

Representative Moody did express himself in favor of a lease law when here recently, notwithstanding that some of his political allies and friends deny it. He not only made the statement once, but repeatedly, and not only to one individual, but many. He further said that "had it not been for the false position of some of you newspaper men, something would have been done in that direction at the last session of congress." Those were his words in answer to a question asked by a representative of THE TIMES-HERALD in the presence of others.

Mr Moody's views alone will not pass the proposed measure, however, nor would it prevent its passage. He has a place on an important committee that can do much toward its passage or defeat and we should express our views on the leasing question in no uncertain terms. Mr. Moody is elected to represent the people of this congressional district and he is expected to work for or against a proposed measure as the voice of his constituents direct.

We infer from a recent editorial in the Oregonian that the public land committee, of which Representative Moody is a member, is made up of congressmen, principally from farming districts. Such being the case we must reach the whole committee and through it congress. Mr. Moody will certainly see that it is his duty to oppose the measure since practically all the range section in his district is fighting it, regardless of his own ideas on the matter.

But he is only one of the eighteen members who make up the public lands committee. What do congressmen from the thickly settled farming districts of the Mississippi basin know of our conditions? They have no range spirit, as we have here. Their stock, if turned on the public range at all, are brought to the barnyard every night.

It does seem, however, that with his past experience and the length of time he has held the position, Representative Moody is in a position to do a great deal toward defeating the proposed land leasing bill, or at least give it a set back in the committee by an unfavorable report.

His recent expressions here have made our people a little "shaky" and the mere assertion that he is opposed to it, coming from the source it does, will not quiet them, or restore their confidence.

THE TIMES-HERALD does not ask its readers to take this statement alone for its authority. Representative Moody made the above statement and similar ones to at least a dozen of our most influential citizens, republicans and democrats.

The mere assertion that Representative Moody is opposed to a land leasing law will not help to re-populate him next spring nor elect him. His constituents feel that he has an influence with the public land committee and they expect him to use that influence to secure an unfavorable report on the land graft. That's where he must do the work that will put him right with his party for future political honors.

A promise at stockman of Umatilla county the other day, in discussing the probable disposition of the land leasing question by the Wool Growers' Association, which was to meet in Heppner this week, said it would be opposed. He further stated that he knew of not a man in either the sheep or cattle business who was in favor of range leasing, and that he almost knew the convention would record itself unanimously as violently opposed to any such law. "There might be a very few men in favor of it," he said, "but they are so scarce that they will not attempt to make headway against the heavy sentiment of opposite nature."

Two London newspapers, discussing editorially the attempted assassination of President McKinley, suggests that guards be instructed to shoot down such villains on the spot, that they might be deprived of the opportunity to pose before the world as martyrs of their belief. These writers suggest that notoriety is one of the moving causes with anarchists. Deprived of the pleasure of seeing their names sent over the land, the curse of many, the idol of few, the Standard and Morning Post believe that anarchists would be slow to commit the dastardly deeds now accredited to them.—Ex.

The late President McKinley has been laid to rest and another has taken his place. The cause of anarchy has not in any way been helped, but on the other hand has received such a blow that it will not be tolerated in the United States. The lawmaking bodies of this great nation will not stop until adequate punishment is meted out to the cowardly curs that have conspired to take the life of our chief executive. It was, it seems, necessary that such a calamity befall us before we would act and now that the time has come no half way measures will be taken. Such bands of traitorous murderers should not be allowed in our land. We have no use for the foreign reptiles.

Ex-President Cleveland said upon receiving the news of President McKinley's death: "This is dreadful news and more cruel because it strikes down the confident comforting expectation which all our people were encouraged to entertain that their president would be saved from death. In the afflictive gloom surrounding this third presidential murder within the memory of men not yet old, we can scarcely keep out of mind a feeling of stunning amazement that in free America, blessed with a government consecrated to popular welfare and contentment, the danger of assassination should ever encompass the faithful discharge of the highest official duty. It is hard at such a time as this to calmly and patiently await the unfolding of the purpose of God."

A Study of Political Hysterics.

A Most Lamentable Comedy is the title of a most powerful novelette by Mr. William Allen White, which begins in the September 21 issue of The Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia. This absorbing serial is a study of political hysterics—the story of a state gone mad. The scene is a Western State laboring under the burdens of a panic year. The central figure is a grocery store demagogue, whose hare-brained oratory captures the State convention. The story rises to a height of dramatic power and intensity rarely equaled in the fiction of today.

NOTICE.

To who ever buys hay of Mrs. L. Hembree, or takes possession of same, on the Smith place before the rent is paid up to October 9, 1901, must move her off of ranch within 30 days after place is in possession of Sylvester Smith.

Memorial Services.

The services held at Floral hall Thursday afternoon in memory of the late President McKinley truly showed the patriotism of the people of Burns. Every business house was closed and almost the entire population attended the services. The public schools were dismissed at 3 o'clock and the school children marched to the hall in a body.

Mayor Kenyon presided at the meeting and read the president's proclamation. The Burns band furnished all the music with the exception of one vocal quartet. Addresses were made by Receiver Chas. Newell, Capt. H. Kelley, Dalton Biggs, Rev. A. J. Irwin and Thornton Williams.

In Memorium.

Hall of Drensey Lodge No. 147, I O O F To the Officers and members:

We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of condolence on the death of our Brother's beloved son, beg leave to report as follows:

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has called from our midst Q. V. Davis, the beloved son of our worthy and esteemed Brother I. M. Davis; and

Whereas, The sorrow that pervades the home seems almost unbearable; therefore be it,

Resolved, That the most profound sympathy of this lodge be extended to our Brother and Sister in their bereavement, and all express the hope that their great loss may be overruled by Him that doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the Lodge, a copy under seal of the Lodge forwarded to the bereaved family and a copy be printed in The Times-Herald and Pacific Odd Fellow.
