

MEN I HAVE SKETCHED.

During the long experience of Major J. B. Pond as the most famous of all men who ever directed international lecture tours, it was quite natural that his friendships and acquaintances were very extensive...

Both Major Pond and Murat Halsted had given me letters to Henry M. Stanley, and it seemed to me that Stanley got more action on the day I presented these letters than on the day he found Livingston...

at first he seemed to feel that he had discovered in me (to his horror) a queerer animal than he had ever found in Africa.

Lord Salisbury looked like a composite picture of all the Lords. He was ponderous and heavy as to face, particularly on the upper eyelids...

Lord Salisbury had one decided advantage over many of the Lords; that is that he could sit in the sessions and you could never tell whether he was awake or asleep until you spoke to him.

He told me he had never been much of a traveler because it was a horrible waste of time to be always traveling. Mr. Stanley got rattled for a moment at this and, as if fearing that my object would be discovered...

Out of the Ginger Jar.

Most rat holes will bear looking into.

Isn't the lover who braves the storm a rain-beau?

It doesn't require an axe to cut an acquaintance.

Corn on the cob is more acceptable than corn on the foot.

There is no impropriety in using a spring wagon in the fall.

It isn't very long before the "good fellow" is a poor fellow.

Women are vain, but men are much more so and with far less reason.

Many a man is in great fear that he will get all that is coming to him.

We notice that most people who are consumed by curiosity still survive.

If our mistakes teach us nothing it were hardly worth the while to make them.

A horse is not of any use until it is broken, but it is different with a plow.

Though we may never have lost any, most of us are looking for money just the same.

A hen will spend a whole day getting up an egg that a hungry man can eat in a minute.

Here is a good question for lyceums to discuss this winter: "How much is enough?"

When you buy a balky horse you may not pay for any harness.

but you will be sure to get a halter.

The wise man does not let his wife hear him boast that he is a good manager; she knows better.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lavonia, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory."
