Some of the questions before the convention will be wool tariff, railroad rates on sheep and wool, railway service on live stock, quarantine and control of contagious diseases, forest reserve grievances, scalp bounty law, wool sales and wool markets, mutton markets, sheep killing outrages. Local sheep men should attend this convention if possible.

DIED—At his home near Waverly Thursday morning, Oct. 26, W. H. Dildine, aged about 40 years. Mr. F. P. Cullen found the body about 9:30 that morning, and from its condition knew he had been dead only a few hours.

Dr. Denman was called, examined the body and announced that heart failure was the cause of death. Mr. Dildine came here four years ago in company with Mr. Cullen and they took up land near Waverly. Deceased lived alone and his friend found the body fully dressed in his cabin. The body was brought to Burns this morning and we understand will be buried this afternoon by the Odd Fellows, deceased being a member of that order in good standing. Mr. Cullen states the deceased has two sisters living in Seattle, but knows of no other relatives.

Tomorrow.

"Tomorrow," said the languid man,

"I'll have my life insured, I guess; I know it is the safest plan. To save my children from distress."

And when the morrow came around,

They placed him gently in a box; At break of morning he was found

As dead as Julius Caesar's ox. His widow now is scrubbing, floors, and washing shirts,

And splitting wood, and doing fifty other chores.

That she may rear her wailing brood.

"Tomorrow," said the careless jay,

"I'll take an hour, and make my will;

And then if I should pass away, The wife and kids will know no ill."

The morrow came, serene and nice.

The weather mild, with signs of rain;

The careless jay was placed on ice, Embalming fluid in his brain.

Alas, alas, poor careless jay! The lawyers got his pile of cash;

His wife is toiling night and day, To keep the kids in clothes and hash.

Tomorrow is the ambushed walk Avoided by the circumspet.

Tomorrow is the fatal rock On which a million ships are wrecked.

Enough said. See EGGLESTON, The Oregon Life man.
