At frequent intervals since the departure of the Georgia Harper Co. last fall, this office has heard from them by letter and by marked copies of papers containing mention of engagements. The company has met with marked success and very favorable press notices throughout the central states. Very flattering, indeed, were the press notices of Joe Detrick's old home where they spent several days. This week we are in receipt of the Postville (Iowa) Review, where the company played Christmas week, which contains an excellent writeup. In the same wrapper was also contained a copy of the Dramatic Journal, Published at St. Paul, the frontispiece being an excellent likeness of Georgia Harper. The writeup on another page gives the talented actress great credit and also mentions the whole company. They have added two gentlemen and one lady since leaving us.
