Department of Education at Fair.

October 16, 1903.

To the school directors, Superintendents, principals and teachers in the public schools of Oregon: The Louisiana Purchase Exposition is to be held in St. Louis in 1904, and for the first time in the history of enterprise of this kind, the department of education has been assigned first place, and a separate building has been provided for the educational exhibit and a comparative display from all the leading nations of the world.

It is earnestly desired by this department that Oregon shall take its proper place as a leading exhibitor in that department. The great interest heretofore manifested by the people of Oregon in all matters pertaining to education, justifies the expectation of hearty cooperation in the preparation of an educational display that will intelligently and effectively illustrate Oregon's school system and the results achieved in all lines of work.

Prof. F. G. Young has been appointed as the educational exhibit commissioner for Oregon, and Supt. H. S. Lyman as superintendent, and these gentlemen have, in conjunction with the committee appointed for this purpose by the State Teachers' Association, prepared a circular containing suggestions and plans for preparing a creditable exhibition, which you will receive in due time. All inquiries and communications should be addressed to Supt. H. S. Lyman, 208 Vine street, Portland, Oregon.

Firmly believing that all will take hold of the matter with zeal and enthusiasm to the end that this exhibition of school work will be the best in the history of the State, I am,

Yours truly,
J. H. ACKERMAN,
Supt. Public Instruction.

Animals and Seasickness.

"Speaking of animal getting sick at sea," said a man who has had some experience with the dumb brutes on the briny deep, "I can tell you that they do get sick, and sometimes they get very sick, too. Of course, they do not manifest the sickness in the way that human beings show it, and for reasons which will suggest themselves on a moment's reflection. But they nevertheless get quite as sick as members of the human family. Seasickness in human beings will manifest itself in violent vomitings. A seafaring person cannot retain anything on the stomach. The old rule that whatever goes up must come down is, in the case of pronounced seasickness, reversed. Whatever goes down must come up. But when we come to deal with horses and cows we find a different condition to deal with. Horses and cows never vomit. They cannot. So here right at the beginning of the matter we find a reason for difference in the way this peculiar sickness shows itself in man and beast. I have had more experience with horses than any other kind of dumb animal, and consequently know more about the way the horse suffers during seasickness. It is a rather curious and rather interesting fact that the horse is more violently attacked in the feet than in any other portion of the body. I have seen the feet of horses at sea swell until they could scarcely stand on them. Of course the stomach of the animal is affected to some extent, but this is not so serious a matter as the attack in the feet. The effect of these attacks is sometimes of a lasting kind, and the usefulness of horses is seriously impaired. The fact that seasickness attacks the horse in the feet is mainly due to the peculiar influence a vessel's motion has on the kidneys of the animal. At any rate, this is the generally accepted view of the matter. We cannot say definitely just why horses get knobby feet at sea, but the popular view of horsemen who have studied the matter is as stated. As to cows, I do not know a great deal about them, but I understand the chief trouble with them at sea is that they lose their taste for food and quit eating." -New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The official badge for the coming irrigation meeting in this city has been happily chosen. The head of ripened wheat, the sprig of alfalfa and the wisp of sage brush, tied with a string of wool. That little symbol tells the story of the West. Its opening chapters, as read in the sprig of sage brush, tells of the unconquered wilderness, as the Western pioneer found it. The fruits of their toil and heroism are seen in the emblems of civilization, the head of wheat and the sprig of alfalfa, with the product of the great livestock industry, the woolen cord holding them in close embrace. It was a happy thought that prompted the selection of this badge, for it is more expressive to the true irrigator than any printed emblem could be. There are volumes locked up in that little industrial bouquet, and the study of those volumes is now deeply engrossing the West—East Oregonian.

A Remarkable Case.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by Burns druggists.

A Great Newspaper.
The Sunday edition of the St. Louis Republic is a marvel of modern newspaper enterprise. The organization of its news services is world-wide, complete in every department; in fact, superior to that of any other newspaper. The magazine section is illustrated in daintily tinted colors and splendid half-tone pictures. This section contains more high-class literary matter than any of the monthly magazines. The fashions illustrated in natural colors are especially valuable to the ladies. The colored comic section is a genuine laugh-maker. The funny cartoons are by the best artists. The humorous stories are high class, by authors of national reputation. Sheet music, a high-class, popular song, is furnished free every Sunday in the Republic. The price of the Sunday Republic by mail one year is $2.00. For sale by all news dealers.
