vey of the coast line from Yaquina bay south to the state line and north to Nehalem bay. The gap left between Nehalem and Seaside will, it is said, be built by the present management of the Astoria & Columbia River road, and the Nehalem extension is already being surveyed from Seaside.

This disposition of the railways known as the Hammond roads in Oregon is the most logical solution of all the puzzling reports that have recently been in circulation on the coast and in Wall street concerning the sale or extension of the Corvallis & Eastern. It is said the Oregon Coast & Eastern people can utilize both the Hammond lines to excellent advantage and that immediate possession of the properties would give the company a nucleus from which to go ahead rapidly with construction of its coast system and proposed line eastward through Oregon.—Journal.

War on Sheep Scab.

About 50 delegates to the Oregon Woolgrower's Association met last week at Condon in their ninth annual session. President R. R.
Keys of Wheeler County, was in the chair, and H. C. Rooper, secretary. The gathering was attended by distinguished guests and everything will be in readiness for their trip. These gentlemen are going to acquaint themselves with conditions and meet the proprietors of the great Harney county to present indications and instructions taken the fair will be largely based on the program for each county and the most interesting distinguished guests hope to see as many of our people as possible and the Times-Herald hopes to see many of our people and child visitors county will be able to visit the county during the time these men are with us. Had it not been definitely known sooner that the Governor would be present it would have come from a discussion that will now not receive the time to attend.

Another important matter that received attention is the plan of the Interior Department to cut down by 50 per cent the number of sheep in the forest reserves. It was decided to commend that the cut be not more than 25 per cent.

The sheepmen also went strongly on record with a clear cut resolution favoring establishment of a jute mill at the State Penitentiary for the manufacture of wheat sacks.
A resolution was adopted in favor of the passage of a law placing a license on sheep entering the state between the months of April 1 and August 1.

The Breath of Life.

It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chief study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A.
Stephens, of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes:
"Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough for two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by the City Drug Store.
Price 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle

Starving to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. M. Ry H.
Walters, of St. Clair St. Columbus O., was literally starving to death.
She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep, and not until I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters, with the wonderful results that improvement began at once and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Gwaran-

HIS IMPRESSION OF HARNEY

BAKER CITY MAN SEES GREAT POS-SIBILITIES HERE.

"It is a Wonderful Section and the People Hardly Realize the Possibilities Of the Future."

The following letter was written by John G. Foster from Dyke, Nevada and published in a recent issue of the Baker City Democrat:

The trip from Baker City to Dyke by private conveyance, at this season of the year is a pleasant one, especially to one who has never passed through that section of the county.

Passing over the divide by Whitney, Tipton and Austin, through an immense forest of white pine timber, you drop into the John Day valley at Prairie City. Here you hear nearly as much railroad talk as you do in Baker City—especially as to when the Sumpter Valley railway will enter the valley, and where.

The John Day valley is certainly one of the most prosperous appearing sections in Eastern Oregon.
The cattle are fat; the pigs are in clover (or alfalfa) and the people seem contented and happy. The towns of Prairie City, John Day and Canyon City are steadily growing and street and other public improvements are noticeable on every hand. From Canyon City you pass through another timber belt, across Bear valley to Silves valley and then over a low range of mountains into the great Harney valley —destined to become one of the richest valleys in the entire state, and that, too, in the near future.
Here we saw acres of ripening grain "raised without irrigation." Eighty-four bushels of barley to the acre! Just think of it! Why, such results would be enough to cause such "dry farmers" as Bond, Cowgill, Wright, Lillard and others to shout for joy. But the writer noticed that where this was being accomplished, great ponds of water stood here and there throughout the valley, so he is still further confirmed in the opinion that "dry farming" in Eastern Oregon is all right, provided you have plenty of water for surface or sub-irrigation.
It is a wonderful section, and the people hardly realize the possibilities of the future. Miles and miles of rich sage brush land that will some day come under the plow.
Practically all the streams and nearly all the immense bodies of hay land are now owned by the great Miller & Lux stock company, but when that immense estate is settled and parceled out it is believed that conditions will be different—more favorable to the small rancher and farmer. Some day, and in some way the waters of the great lakes, with which the valleys of Harney county are dotted with will be utilized, or artesian flows will be tapped, which will transform the great sage brush districts into fields of yellow grain.

The large borax deposits will also add their proportion to the wealth of the county. Perhaps few of the busy housewives of Baker City know that the borax they use is likely produced so near at hand. Thirty-five miles from the Nevada state line is located large borax works which produces tons and tons of borax, gathered from these deposits on the surface of the earth and purified into marketable condition. The borax is then shipped by big freight teams to Winituanuca, Nevada, and thence by rail to the markets of the United States in San Francisco and Portland, and to the eastern markets, and no doubt a certain percentage finds its way back to within a short distance of where it is produced. There are other large deposits in Harney county that will soon be producing a portion of the world's supply.

When you arrive at the line dividing the two states—Oregon and Nevada—you find two towns less than a half mile apart. Denio on the Oregon side and Klondyke on the Nevada side. Near here is located the Pueblo mine, recently sold for $75,000 and many other prominent properties carrying copper, gold and silver. A drive of thirty miles lands you at the new mining camp of Dyke. Having just arrived in camp will reserve our opinion of the gold fields until further investigation.

Monday Clean-Up Day.

The Development League has again issued its "mandates" and designated next Monday morning clean up day in order to have our streets in shape for fair week. The city authorities will co-operate with the club in this matter and have already ordered the marshal to look into the condition of back yards where combustible debris is allowed to accumulate behind business houses and is so dangerous in the way of starting fires. Every citizen should take active interest in this and make clean-up day general in every respect.

Why Should Cows Have Horns?

Horns are often considered a distinct ornament to cattle, but gen-eralists tell us that cattle were originally hornless and we are now getting back to that original condition.
The Angus Galloway and Red Polls are increasing in popularity among beef-raisers, and a fixed preference for polled cattle is rapidly spreading. It has led to the development of the Polled Durhams, which are really hornless Shorthorns; the Polled Herefords and the Polled Abi-gions. Buyers will give more for polled than horned beef cattle. The horns may be removed in early calfood by the use of caustic potash, but this is somewhat tedious.
They may be removed in adult life by the use of horn-clippers, but this is really a barbarous practice. The best way is to breed them off by establishing hornless breeds. It is a little surprising that the beef-raisers should be so far ahead of the dairymen in this respect. We have six polled beef breeds and no polled dairy breeds. Nearly all dairymen take off the horns by artificial means. Why not have polled Jerseys, Holsteins, Guernseys, Ayrshires and Dutch Belts? They look better and behave better.—

BRING IN YOUR PRODUCE

EXCELLENT CROPS SHOULD BRING GOOD EXHIBITS.

Fair Management Anxious to Show Outside People What We Can Raise—Our Premiums Average Well.

The directors of the Fair Association are particularly desirous of a good exhibit of the products of this county at the fair next week and hopes the farmers will respond cheerfully. The good impression of outside people is certainly something to strive for, especially since it is the common impression on the railroad and Western Oregon that nothing particular can be raised in Harney county. We have had excellent crops this season and there is no reason why we should not have a creditable display of our products. Some may consider the premiums small, but it should be remembered that we do not get appropriations as do other fair districts, and even then we compare favorably with those that do get state aid. Only in a very few instances do the other district fairs give larger premiums, while in some particular classes we exceed the amounts given by others.

It seems that a few do not consider this matter in the right light and are prone to take into consideration only the value of the animal or article that is exhibited, rather than the relative importance of the industries represented. It is not the intention of the management to show any favoritism in any respect but to give each and every industry of the county an equal chance in accordance with its importance.

No fair has yet given a premium with a view of the relative worth of the article or animal exhibited, but in accordance with the nature of the industry and its relation to the section.

Our local fair premiums equal those given by our state fair and are larger in some respects than those offered by the National Cattle Growers Association.

After all it is not a matter of pre- miums that people look at or ex- pect at a county fair, but the great good it does the entire section by way of comparison and the opportunity to get in closer touch with her varied industries. People engaged in farming, stock raising etc are the ones mostly benefited in making these exhibits and the great majority are coming to real- ize it. The matter is new to the people of Harney, but in a few years they will take a greater inter- est.

In view of the fact that we will have a number of the public men of our state present it is sincerely hoped our people will raise to the occasion and show them that Har- ney county can raise something to show "Hell, hay and petitions"

Hon. Jefferson Myres and Hon.
Henry Blackman are both on the Oregon commission to the Jamestown exhibition to be held in Virginia next year. They will want some of Harney county's products and perhaps will make selections during their visit here next week.
Let us have something worthy of selection that we might be proud of and will be a credit to the great Harney county.

G. W. Clevenger has the most extensive and well selected stock of wall paper ever seen in this county. The variety and design, as well as quality are all that one could desire. He is also receiving a fine line of furniture and has one of the neatest furniture displays ever seen.

W. H. Brown the popular pension attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt. says:
"Next to a good pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills." He writes: "they keep my family in splendid health." Quick cure for headache constipation and biliousness. 25c. Guaranteed at City Drug Store.

W. R. Allen, manager of the Speed Association, has been a busy man during the past two weeks getting the track in shape for next month. A commodious grand stand is being erected on the north side of the track and stables are being built on the west end of the track for the accommodations of the race horses.—Grant County News.
