

MAY PRODUCE ALFALFA SEED

FORMER RESIDENT RECOMMENDS ITS CULTIVATION IN THIS VALLEY.

Successfully Grown Under Similar Conditions And on Poorer Soil—Should Not be Irrigated When Saved for Seed.

The following letter was recently received by J. C. Foley: My dear sir:—Your kind favor of recent date has been duly received and contents carefully and judiciously noted and in reply I am constrained to say that so far as I can forecast events at this present writing, I shall in all probability be unable to make the journey to your city before the close of the year.

Alfalfa seed can be had here for about 12 1/2 cents per pound. But say! Harney may some day become the greatest alfalfa seed producing region in the west. Alfalfa seed is the mortgage lifter of this valley, and this seed is produced on land that is worthless for any other purpose. It will not grow grain or hay and very little pasture, and the growing of alfalfa seed has not in the least diminished the area developed to grain and hay and yet the alfalfa seed grown in this valley brings in more money than the beef cattle.

Now Harney has the climate and thousands of acres of ideal land for the production of alfalfa seed. The land must be too dry to make other crops profitable and the alfalfa must not be irrigated and the first crop must be left for seed, no hay should be cut from the field that is designed to make seed.

The alfalfa should be drilled in rows from two to three inches in depth and should be sown as early as the ground is in good pliable condition. The ground must be dry enough so that the alfalfa will not grow over two feet in height, will not lodge but stand erect and for seed purposes the plants should be rather thin on the ground, not so thick for hay. It is a mistake to cut the first crop for hay and expect to get seed from a second crop.

GOOD ROADS MOVE SPREADS

SOUTHEASTERN OREGON COUNTIES ARE ALL IN LINE.

Klamath Falls and Lakeview Unite to Secure Highways Along Lines Proposed by The Court of Harney County.

A press dispatch from Klamath Falls says: Klamath County people are determined to make this city the traffic gateway between Portland and Southeastern Oregon trade territory and in that effort has the moral and material support of the County Courts of Lake and Klamath counties and the business men and shippers of Lakeview. At the quarterly meeting of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce Thursday night the sentiment of the people to get the work started was made clear and the County Court of Klamath county has taken an unequivocal position in favor of prosecuting the improvement without delay to build wagon roads that will make freighting from Klamath Falls to the interior possible and bring to this point the wool product of the great interior range region of Southeastern Oregon.

Noting that some lazy "want to get rich quick" inhabitant of the Great Inland Empire may profit by these few pointers, I am my kind sir,
Your most humble servant,
A. C. FINN.

MEETS AT WEISER APRIL 30

OREGON-IDAHO DEVELOPMENT CONGRESS THERE NEXT.

Planning a Meeting in Butte Later to Interest That Section in Extending Road to Connect With Boise-Cool Bay.

The Weiser Signal announces the Oregon-Idaho Development Congress meeting at Weiser on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 30th, May 1st and 2nd. They also report the meeting of the executive board of the Southern Idaho Commercial Clubs, Saturday May 1st. The Weiser Club has decided to make this a big successful meeting and are working with might and main for a big time. Friday and Saturday will be used to carry on the business program and Sunday will be devoted to an excursion trip on the P. & I. N. Vale should have a big delegation present. Three more monthly meetings are scheduled ahead of us. One in May at Caldwell, one in June at La Grande and one in July at Burns. We are informed the next meetings may be about as follows:—one in Eugene and one in Butte Montana. The meeting in Butte will be held to interest the Butte people in an extension from Butte to Boise, of the proposed railway from Coos Bay to Boise and thus bring it in connection with several different competing lines that want an outlet to the coast. The prospects look bright for the freedom of the people from a badly bottled up condition owing to the scarcity of railroad accommodations in Oregon and Idaho.

FROM WAVERLY.
Dr. Denman passed through Monday in his automobile.
Several new comers have arrived. One of them is going to build immediately.
David Williams spent Sunday at Haarstrich's.
William Schefland visited the Narrows Monday.
Mr. Brombough is working for Oren Thompson.
The stagerdriver's buggy was crowded Monday, including one passenger, two suit cases and an orphan calf.
Carl Horsman has been improving his desert claim. He excavated a ditch three miles long that will be used to irrigate the land. Mr. Horsman has finished fencing, and will have some of the land under cultivation this year. He is the boy who will succeed.

L. J. Gibson visited Mike Hailsey, Sunday.

William Schefland called at Mr. Williams', Sunday.

Messrs. Horseman and Haarstrich made a trip to Burns Monday.

William Grant and John Patchin are cutting posts.

"Billy" Caperton passed through Wednesday driving horses. Mr. Caperton was at Haarstrich's Friday and said he would have forty acres under cultivation this year. "Billy" is very favorably impressed with our country; thinks the prospects for oil is good.

The geese have returned to the Lake.

D. A. Brakeman has been hauling lumber.

Ed. Maheur went to Lawen Sunday.

We hear that the U. S. deputy game warden will reside at Lawen. That officer was at Mr. Armstrong's recently.

FIND CURE FOR WEED POISONING

That the sheepmen of Malheur county intend to make strenuous efforts to prevent the heavy annual loss of lambs from the eating of poisonous weeds, is the statement of State Sheep Inspector Lytle, who returned Sunday from an official visit to Vale and the adjoining territory.

According to Dr. Lytle the wool growers of that part of the state have suffered an annual loss of five or six per cent of their lamb crop in past years, from the eating of poisonous weeds. Yellow canas, lupin and larkspur, are the weeds which have caused the greatest loss.

Recently an antidote was discovered by veterinarians which cures from sixty to 70 per cent of the diseased sheep. This preparation comes in capsules and is administered by dissolving the capsule in water and then giving it to the affected sheep. If given in time the cure is certain.

Dr. Lytle has recommended this to the sheepmen of that vicinity and having declared that it was the best thing obtainable for the treatment of poison cases, a Vale druggist ordered 40,000 capsules and upon their arrival sold the entire order in one day. He immediately put in an order for 80,000 more and it is probable that the greater part of these will be snapped up as fast as they arrive. Some of the woolgrowers however, are buying more than they can possibly use. For instance one man took 10,000 capsules, which number is sufficient to cure more sheep than he will have poisoned in two or three years.

The loss from poisoning seems to have been growing greater on the ranges of Malheur county in recent years, but the state sheep inspector is unable to say whether this was due to the spread of the weeds or to the fact that the range is being eaten off more closely.

The confining of the loss to lambs is attributed to the belief that grown sheep acquire an instinct which induces them to leave poisonous weeds alone, while lambs evidently cannot resist the bright flowers and eat them in preference to grass.—East Oregonian.

My Optical Department.

This is one part of my business that I am proud of. I have a method of testing eyes that is all my own, and is so simple and quick to get right results that I call it the "Common Sense Method." I have had years of experience in fitting glasses, and with "Common Sense Methods" have had best of results where others failed.

After having several opticians in Portland test my eyes and fail I finally went to Mr. Salisbury and in one third of the time it took the others he had me fit to perfection. Four of my family are wearing Mr. Salisbury's glasses and are giving the best of satisfaction.—T. MONROE, Light Inspector, Portland Lighting Co.

I can truthfully say Mr. Salisbury's glasses are giving me better satisfaction than any I have ever had.—MRS. H. O. CARPENTER, Portland, Ore.

If you are in need of glasses you can tell yourself if any of the following symptoms occur it would pay you to have your eyes tested.

Do your eyes smart and burn after reading?
Do your eyes water after reading?
Do your old lenses tire your eyes?
Does your head ache on top or back of neck?
Do you have to hold your head sideways to get a clear vision?

If you have any of these ailments chances are you are in need of glasses. It costs you nothing to see. I test the eyes free of charge to you and the glasses you buy are backed by a guarantee and this guarantee is my WORD a little thing perhaps to you, but with it I expect to build up a reputation that will make it as good as gold if in need of anything in my line call
