THEY WANT DOLE REMOVED

HAWAIIAN LEGISLATORS AT LOGGER-HEADS WITH GOVERNOR.

End of the First Territorial Session and Nothing of Any Importance Has Been Accomplished.

Late dispatches from Honolulu via San Francisco say: The first legislature of Hawaii came to an end the evening of April 30, according to Governor Dole, and the next night, according to the majority in both houses. The legislature ended its existence at loggerheads with the Governor all along the line, and without having passed a single one of the important measures to which the home rulers were committed, except the county government act, which the Governor has killed by a pocket veto.

The last act of the house the evening of the 30th, was to pass a concurrent resolution containing a memorial to President McKinley for the removal of Governor Dole. It was introduced by Representative Breckley, one of the native home rulers, and contained a long indictment of the executive. Dole is charged with having hindered the work of the session by his hostility toward the legislature, withholding information and reports that were called for, and refusing to co-operate with the lawmakers. The president is asked in the resolution to use his influence in behalf of an extra session of the legislature to transact general legislation which Dole refuses to grant. The Hawaiians claim they have not had time in which to work out the plans of lawmaking they had formed in the 30 days of the regular session. In conclusion, the home rulers ask that Dole be removed, if the president sees no other way to bring about an extra session of the territorial legislature, declaring that the governor has acted in such a manner as to lose the confidence of a majority of the people of the territory, and charging that he has not dealt fairly with the home rule legislation.

The concurrent resolution passed through both houses by large majorities, all the native home rulers voting for it. It did not get to the senate until the day after the end of the session, as calculated by the Governor, but on that day the native party of the Senate passed it.

Governor Dole created a sensation in both houses by informing the committee sent to him to ask for an extra session that one of his reasons for not granting an extra session was that he had been reliably informed that bribery was taking place. Both houses passed a resolution demanding proof. In reply, the Governor stated that general charges of bribery had been made in the local papers and on the floor of the senate, but had not been investigated in spite of the appointment of committees to look into them and that the matter was being investigated by the government with a view to punishing the offenders if evidence against them could be obtained.

Both houses met May 1, as their count of days excluding adjournments, differed from that of the Governor as to the date of the end of the session. A joint session was held and four home-rule Senators were named as provided by the organic act to hold four-year terms. The Governor has issued a proclamation calling for an extra session for appropriation bills only to commence May 8.

A review of the work of the legislature shows that the most important laws enacted were an income tax law, assessing 2 per cent on all incomes above $1000, and an act providing for a court to hear claims for damages resulting from the Chinatown fire, and appropriating $1,500,000 to pay the claims that may be allowed. The lone bill failed to get through, many home rulers refusing to work on it after they were informed that Governor Dole would not grant an extra session except for appropriations. The failure of the bill will tie up improvements for two years unless there is an extra session.

Circuit Judge Humphreys is about to call a special grand jury to investigate the charges of bribery in the legislature.

An exchange says: The following is a new way for a girl to get rid of the caller who persists in staying beyond all reason, notwithstanding all hints; she gives him a pencil and paper with one of her sweet smiles and says to him: "Now make a row of eleven ciphers; now make a perpendicular mark an inch long downward on the right of the first cipher, upward on the right of the fourth; downward on the right of the fifth; upward on the right of the seventh and eighth; downward on the right of the tenth." Then asked him what he had written. The effect is electrical.

Disappointed Artist.

C. H. E. Hardin and Ameidei Jaullin arrived last evening from the Hardin ranch on Quinn river. The latter, who is a well-known French artist, has been Mr. Hardin's guest for several weeks. Mr. Jaullin went out to the ranch for the especial purpose of transferring to canvas the likenesses of some of the noble Piute braves and squaws. He expected to find Indians of the kind one reads of in story books or historical novels, but he was woefully disappointed. He did some work on a picture but gave it up in disgust. He found plenty of subjects, but the appearance of the Indians only shocked his artistic nature. The noble red men he saw wore brogans instead of moccasins, and Prince Albert coats and overalls instead of beaded suits of buckskin. Instead of feathered headgear he found that feathers and braided locks are out of style and that the vogue is a dilapidated derby or fedora hat. The Indian maidens were even more of a disappointment. Instead of a picturesque beaded costume he found them decked out in Empire wrappers, shirt waists, with leg-of-mutton or mandolin sleeves and other fantastic creations of the Piute dressmakers.

M. Joulin did not finish his picture. These combinations were too much for him. But he is to make another trial, and will leave here for Pocatello, Idaho, near which place the Fort Hall reservation is located. There among the Bannocks, a tribe of superior Indians, he expects to find subjects worthy of his brush. He will also visit Arizona and New Mexico, and spend some time among the Apaches and Pueblos before he returns to San Francisco.—Winnemucca Silver State.

Another Hot Artesian Well.

Vale has now another hot artesian well says the Gazette, and is the proud possessor of the only two of the kind in the state, so far as can be learned. Hope Brothers, who are part owners in the original well, have been anxious to obtain a flow farther up the hill that it might be more convenient in piping to town. Accordingly they had one bored on their own land east of the old well, but farther up the hill. Friday a strong flow was obtained and the owners are feeling very much encouraged.

Matrimony, The Fruit.

"Catch-on-as-catch-can" is the oldmaid's matrimonial motto. About the worst joke a woman can play on a man is to marry him. The men who marry most frequently for money are ministers. Poets take in the beauties of nature. Their wives usually take in washing. If men were serpents the woods would be full of female snake charmers. The state of matrimony is one of the United States—even if it isn't on the map. Enjoy life while you are single, for when you are married it is everlastingly too late.

HE WILL BREAK THE GROUND

PRESIDENT WILL INAUGURATE 1905 EXPOSITION.

The Provisional Committee Finally Reaches Conclusion to Have Him Do So—Programme Outlined.

President McKinley will break ground for the Lewis and Clark Centennial in 1905, says the Oregonian. Through his private secretary he has already expressed his willingness, and last night the provisional centennial committee, finally concluded to have him do so. The meeting of the committee, which was held in the rooms of the Commercial Club, was given a thorough discussion before it was agreed to.

It was decided to have the ground broken in one of the plaza blocks. The program for the president's reception provides that the school children of the city shall be massed to greet the president on five of these blocks, and the plan is to have the ground broken in the central block of the five.

The formal breaking of the ground will take place during the parade, which will be stopped for the purpose. After the incident is over the parade will proceed. Such is the program outlined by the committee.

A committee consisting of H. W. Corbett, P. L. Willis and H. C. Campbell was appointed to make all the necessary arrangements for the breaking of the ground. It was also decided to invite the governors of Washington, Idaho, California, Utah and Colorado and the Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia to be present and witness the ceremony. Washington is the only one of these states which has yet taken any steps toward being represented at the fair, but it is generally conceded that all the others will fall in line.

The committee is well satisfied with the outcome of the much discussed question of breaking the ground, and its members unite in expressing the belief that the ceremony will not only be interesting but that it will do much toward promoting the success of the exposition. Members of the Clerk's Union are circulating a petition addressed to their employers asking that the stores be closed for half a day during the presence of President McKinley in the city. The Petition has not been presented as yet.

Eastman is Acquitted.

After a long and dramatic trial, Charles H. Eastman, the Harvard instructor, was acquitted on the charge of murdering his brother-in-law, Richard H. Grogan Jr., while at target practice on July 4, last.

The jury, after listening for nearly three weeks to a mass of testimony, followed by two days of argument, debated five hours and a half before reaching a verdict. When the verdict was announced there was a demonstration among the spectators which the court officers were entirely unable to suppress for some minutes.

The young man's father, who has stood loyally by his side through the long strain and who has spared no expense in lawyers and experts to clear his son of the charge, was the first to press his hand as he stepped from the prisoner's cage.

Before the jury left their seats Eastman went over and shook with each one, and then passed out into an ante room, where he was greeted by his relatives and friends.
