H. B. Mace, water bailiff, has asked The Times-Herald to announce that those maintaining dams in the various streams must comply with the law this season.

When dams are closed it will be necessary to provide fish ladders and also place screens at the intake of irrigating ditches to prevent fish from going into them.

It would also call attention to the fact that fishing is not permitted within less than 600 feet of fishways.

Frank Stice, a man who has been held in the county jail charged with having burned the city jail at Drewsey, came up missing Tuesday morning. Deputy Sheriff Terrill found the jail door locked but no man inside nor was there any holes in the walls anywhere. Hugh Harris, the court house boss who "has it in" for the deputy sheriff, tried to make people believe the man had been starved so thin that he squeezed through the bars in the window. Hugh couldn't make that stick. The fact of the matter is the fellow must have made a key of mahogany with which to unlock the outside door. He was not locked in the steel cage at night as the charge on which he was held was not serious and no one thought he would attempt to escape. He had carefully locked the door again after he got out. Sheriff Richardson has gone out to look for him and in all probability will soon have him behind the bars again.

INTEREST IN OIL PROSPECTS. Since the explosion of gas at the John Leake place there has been more or less discussion of oil prospects in this valley and several hundred acres in that vicinity have been located by local people as oil land and no doubt the prospects will be tested within a short time to ascertain just what is there. Archie McGowan and H. C. Smith spent several days in that section this week making investigations and as a result they feel confident this is an oil belt and have located a large body besides securing options on more or less deeded land.

Mr. McGowan states that the well on the Leake place burns continuously although the small pipe seems to be almost completely clogged. He estimates that the flow is sufficient even under these conditions to furnish light and heat for Mr. Leake's home. At the Venator place, a little over one mile distant the well has a strong flow of gas and Mr. Haley further to the south sunk a well to the depth of only 60 feet not long ago and the water tasted so strong of oil that it could not be used for domestic purposes.

Mr Smith and A. O. Faulkner, C. E., left this morning to make further investigation and Mr. Smith will locate more claims.

Number 9. The Beneficial Boomerang. You give your home bank your business and receive in return your share of the community's benefit, besides immediate and direct personal service from the bank.

An intelligently managed bank that has ample capital with which to do business is a decided benefit to the community. Each individual man and woman is better off for the bank's existence.

This is what the bank does: Keeps the people's money safely. The people's money is made more productive. The people receive most of the benefits.

Each man's business, given to his home bank, adds just that much more to the advantage of the community in general. When the farmer is able to secure capital to advance his interests, the people are benefited. When the business man is able to get funds to carry on his business, the people again are benefited.

This bank aids all classes, and by so doing is a benefit to the entire community. Whatever business you give the bank helps your business and the business of the community. The better the condition of the community, the better it is for you individually. Think this over.
