The Open Heart. Would you understand The language with no word, The speech of brook and bird, Or waves along the sand? Would you make your own The meaning of the leaves, The song the silence weaves Where little winds made? Would you know how sweet The falling of the rill, The calling on the hill— All tunes the days repeat? Neither alone nor art, No toil, can help you hear; The secret of the ear Is in the open heart. —John Vance Cheney in Century.

There is no genius in life like the genius of energy and activity. —D. G. Mitchell.

Nothing is useless to the man of sense; he turns everything to account. —La Fontaine.

A kind of paper is made from seaweed which is so transparent that it may be used instead of glass for windows.

The Methodist Extension Society has furnished aid to build churches at the rate of two a day for several years.

Barbed wire fences are used extensively in South Africa, and most of the material is imported from the United States.

Dr. Nansen has settled down as a Norwegian squire and sportsman and is now a member of the great land owning class.

The Icelanders will not burn ash for firewood, because they believe that those who sit about such a fire will become enemies.

In the years 1832 to 1831, England lost 14,000,000 of its population by emigration. Germany lost 5,000,000 between 1832 and 1891.

The historic Villeres pecan tree, near New Orleans, never bore fruit after General Pakenham was wounded and afterward buried beneath it.

In 1883, the average price of a horse was $74.60; in 1897, $31.51. In the 13 years from 1884 to 1897, while the number of horses had increased by more than 3,000,000, their total value had decreased nearly $400,000,000.

A curious feature of cycling, which seems to be confined practically to the northern midlands of Great Britain, is the hill-climbing competition.

The most curious paper weight in the world is said to belong to the Prince of Wales. It is the mummied hand of one of the daughters of Pharaoh.

Oklahoma Indians have developed a craze for the mescal bean, a little-known narcotic of wonderful properties, producing marvelous color visions.

A New York man claims to have shot a crane up in the Adirondacks that had 45 trout in its stomach, none of which weighed less than a pound.

Efforts are being made to persuade the Emperor of Japan to attend the Paris Exposition and thus be the first in his position to undertake a journey to a foreign country.

Lushington—I felt like a king last night. Askins—How do you feel this morning? Lushington—Like the duke. —Puck.

A bullet fired at King George of Greece by a murderer imbedded itself in the framework of his carriage. He had it extracted and mounted as a watch charm and thinks it is a talisman for his safety.

“Don't you think you could follow some higher occupation than begging?” “I s'pose I could; but it is us beggars that helps keep other people at work.”—Exchange.

Scotland seems a strange place to find a statue of Abraham Lincoln, and yet there is one there. It adorns a monument erected in old Calton burying ground, Edinburgh, to the memory of the Scottish Americans who fought in the American civil war.

“A musician out of work, are you?” said the housekeeper. “Well, you'll find a few cords in the woodshed. Suppose you favor me with an obligato.” “Pardon the pronunciation, madam,” replied Peripatetic Padorosky, “but Chopin is not popular with me.”—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Companion for 1900. The regular issue of THE YOUTH'S COMPANION for October 19th is the annual Announcement Number, and contains a full illustrated Prospectus of the contributors and contributions already engaged for 1900. The list of writers embraces many of America's most famous soldiers and sailors, while statesmen, scholars, travelers and gifted story-writers of both sides of the Atlantic will vie in the enrichment of THE COMPANION'S pages during the new year. New subscribers who send their subscriptions now will receive free this year's November and December issue from the time of subscription.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

THE TIMES HERALD is in receipt of a few sample copies of "The Household," a handsome 32 page, illustrated monthly, full of interesting reading matter and valuable information for old folk, middle-aged people, boys and girls, as a perusal of its pages will at once convince the reader. Each issue contains well-written stories of home life, interesting facts and amusing incidents, short articles on current events, practical suggestions to mothers, incidents and illustrations for children, popular home entertainment, etiquette in social life, sensible suggestions on what to wear, how to decorate the home, lessons in silk embroidery, Battenberg lace in new stitches, new patterns for knitting and crocheting, lessons from the Boston cooking school, practical recipes for home cooking, window gardening and flower culture. No home should be without The Household. It has no superior of its class. Its stories are pure and elevating in tone. THE TIMES-HERALD will send The Household free to every subscriber who pays us one or more years in advance for the paper. Mothers, wives, fathers, husbands, you cannot invest $2 that will bring better returns. Call or send in your orders for THE TIMES-HERALD and get The Household free.

To die in order to avoid anything that is evil and disagreeable, is not the part of a brave man, but of a coward; for it is cowardice to shun the trials and crosses of life, not undergoing death because it is honorable, but to avoid evil.—Aristotle.
