Stories about contemporary Presidents are so common nowadays that it is positively refreshing to hear an anecdote of one very few of us ever knew. I have just heard one about President Polk, when he was governor of Tennessee, in the year 1849. It will bear repeating: At that time there was a vacancy in the United States Senate, caused by the death of a member from that state. His term had nearly expired, and a few politicians had importuned the governor to call an extra session of the legislature to fill the vacancy, but this he would not do, and instead took a trip to New Orleans. Arriving at Smithland, La., he stopped at the Gower house, kept by an old friend, Major Gower, who did his utmost to show his distinguished guest all the attention possible. Several persons were in the bar room of the hotel, among them being a scaly politician from Nashville, who was berating the governor in true Southern style, and finally wound up his tirade by saying: "When I get back home I'm going to give the old fellow h---l." Polk stood quietly by and listened to hear him through, then said: "Are you acquainted with the governor?" "Oh yes," said the ward striker.

A representative of Cuban business interests now in this country says that go per cent of the business men and property-owners desire annexation of Cuba to the United States. But what proportion of the legal voters are of these classes? Annexation will come, however, in due time. Telegram.

A Great Newspaper.

The Sunday edition of the St. Louis Republic is a marvel of modern newspaper enterprise. The organization of its news services is world-wide, complete in every department; in fact, superior to that of any other newspaper.

The magazine section is illustrated in faintly tinted colors and splendid half-tone pictures. This section contains more high-class literary matter than any of the monthly magazines. The fashions illustrated in natural colors are especially valuable to the ladies.

The colored comic section is a genuine laugh-maker. The funny cartoons are by the best artists. The humorous stories are high class, by authors of national reputation.

Sheet music, a high-class, popular song, is furnished free every Sunday in the Republic.

The price of the Sunday Rep-public by mail one year is $2.00.

For sale by all news dealers.
