W. L. Best was over from his Silver creek home the first of the week. On the road over Mr. Best found a large number of fir stakes scattered along that had been prepared for surveyors. They had been imported from the outside for they had been prepared by a hand saw and the material and manner of their preparation leads to the belief they are for a railroad survey. Mr. Best did not think much about them until he had passed a large number, when he got out of his rig and examined them. We have heard of no surveying crew in that territory recently, but it is evident there is something doing that will come out in the near future.

Many of the small orchards in this city and vicinity are over-loaded with fruit and as we are so anxious to have the fruit many will not thin them but rather prop up the trees. A telegram dated yesterday from Mrs. Marsden at Whittier, states that Dr. Marsden has been dangerously ill with bronchial pneumonia but from the telegram it seems he was improving. However Dr. Griffith is more or less concerned as to his condition as Dr. Marsden has not been well for some time and not able physically to combat a severe attack of pneumonia. MOTHERSHEAD & DONEGAN.

Dr. Griffith went over to Cow Creek yesterday where he was called to see J. O. Bunyard who had evidently been bitten by a rattlesnake, at least Mr. Bunyard thinks it must have been a snake bite, although he never knew when it happened. Last Sunday or Monday Mr. Bunyard was shooting rabbits and was standing by an old log barn peering around the side with his arm stretched along the side. Soon after he felt a pain in the arm and later going to the house and removing the clothing he found the arm swelling with marks near the shoulder and also large purple spots. He at once bound it up but was too ill to get out and call help. He was alone and it was 36 hours before he was able to get down to the Mahan place where he secured a quantity of liquor. When the doctor was finally called Mr. Bunyard was on the road to recovery and Dr. Griffith states he had every indication of being bitten by a rattlesnake. This is very unusual in this section as but few people have ever been bitten.

MOTHERSHEAD & DONEGAN.

H. J. Eggleston, the Bend harness and implement man, is in the city on business. He has recently sold a big 30-horse power traction coal oil burning engine to A. E. Murphy and it will be used for farm work on that place. It is a general purpose power and will draw an 8-gang plow followed by a harrow which will clean up and plow 15 acres each day. This is certainly a valuable machine for the farmer who can put in such machinery and farm on a large scale.

There will be moving pictures at Tonawama tonight and tomorrow night, but not under Tonawama management. A traveling picture man has arranged for two nights and he has some of the finest films to be seen anywhere, he states, and the price of admission will be 25 and 15 cents. Tonawama picture show will be put on just as soon as the proper service can be established and competent people to take care of the machines. It is the intention to give the people of Burns just as good service as the business will justify. Both picture machines will be put in the very best condition, an absolute fire proof lamp house, the electric wiring adequate and according to underwriters rules, so that there will be no possible chance for fire or accident, then the pictures will be given at regular intervals with established prices so the public will get just what is represented and advertised.
