ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR.

however, that the purses would not justify. Such an objection could likely be remedied if the horsemen would show a disposition to put their horses in shape in sufficient numbers to make contests interesting.

Public subscriptions have been raised among the business men of Burns for the purpose of amusement for fair visitors but these contributions have been given grudgingly by many and in a manner that is humiliating to the one who has solicited them.

The writer has just looked over an Ontario exchange and finds that the business men of that town have offered over 47 special premiums for their county fair.

So far Mr. Morris Schwartz, it the only man in Harney county who has come forward with special premiums. He has offered $5 for the best wheat raised on dry sage brush land in the valley or on bench land, and the same amount for potatoes grown under similar conditions.

past experience it is hard to get one to volunteer such a mission. One trouble is that people will contribute with strings to it. Race horse men want races; many enthusiasts would like to see baseball games, others bracing and roping contests.

The county fair is for the mutual benefit of all. It is not intended or conducted with a view of being personal benefit to anyone citizen or community.

HARNEY COUNTY NEEDS ROAD

for irrigated products without a railroad to haul them out.

Experiments seem to show that the Harney valley is adaptable to the growing of sugar beets - just as is the very similar Salt Lake valley in Utah. But the railroad must first give an outlet for the product.

Harney county, like Malheur county, has oil and gas possibilities, which may some day solve the fuel problem. An association of Burns business men are at present developing oil properties south of Burns, with apparently good prospects ahead.

Irrigation is not all in the future in Harney county. It is estimated that 70,000 acres are now being irrigated or partially irrigated. And the total amount of land possible of irrigation is placed at 500,000 acres.

The present estimated population of Burns, the chief town of the Harney country, is between 1000 and 1200. It has a slightly location on a little ridge above the valley, and like all central Oregon towns is vigorous and growing. It has large stores and strong banks, being the supply center for an immense area. The town has electric lights. The water is supplied by dozens of windmills, one for every two residences, it seems. Many of the business houses are of brick and stone. A $20,000 stone and brick business and lodge structure is now being erected, and still other buildings are under way.

SEE GREAT POSSIBILITIES.

A very pleasant reception was tendered Judge R. S. Lovett, head of the Harriman railroad system, and his party Saturday evening at the Masonic hall. It was an informal affair and for the particular purpose of having Judge Lovett meet the people rather than to learn anything definite regarding railroad building.

Had the latter been expected the meeting would certainly have been a disappointment. Judge Lovett spoke briefly, stating the party were most favorably impressed with the possibilities of Harney valley under proper conditions but before there was much development we would have to conserve and properly distribute the water that is now allowed to go to waste.

Judge Lovett made a good common sense talk and pointed out the necessity of bettering natural conditions as a greater inducement toward railroad building. The gentleman stated it would take an immense sum of money to build a railroad into this country and doubted whether it would pay at present.

Atty. W. W. Cotton made a few pleasing remarks and expressed an appreciation of the reception tendered the party. They had seen wonderful possibilities while on their trip through the valley on that day. Judge Webster also gave a short address dealing with the advantages of this section and what transportation would do for us.

The party left Sunday morning for Lakeview and later came North through the Deschutes country and Prineville, thence over the Cascades to Lebanon where they took the train to Portland.

Financial Troubles Disappear.

No one needs hesitate because of financial troubles to go to the seashore at this time. The very low fares offered by the O. R. & N. Co. for their special train excursion to the Beach insures a large crowd from Eastern Oregon. Stop-overs will be permitted on the going up trip of two days and a night at Portland as well as a stop-over on the return trip.
