here and devote his time to the farm.

MARRIED—In this city yesterday Mr. S. J. Midwinter and Mrs. May Cleveland, Rev. C. W.
Holloman performing the ceremony. Both the contracting parties are residents of Narrows where they will make their home.
They are very popular people who have many friends with whom The Times-Herald joins in extending best wishes.

The Times-Herald man doesn't mind his friends pasturing a few stock on his mountain place, but when they deliberately cut his fences and the stock cut up everything in sight, including his fruit trees and tramp down his berry bushes he's got a kick coming. It was also rather inconvenient when he found some one had "borrowed" his tent and one of the hammocks.
Of course he will appreciate it to have them returned at the convenience of the "borrower." In fact he contemplates getting an officer to help them return the things.

The Times-Herald man visited the beautiful little mountain farm of Henry Jennings this week and was most agreeably surprised at the magnificent crops growing. Some of the best winter wheat he has seen this season was grown by Mr.
Jennings besides a garden that cannot be surpassed in excellency. A young orchard with tree in fruit, bushels of currants, many gallons of strawberries and raspberries that will furnish a large supply with in a few days. Mr. Jennings has a fine timothy meadow and a fine stand of alfalfa. All the tillable land is covered by an inexpensive system of irrigation from large springs on the place. He is demonstrating what the possibilities of these small mountain places are and is reaping a benefit from his efforts. These mountain places are well protected by the surrounding mountains and therefore frost is not so injurious.

A PLEASANT EVENING.

Miss Cummins and Miss Dodson assisted by some of their friends gave a delightful evening to a large audience at Locher's hall Saturday evening. The entertainment was a success and very pleasing in every respect.
Part one consisted of vocal solos by Miss Cummins and readings by Miss Dodson in which each displayed fine talent that captivated the large crowd.
Part two was a short comedy,
"His Model Wife," which kept the people guessing all through as the situations were extremely laughable. It was well cast and each character was well sustained.

Those taking part spent a most enjoyable evening at the home of Miss Dodson Thursday evening with Miss Cummins as joint hostess. They were entertained by a short sketch "The Two Jolly Girl Bachelors," in which the young ladies gave an example of what generally follows the decision of two beautiful girls who have decided to renounce marriage and do something great for their sex. The finale was return to their lovers. This was followed by some music by Miss Cummins and Miss Bessie Swain.
Later dainty refreshments were served.
