Henry Blackwell was in the city last Sunday. He informed The Times-Herald that he had over 900 head of steers started on the road to Warner Valley where he would deliver them to a stockman. Horton arrived here Wednesday from his home in Diamond and left the following day on his return accompanied by his wife and little daughter who had been visiting in this city for several weeks. Mr. Horton got kicked by one of his horses just after driving into the barn upon his arrival, but luckily it was not with enough force to break any bones. His leg was quite badly bruised.

J. R. Jenkins, accompanied by his family and Mrs. Frank Turner, came in from his Happy Valley home last Tuesday. Mr. Jenkins reports stock in his section doing well and the spring wool clip exceptionally fine and satisfactory. He met A. S. Swain just as the latter was leaving this city and contracted for his wool clip. Mr. Jenkins is in a position to take up any other clips that have not been disposed of.

The Georgia Harper Co. arrived here Wednesday night, having come down from Harney after playing that same evening. This popular company opens an engagement in this city tonight, the first production being Zaza. They are the same jolly and fun-loving people and are much pleased to be again with their Burns friends. This office is seriously contemplating going into mourning, however, for Sam Meharry did not return with them. They have added new talent to the company to take Sam's place and he will not be so much missed on the stage, perhaps, but this office was headquarters for Sam last summer, and his good natured phiz is sadly missed. "Horace Greely" showed up though and the office will be swept.
