JULIAN BYRD, Manager.

Cattlemen are receiving an advanced price for their stock at this time and considerable beef is being moved which will have a good effect upon the country in general.

The Blue Mountain Eagle quotes Wm. Hanley as saying "the boom is on in Harney County."

The Times Herald takes a pride in advancing the interests of not only Burns, but the entire Harney County is much gratified to see the results in which it has played a part.

Relics of Bannock War

A few days ago P. Bravo brought in and left at Palace saloon a skull which is connected to a reminiscence of the bannock war of 1878.

This Indian, as the story goes, became separated from the band and was shot by vaqueros and his body afterward thrown into the lake.

lements of the most forbidding deserts is shown by the activity in settlement in the extremely arid portions of Wyoming.

Tracts of dry land in southern Wyoming, which have been considered absolutely worthless for half a century, are now being settled upon and converted into homes under the "dry farming" methods now becoming popular in the central west.

The Cheyenne Tribune says of land office business in that city: Register W. E. Chaplin of the Cheyenne land office reports that the demand for land in the vicinity of Cheyenne is unusually large and that the number of entries being received for homesteads in southern Laramie county is greater than ever before.

During the past month not less than 22 filings have been made for land in the southern part of the county. All of these are made under the homestead act and will be transformed into farms under the dry farming system.

All of this is government land and, with the 40,000 acres to be settled up through the Cedar Valley Land company, which yesterday brought 20 Iowa farmers here, and other private enterprises, it does not require a stretch of imagination to picture Cheyenne in the center of a large and prosperous agricultural community.

Winter Course in Agriculture.

The Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis will offer this winter, as usual, two special courses along agricultural lines, which will be designated The Short Course in Agriculture, and the Special Dairy Course.

The Short Course in Agriculture will open on Tuesday, January 8, 1907, at 9:00 A. M., and continue two weeks, closing on Friday, Jan. 18. The course consists of a series of popular lectures along lines suited to aid horticulturists, dairymen, and others engaged in agricultural pursuits in developing the great natural resources of our State.

The Special Dairy Course will also open on Jan. 8, 1907 and will continue six weeks, closing Feb. 15, 1907. The purpose of this course is to familiarize students with the modern forms of dairy apparatus, and teach the underlying principles of the production, care, and manufacture of milk into butter and cheese.

Students will meet for work six days per week. The forenoon of each day will be devoted to practical work in the dairy rooms. In the afternoon of each day, except those devoted to cheese making, lectures and recitations will occupy the time during two or three hours.

In addition to the regular teaching force, the services of an expert cheese maker, Mr. L. B. Ziemer, have been secured. Mr. Ziemer is a graduate of the Wisconsin Dairy School, and for a time was traveling dairy instructor in that State.

There will be no charge for tuition, and no educational entrance requirements, for either of these courses. Board and room can be had in Corvallis at $3.00 to $4.00 per week.

A cordial invitation is extended to all persons interested to enroll in one of these courses. An outline of the course can be had for the asking. For further information address:

SECOND PRIZE ESSAY.

Written by Agnes Cawfield on the subject "Of What Benefit to Harney County is the Annual Fair."

Miss Agnes was awarded second prize. The county is benefited by the fair in many ways a few of which I will endeavor to point out. The finest products from all over the county are brought and displayed at the fair.

Many more people are encouraged to try the same industries and thus the amount of production is increased. Strangers visiting the fair see what can be done and are encouraged to come here and settle and they encourage many others to come here and make homes.

The fair draws the attention of other counties and makes them recognize us. It also furnishes entertainment and as we all need some recreation this is a good way to get it.

The fair helps to beautify our county also. The competition which it causes makes the people cultivate their lands. Every one knows that in passing through a country few things are more beautiful to look upon than broad fields of waving grain; groves of fruit trees, in bloom or laden with luscious fruit; herds of cattle and bands of horses in green pastures or dotted over the hills.

beautiful. Many people enjoy looking at the vegetable and fruit display; the works of art, and fancy needle work, and all the other displays of the house hold department.

I think every one can see from all these things what a great benefit the fair is to the county. It causes every thing to become more beautiful and every one more industrious and happy. One of our professors has so often tried to impress upon us the important part the farmer plays in sustaining our Nation.

Now before closing I will ask if competition is not of as great importance as I have made it appear in this essay; why offer a prize to cause the pupils to exert their minds in competing for it? As this causes competition even in our school work.

HIGH SCHOOL LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Literary Society met yesterday afternoon at quarter of three o'clock. The roll call found all members present and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The program for the afternoon was as follows: Song by Society; Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep; Vocal Duet; Byrd King and Helen Swain; Current Events; Emma Miller; Reading; Zella Irving; Song by Society; Nellie Gray; Debate: Resolved, That Benjamin Franklin did more for the United States than Thomas Jefferson. Those on the affirmative were Mason Smith, Ada Neal and Mildred Hulbert; those on the negative Joe Thompson, Alice Sweet and Clarence McKinnon.

The president appointed Blanch Terrill critic; Genet Gowen, Effie Hill and Willie Gould judges; they decided in favor of the affirmative. Vocal Solo by Myra King; Song by Society; Conrades; Byrd King, Zella Irving and Joe Thompson were appointed to prepare a program for Friday, November 2. We adjourned at 3:40.

J. E. Wallace came in from his hunting trip late Saturday evening and left the following morning for the railroad. He goes home in a round-about way and had to make the railroad in a certain time in order to make his ticket good.

"I dunno whether I should prefer to marry a marks or a millionaire when I grows up, but mother says I'll 'ave to be pertickler careful and not chuck myself away."
