AN Indian, who has recently returned from England, where he took part in a wild Western melodrama, has related some of his experiences in London, says the Province Journal, "An Englishman," the Indian says, "thinks that a red man can run from 200 to 225 miles a day without effort. He thinks an Apache can overtake a deer. In fact, I read in London a short story describing how in a 15-mile run an Apache caught a deer, choked it to death and ate its heart raw. The English believe that an Indian is so generous he would give away his clothes on his back. I was accosted by hosts of beggars in London, and they couldn't understand why I didn't hand out a half-crown to each of them. They also think an Indian will endure the severest pain, without flinching, out of pride. A young English girl stuck a pin in my leg at a restaurant one night and was surprised when I said 'Ouch' and swore."

Dr E. M. Clark left Sunday for Portland, where he will practice his profession. The doctor's many friends here will always be pleased to see him and wish him success in his new home.—Argus.
