

STOCK SHOW SUCCESS.
(Portland Correspondent)

In quality of stock exhibited, in the number of thoroughbred animals entered, the prices realized by stockmen for their fancy exhibits, the attendance and the absorbing interest manifested in the show, not only by breeders of the entire Northwest but by the general public, the Fat Stock Show held by the Pacific Northwest Livestock Association at Portland last week was the most successful event of the kind ever held on the Pacific coast. Weather conditions were ideal and the attendance was estimated to exceed 6,000 people during the three days.

The quality of the stock was so far superior to that of last year that officials and stockmen were positive that grand champions of former shows would not have been eligible even for the smallest prizes this year. The champion carload, consisting of fifteen head of magnificent Herefords, was probably never surpassed, if equaled, at any show in the United States. This carload was sold at auction, bringing $10.10 per hundred pounds, almost $1 per hundred more than paid for the champion carload last year.

The grand champion steer, also a hereford entered by the University of Idaho, was a beautiful two-year-old of almost faultless proportions, and was sold for $1.20 per pound on foot, a price which has been exceeded but once in the United States for a single meat animal. The second prize steer was for 50 cents per pound.

A prominent feature of the show was the splendid exhibit of hogs from Central and Eastern Oregon, alfalfa-fed and wheat-finished in every instance, equaling in size and quality any similar showing made in recent years in the best corn and hog growing states of the Middle West. Prices for hogs averaging nearly 8 cents per pound.

The "Getting Acquainted" tour of the Idaho-Washington Development League and the special excursion to the Pacific Northwest Livestock Show at Portland proved to be the biggest event of its kind in the history of the Pacific Northwest. Representative citizens to the number of 288, with their families, visited Pasco, Vancouver, Portland, The Dalles, Hood River, Pendleton and Walla Walla. At each of the points outside of Portland they were shown special courtesies by representatives of the Commercial Clubs. At Walla Walla the pilgrims assisted in the closing program connected with the organization of the South Central Washington Development League. At Portland they were the guests of the Commercial Club and the business men of Portland on the 15th and on the next day were entertained by the Pacific Northwest Livestock Association at the fat stock show.

WHY HE WAS LATE.

"What made you so late?"
"I met Smithson."
"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."
"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."
"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"
"Sure, that is what he needs."
