REMEDY FOR CAREY ACT POINTED OUT

(Concluded From First Page)

Desert Land Board of the State of Oregon to adopt a policy in the future to require the issuance of a deed to the settler when settlement and reclamation are completed under the rules now in force, and requre the settler to give a first mortgage to the irrigation company to secure the unpaid water installments under the same terms stipulate in the contract."

Proposals to change the Oregon water code were defeated and the satisfaction of the congress with the existing code and its operation was expressed in the following language:

"Whereas, it appears highly important to the development of Oregon that a stable and consistent policy be pursued with respect to water rights and titles, and,

"Whereas, It appears that the water code has in general given satisfaction to the water users, and is considered to be far in advance of similar laws in other states, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Oregon Irrigation Congress that no radical change be made in the present system of laws relating to water, and, that the Legislature give most careful consideration to the various recommendations as made by the State Engineer, and this congress especially indorses the appropriation of additional funds for carrying on the adjudication of water rights by the Board of Control."

LATEST DEVELOPMENT LEAGUE NOTES

(From Our Portland Correspondent)

The lay of the Oregon hen has been the subject of much thought on the part of the regents of the Oregon Agricultural College and they will seek funds from the Legislature to establish a model poultry farm at Corvallis. The Average hen in the state lays about 50 eggs per year, while champion layers at the college have gone well past the 200 mark in a twelvemonth. It is desired to develop a laying strain of poultry, and to sell the fowls and their eggs at a reasonable price to farmers is the object aimed at in establishing the poultry ranch.

Fruit growers of the Rogue River Valley district have organized a co-operative association, which is expected to do much to bring about better marketing conditions. It is believed better distribution can be effected and the glut of markets avoided, thereby getting better prices for fruit.

The Government will provide for road building through lands in this state held in forests, reserves. Announcement was made this week that a total of $16,077 has been set aside for building roads in 13 forest reserves in Oregon.

Redmond had a notable celebration the past week when the big potato warehouse lately erected by the co-operative efforts of farmers in that district was opened. This building marks the beginning of a movement among the farmers of Central Oregon district whereby a better market is offered for their products. Potatoes and other crops can be stored here and sold in large quantities when the market is best.

To harness the Columbia River by means of a hydro-electric plant at Celilo, developing no less than 100,000 horsepower, is the project of a state senator, who will suggest his plan to the Legislature in a bill. He believes the states of Oregon and Washington should build and operate this power plant.

His Stomach Troubles Over

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? Sohn R. Barker, of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heart-burn, indigestion, and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Sold by All Dealers.

LOCHER BUILDING DESTROYED BY FIRE

and making tours of their premises to see that no embers or flying sparks had communicated the flames to their buildings.

The massive stone walls and piers that remain standing on the scene remind one of the ruins of some old time ruined castles. It shows the excellent break of stone structures to the spread of flames. The Times-Herald does not know what Mr. Locher will do respecting the erection of another structure on the site. The massive stone walls of the ground floor are still intact and with little work can be made as substantial and in fact more substantial than before.

The Times-Herald certainly feels that the work of those on that night is entitled to the highest praise. It cannot be personal in this respect other than to the ladies of the Auxillary and the other good women of the town, all of whom helped. Many made coffee and prepared lunch in their own homes and went out after worn out men who had been working. In this respect we wish to call attention to the generous work of George Foon, the Chinaman who has been a resident of Burns for so many years. He made coffee and insisted that the ladies take it out to the boys and then he would make more.

Valley View Items.

Jan. 17, 1913.

Improvements in Valley View are going steadily forward. Max Plath has bought a team and wagon built a barn and chicken house and built some fence which turns the County road down by the school house.

Barns seem to be quite the rage in Valley View this winter Lloyd Culp has built one and put an addition on his house. Wm. Welty and Geo. Cobb have each built a new barn these permanent improvements are what we like to see.

Mr. Richardson has organized a rabbit club which will help exterminate the pests.

Chas. Raycraft one of our homesteaders who went to Seattle sometime ago says he wishes he were back as Harney valley is good enough for him, it never fails people who live here awhile and go away are like a bad penny always come back.

We hear Henry Huntley who went to Seattle this winter has done gone an done it, yep, got married. Congratulations Henry.

Harry McCombs is holding down his homestead.

A. T. Raycrast is getting ready to build a large addition to his house, woodshed etc.

Advices Quarantine Against The Alfalfa Pest

Discussing the threatened appearance in some parts of Eastern Oregon of the alfalfa weevil, already such a pest in Utah, and the control measures under consideration, A. L. Lovett of the crop pest force of the Oregon Agricultural College says:

"The value of a quarantine is wholly theoretical, but surely it would be a step in the right direction to keep out any product of an infested district, such as alfalfa hay, though it is certainly but one of the many ready agents for the diffusion of the pest.

"Because of the many different avenues through which the pest might be introduced, some measure authorizing a competent person to investigate thoroughly any reported outbreak or suspicious district or shipment should be passed. This person should also have authority, when an infestation was found, to use whatever stringent measures were necessary to stamp out the pest in its incipient stage.

"Railway right of ways, where any legumes are growing, afford an excellent breeding ground for the stay beetle which drops from the passing car. From this unnoticed initial spot the pest may spread to adjacent fields. A measure which would encourage the cleaning up of railway right of ways is another step in the right direction.

"Remedial measures are, so far, strictly in the experimental stage. Rather than discuss these, I would urge a careful consideration of the serious nature of the alfalfa pest. I would urge growers to acquaint themselves as much as possible with the pest, and watch diligently for any sign of an injury similar in nature to that made by this weevil, and to report at once to the experiment station, giving all particulars as fully as possible, and enclosing samples when it is possible."

"A' BARKING UP A TREE"

(Concluded From First Page)

This is more of a problem than it appears, for it has to be bigger than a one man organizatin, therefore one individual cannot expect or command the confidence of all without showing he is capable of carrying out an undertaking, that it is feasible and not for personal gain.

Any man, or set of men, who can show the people they are able to carry to success any undertaking having for its purpose the advancement of this section in a commercial way or develop its resources, such as to place water on the dry lands and bring them to a high state of cultivation, thus furnishing homes and people, will find the people of this town and the entire county ready to give moral support.

Columbus Was Not First In America

The declaration of J. W. Babcock of the Anthropological society that history had improperly honored Christopher Columbus as the discoverer of America, and that this continent, or portions of it, was shown on maps drawn before the great discoverer was born, has divided the society into two camps. Mr. Babcock started the controversy in a lecture before the organization.

The coast of Florida and Cuba both were known to the Portuguese, Italians and Spaniards, Mr. Babcock asserted, long before Columbus set out on his voyage. He produced reproductions of maps dating as far back as 1414 to support his contentions. One of the maps was a reproduction of the work of Martin Behaim, in 1492, before Columbus returned from his voyage of discovery, showing both Cuba and Florida.

Mr. Babcock ascribed to the Atlantic currents the early discovery of the western continent at a date earlier than 1492. These currents, he said, set in past the Azores and would have swept a vessel to the shores either of Florida or Cuba.
