In awarding the Clark loving cup for the best fruit exhibit at Ogden, the committee in charge found it necessary to go outside of the great fruit belt of Idaho to find the winning varieties. The fruit which won the cup came from a remote settlement near Long Valley, Idaho, known as Mann's Creek, and won the cup on the ground that its fruit was absolutely free from pests. This is a lesson for Oregon irrigators to remember. In appearance the Oregon exhibit stood far ahead of any other—but it wouldn't stand the test.—Ex.

Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, the authoress, tells of a conversation, touching the advisability of marrying for money which took place between two young ladies of her acquaintance, aged respectively 12 and 13.

Said the thirteen-year-old girl: "I shall not marry any but a rich man. I couldn't for the life of me be tied down to a pauper."

"Oh," came from the twelve-year-old youngster, "how can you you talk so? I couldn't marry any but a rich man. I'd rather marry a man who had $10,000 a year if I loved him than a millionaire I couldn't love!"—New York Times.

In every newspaper we pick up we're sure to find a lot of gush about the man behind the counter and the man behind the gun, the man behind the buzz saw and the man behind his son, and the man behind the times and the man behind his rents the man behind the plowshare and the man behind the fence, the man behind the bars, the man behind the kodak and the man behind the cars, the man behind his whiskers and the man behind his fists, and everything behind has entered on the lists.

They skipped another fellow of whom nothing has been said, the fellow who is even or a little way ahead, who always pays for what he gets, whose bills are always signed, he's blamed sight more important than the man who is behind. All we editors and merchants and the whole commercial clan are indebted for existence to the honest fellow man. He keeps us all in business, and his town is never dead, and so we take our hats off to the man that is ahead.—Manteno (Ill) Independent.

One of the students at the University of Pennsylvania, wishing to earn an honest penny during his vacation, decided to introduce a new and peculiar cyclopedia into the country, and to sell it among the farming population. Needless to say, he had many queer and amusing experiences.

At one place he found an old man working in the fields. "I'd like to sell you a new cyclopedia," said the agent.

"Well young feller," said the farmer, "I'd like to have one, but I'm afraid I'm to old to ride the thing."—Philadelphia Ledger.

An Irish undertaker was laying out the deceased husband of a weeping Hibernian widow. The corpse wore a wig and it was very difficult to induce it to stay on straight, as wigs ought always to do, even if they don't. The bereaved widow was called in to assist.

"Go and get me a pot of glue, Mrs. McGovern," said the undertaker, so that I may keep this wig where it belongs." Mrs. McGovern set out for the sticking material, and after a time she returned. "Here is the glue for ye," she said with a sigh.

"Mrs. McGovern, you can take back the mucilage," said the undertaker; "the difficulty is fixed, I used a tack."—Ex.

There is an excellent old lady, who lives in Germantown and is a strong advocate of the enforcement of the blue laws. But she is very fond of the good things of the table, and for this reason she delights in doing her own marketing. The other Monday morning found her, bright and early, selecting some fine pears from her marketman.

"Are you sure?" she asked, "that these pears were not picked Sunday?"

"I don't know about that," said the man, with a grin, "but I do know that they grew Sunday."

"Philadelphian Ledger.

A country pastor gave a dance to the farmers and tenants of his parish. After supper he noticed a certain farmer's wife looking rather disconsolate. On being interrogated she replied:

"Well, sir, I never was so insulted in my life as I have been tonight."

"Philadelphian Ledger.

A blustering, self-important gentleman walked into a barber shop at Peck and wanted his hair cut. He didn't want any talk, just a plain hair cut, and he wanted it right away. The modest and unpretentious old gentleman in the shop attempted to explain, but was roughly told to go ahead without a word. After the job was over the man who knew everything looked in the glass and was horrified at his appearance. He fairly stormed around, and indignantly asked the old gentleman if he called that a hair cut. The mild old man meekly replied: "I don't know, you must ask the barber. He will be in presently. I am the editor of the village paper, and was waiting for a hair cut myself, but you wouldn't give me a chance to explain."—Lexington News.

Hon. Jefferson Meyers, while coming through on the stage from Burns to this place was, given the honor of naming two new stations on the road. The first one is located between Burns and Riley and to that he gave the name of "Lewis & Clark," and the other between Fife and Paulina he named "Governor Chamberlain."—Prineville Review.

Dieting Invites Disease.

To cure Dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease.
