which we trust will not be soon, it may be truthfully said of her, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of heaven."

A Strange Individual

For some time there has been roving about the residence portion of Burns an individual who seems to take a delight in frightening our women folk. Most every night this (putting it mildly) "strange acting man" has been seen in some part of the city. He will go up to a window and stand there peering in or rap on the window until he has attracted the attention of some one in the house. When asked what is wanted he does not answer, but stares at the questioner, muttering in a low voice. Wednesday night he rapped at the door of a residence where there were four ladies. The lady of the house went to the door, and when she returned to the parlor her face wore a frightened look—she had met a "queer acting man." The four ladies were "frightened nearly to death," as they expressed themselves to gentlemen who arrived on the scene half an hour later. In mercy to our frightened wiver, daughters and sweethearts, this pestiferous individual should be persuaded to seek other fields to pursue his calling.

James Thompson is putting up a new dwelling in the southeastern portion of the city.
