Peculiar and Pertinent.

The Parisians ate 23,000 horses last year.

There are nearly 20,000 known medicinal remedies.

But 2 1/2 per cent of the people of Bulgaria are Moslems.

The hair of the head grows faster in summer than in winter.

The banana and potato are almost identical in chemical composition.

The people of England drink some 800,000,000 gallons of milk in a year.

It is asserted that the longest lived people are those who make breakfast their chief meal.

So strong is Bank of England note paper that a single sheet will lift a weight of 100 pounds.

The latest cure for internal cancer reported in England is a tablespoonful of molasses four or five times a day.

An English mayor has handed over his official salary to be divided between the poor and the town lands.

The first life insurance society was started in London in 1698 and another in 1700. Neither was successful.

Permanent salvage crops to render aid in cases of accident are about to be organized by the Swiss Alpine clubs.

It is in contemplation to remove the saluting guns at the Tower of London and substitute 10 pounder breechloaders.

The beds of peas in Colorado

We understand Santos Dumont is now in communication with the Fair Association, by wireless telegraphy, which may result in his coming over from Paris with his airship to give an exhibition here during the Fair. He has been engaged to attend the big fair at St. Louis, the consideration being $250,000. He has sent a message to the effect that considering the beautiful scenery of this section he would fly over and participate for the paltry sum of $500,000. The Association considers the amount reasonable but fear that such an attraction would bring more people here than Burns can conveniently accommodate.

sometime include as many as 2,000 acres and there is one bed exceeding in size 2,500 acres. A southern man who has discovered that feeding hens with onions flavors the eggs, is now trying the experiment of feeding them with whiskey and sugar to produce egg-nog. They've made a wireless telegraph, a horseless carriage, too, and there's no telling what the mind of man can do. We'll soon be eating henless eggs and drinking cowless milk, and wearing clothes of sheepless wool, or mayhops wormless silk. How much would you like a treeless peach, or a piece of hogless pork? I'd be content if they would invent a workless work. They'll yet make wireless telephones, or maybe, noiseless noise, and I'm afraid if they keep on they'll yet make dadless boys. —Seattle Commonwealth.

An exchange of recent date tells of a boy entering the car and leaving the door open behind him, when an old man sitting near thund-red: "Was you brought up in a barn? Shut that door!" The boy did as he was bid, but the tears were seen to trickle down his cheeks. "There, there, never mind lad, of course you wasn't brought up in a barn." "I was and every time I see a jackass it brings it all back to me." The following story is told on the conductor on the St. Anthony branch: "Traveler boarded the train early one morning at Idaho Falls en route to St. Anthony, only an hour's run and complained about the slow time the train was making. With a look that would crack ice the conductor said: "You had better get off and walk if the speed of this train don't suit you." The traveler said he would, but his folks didn't expect him until train time.

Oranges and lemons at Huston's.

The Times-Herald has ever been progressive and intends keeping abreast of this rapid age. It now contemplates running a morning daily during the coming Fair, and is now arranging to get its press dispatches by the wireless telegraph. Should it fail to make proper terms with Mr. Stubbfield, it has a proposition from "Mazuroni."
