

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

(Portland Correspondent) Anticipation fell short of the actual attendance and success of the Oregon Good Roads Conference held at the Portland Commercial Club on the 12th.

Rain was never more grateful to Oregonians than the showers of last Wednesday and Thursday, and messages from practically the whole state join in the thanksgiving.

Four hundred thousand feet of lumber were bought by Swift & Co. this past week for use on their town-site near the plant now being built.

Numerous meetings of the committee in charge of entertaining the Oregon athletes soon to return from London bearing their world records from the Olympian games, have resulted in a decision to send the sporting editors of the three Portland dailies East to meet the athletes and escort them to the Coast.

Hon. C. J. Blanchard, of the U. S. Reclamation Service, is in Oregon and will spend thirty days inspecting the various Government irrigation projects.

Poultry is to have its due recognition at the Livestock Show in September. Over $300 in prizes is offered and the interest may be judged from the fact that already over one thousand entries are booked.
