

IN GOOD SHAPE

fore he was foaled.
It came about in this way: Down in Ohio there was a mare called Mabel that produced a colt that trotted in 2:27 as a four-year old. George Ketcham, of Toledo, hearing the mare was to be sold at auction, decided to bid on her up to $1500. But on sale day two other men, acting in concert, became mixed in their bidding, each thinking the other was the man that had the auctioneer's eye, so that Ketcham got the mare for $250. When she foaled Cresceus the youngster was a most ungainly, common-looking specimen of a trotting horse. No one on the farm regarded him of any possible value.
As a yearling the homely colt was attacked by epizootic, and to relieve him a big blister was put on his neck. As soon as it began to heal it itched, and the colt walked to the half-door of his stall and rubbed the neck until a horrible gapping wound that exposed the windpipe had been made.
"Kill him" were the instructions. Now, if there is one point where the average stock-farm employe balks it is at killing a horse, unless such action would be humane. So, as the colt looked better the day following his sentence to death, he was allowed to hang around—and got well at once. Then he was broken to harness and it was weeks before he could trot at all, but finally he balanced himself and then he could step in good shape for a yearling. And then began the wonderful series of things that Cresceus did—the winter before he was a two year old—think of that—he was driven on the snow at Toledo and could beat most of the fast ones there. In the Spring he continued to be trained, and in no time at all it was seen that he would be up to a race. He started twice that season and won his second race in 2:37, 2-36, beating a field of 15. The average horseman would have seen to it that such a colt got a nice letup until the following spring, but Cresceus was worked steadily on the snow. Early the following June he was started in a race with eight other three-year-olds and won.
Made Happy for Life.
Great happiness came into the home of S. C. Blair, school superintendent at St. Albans, Vt., when the little daughter was restored from the dreadful complaint he names. "My little daughter had St. Vitus' Dance, which yielded to no treatment but grew steadily worse until as a last resort we tried Electric Bitters; and I rejoice to say, three bottles effected a complete cure." Quick relief for nervous complaints, general debility, female weaknesses, impoverished blood and malaria. Guaranteed by City Drug Store. Price 50c.
Col. C. E. S. Wood, writer, poet, sportsman, politician, agent for the W. V. & C. M. W. R. Company and all round gentleman, drifted into Prineville last Thursday, while on his way home to Portland from an extended hunting trip into Harney county. The colonel was in shooting garb but was instantly recognized here, notwithstanding the disguising effect of this picture esque costume. He was traveling light, having nothing with him but his trusty shotgun.—Prineville Review.

WANTS A SORRY EXHIBITION.

the once mighty trotter floundered on the track at Burns, Ill. the other day and in 2:15 the sorry animal in all probability was the best in the turf history of that trotter that ever lived, indeed was a pity and had been sent out for exhibition made with that when the appointed day of the stallion would be halfway decent condition. In 2:15 by Cresceus class trotter beating the day of the Galesburg Cresceus, the king of all that ever lived, a horse with the wind, the courage and the intelligence of a dog, sent to give an "exhibition" when the man who in the orange knee full will suit his own takes a sound horse show speed. Cresceus' record of 2:02 and a half victories to his credit in other parts of the world, crowching around a table track in 2:15 to secure a dollar! No wonder when at Galesburg was out dignified instead of

GOING TOWARD LAKEVIEW

OREGON EASTERN RAILROAD SURVEYORS IN FIELD.

Eighteen Men at Alkali Lake Headed in That Direction—Chief Wagoner Visits That Thriving City.
Mr. T. L. Wagoner, head engineer of the Oregon & Eastern railroad, returned to Lakeview as was stated in The Examiner last week that he would. While he was very careful in what he said regarding the company's business, he gave out the statement to The Examiner in an interview that the Oregon & Eastern railroad Co. has three crews of surveyors at work in Eastern Oregon running out lines for that road. One crew he has now at Alkali lake, about 40 miles due north of Lakeview, coming this way, and would be here in a month or six weeks. They will run from Alkali down to Abert Lake, thence along the lake shore to the lower end of the Chewaucan marsh, touching a point west of the Lost Cabin mining district, and about the nearest point possible to reach to the mines with a railroad, thence south to the S. F. Colvin ranch on Crooked Creek, up that creek and cross over the low pass into Goose Lake valley at the north, and to Lakeview.
He said the road would be built at least to Lakeview, and possibly to the State line. When asked if he contemplated going still further south he would not state, but from a closer "quizzing" we drew from him his opinion of the extension of the N. C. O. north, from which the conclusion could be formed that he did not care to see that road make very rapid headway, and this would mean that he preferred the territory between here and Likely left for his company. He went to Likely and returned direct to Lakeview, and from here would not state positively where he would go, but it is presumed that he is satisfied with the route through this valley and will now turn his attention temporarily to the other crews of surveyors, one of which is in the neighborhood of Christmas Lake, the extreme north end of Lake county. This crew is pulling for the Deschutes river. The junction is to be at Wagonite. One crew is in Harney valley. Mr. Wagoner would not say what roads would connect with either east or south, but it is almost certain that Harney knows about this. He suggests that some time the Southern Pacific Co. might buy the N. C. O. and make a standard gauge of it. When asked who was back of the Oregon Eastern, he made the stereotyped answer that "he didn't know." He talked of the Southern Pacific road from Natron across the Cascades and the contemplated connection with the California North-western, or Weed road at Klamath Falls. He also spoke in a sneering manner of the Oregonian's recent statement that J. J. Hill would build a road through Goose Lake valley and down Pitt river.
Mr. Wagoner is a nice man, pleasant to talk to and talks as freely as consistency permits a man in his position.—Lakeview Examiner.

DRAFT HORSES WANTED.

The Chicago Livestock World says of the erratic horse market of that city this week:
Cutting out the recent demand for cavalry mounts and a closed outlet for southern stuff has made those classes a drug and they are $10 @ 15 lower, with practically no outlet. Drafters on the other hand, are strong.
Anything bleached, common or on the light driving order is not wanted. To be brief, it is a good market for horses in a class and a notoriously bad one for stuff that cannot be classified. Only by shipping out a lot of stuff on the unpopular order could a clearance be effected. All markets report a similar glutted condition as regards this light driving stuff.
A man in the trade said: "There are a lot of customers here this week looking for big rugged work horses; also good express and full made wagon horses, but all other kinds are selling bad."
"Cavalry horse trade is over for the present, and there is absolutely no trade whatever for small southerners. It does not make any difference what they cost, you simply cannot sell them here at all. The medium driving horses are all losing plenty of money, with nobody wanting them even at a big loss."
"Our advice to the shipper is to go careful from now on and buy nothing but a good shaped horse with some size. You can buy a good shaped horse with size so that he may look high, and still will make money; and a small one or a medium driver, no matter how cheap you buy them, are bound to lose money. And from all accounts the small horse trade is just as bad at all other places as it is here; so we advise shippers not to buy them. But you need not be afraid to ship some good sized horses, as they can be sold to make a little money under present conditions."

NEW KIND OF WHEAT.

A series of experiments in hybridizing wheats has been conducted at the state experimental station at the Washington State college at Pullman by Professor Elliott and Mr. Lawrence, with gratifying results. The series has covered several years of work. By the crossing of two varieties of wheat, a new variety has been produced which it is believed is very well adapted to this country, states one report. It yielded 60 bushels per acre and stood up nicely, very little of it being shattered.
Other experiments have been tried by carefully sorting the varieties of wheat, and selecting for planting in a given plot, only a few of the best grains of a variety of pure winter wheat. The results of these last experiments have been very satisfactory at the three stations, at Ritzville, Quincy and Pullman.
The college has leased 50 acres of land, which has been sown with hybrid and selected winter wheat varieties, and more will be sown in the spring. Samples of hybridized and sorted wheats have been sent to farmers in various localities all the way from the British line to southern Idaho. Similar work has almost revolutionized wheat raising in other states, and it is hoped that the efforts of the experiment station staff may result in great economic value.

WITH FOREST SUPERVISOR IRELAND AT CANYON CITY.

Grazing Permits for Coming Year Will be Made and Allotments Held Good The Entire Season.
A stock meeting will be held at Canyon City, Oregon, November 15, 1906, beginning at 10 a. m., for the purpose of making grazing allotments in the Western Division of the Blue Mountains Forest Reserve for 1907.
Being interested, as you no doubt are, it is desired that you attend this meeting as it will be to your benefit to be present when the allotments are made, and if impossible for you to attend in person, you should, under written authority, delegate some one to act for you in the matter as the allotments made at this meeting must be abided by during the season of 1907.
Certain driveways will be established upon which stock must be kept while crossing the reserve.
This notice informs you in time that you may make arrangements relative to breeding, or for forage for the excess number so reduced.
Owing to the crowded condition of the ranges a reduction will be made in the number of sheep allowed to graze in the reserve during the season of 1907, viz:
All permits for less than 1000 grown sheep will be allowed to increase 20 per cent.
All permits for 1000 to 1200 will be allowed to increase to 1200.
All permits for 1200 to 2000 to be reduced 15 per cent provided that none are reduced below 1200.
All permits from 2000 to 4000 to be reduced 20 per cent provided none go below 2000.
All permits for 4000 to 10,000 grown sheep to be reduced 25 per cent as provided above.
All permits for over 10,000 to be reduced 50 per cent.
The Western Division comprises that part of the reserve lying south and west of The Dalles Military Wagon Road.
Very truly yours,
A. S. IRELAND,
Forest Supervisor.
A Year of Blood.
The year 1906 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tackett, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tackett's lungs that death seemed very near. Guaranteed for sore lungs, coughs and colds, at City Drug Store. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
$25.00 REWARD $25.00.
