Advertising and Local Paper

The relation of the local paper and the advertiser should be congenial, as one is more or less dependent upon the other. When the advertiser places advertising in the local paper he expects results. The newspaper when it accepts advertising promises in effect that the paper has a local circulation commensurate with the rate charged.

Advertising should be given in good faith as it is accepted in good faith. It is purely a business transaction. The newspaper sells its space or services, to the advertiser, just as any one sells any other commodity.

There are three things for the advertiser, to bear in mind. First, he should map out a systematic advertising campaign and be persistent in carrying it out. Second, he should prepare his advertisements so they are attractive, interesting and convincing. Third, he must back up his advertising campaign with good service, or he cannot expect to hold his trade and get the best results out of his advertising.

The advertiser must realize that all responsibility for the preparation of the advertisements are with himself. If the advertisements have no merit no results should be expected. It is ridiculous to blame the newspaper when neither the advertisements nor conditions warrant results.

There is no one more interested in seeing advertisements profitable than the newspaper, as the advertising in the paper is what makes the publication of the paper possible, thus aiding in the dissemination of local news, the creation of local interest, and the building of the local community—all of which is necessary to the success of local business.

On the other hand there should be no one stronger in his friendship for the local paper than the local advertiser. The local newspaper is the best friend the local advertiser has. Hence the local paper should not be treated as an enemy, but rather as a friend and semi-partner in the task of business getting.

There is an undertone of sentiment that crops out occasionally against a private concern figuring on or putting in the irrigation and drainage systems for the necessary development of the Harney Valley. There is a sort of vague idea in some quarters that State or Federal aid should be sought. Under any method we cannot get away from the proposition that the land directly benefited must stand the cost of the improvement. It is very doubtful whether the U. S. Federal Reclamation service would ever undertake the construction of a system of irrigation to cover privately owned lands, as are all the lands included in the Silvies River project. In any event the enterprise would be long delayed as the service is short of funds even for the completion of projects already commenced. The state, considering itself morally bound under a Carey Act agreement has undertaken to fulfill its obligation by advancing the funds for the completion of the Columbia Southern Project, and that is all it will be able to do for the next two or three years. The state certainly will never be able to make a direct appropriation for the development of privately owned lands. An act as passed by the last legislature providing for the co-operation of the state and federal service in making preliminary investigations of the water resources for irrigation and power purposes. That simply means a survey, estimates and securing data, and the money so expended becomes a lien upon the proposed project which must be paid back before construction is undertaken. This preliminary work pertaining to the Harney projects has all been done by private parties, the greater part of which has become matter of public record and available for use. Should they fail in final promotion.

Were local conditions more favorable the Irrigation District plan provided by our state law could be worked out. This would require an expensive election and technical and routine court proceedings bound around with red tape and involves long delays. This seems almost impossible on account of conflicting interests.

After these matters have been settled the district must then do just what the private corporation proposes to do, that is thrash out the water right questions and proceed to secure reservoir sites, undoubtedly by condemnation. The district must dispose of its bonds for construction money, and if such securities could be marketed at all it would be at a discount which, at present, would more than equal the prospective profits of a private concern.

State Leader Of Agriculture Appointed

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Aug. 11.—The appointment of H. T. French as state agricultural leader, to have direct charge of farm demonstration and supervise the work of the county agriculturists, has been announced by R. D. Hetzel, director of the Extension division. In referring to the new leader Professor Hetzel said: "The college is giving the farmers of Oregon as their chief advisor a man who, for twelve years, was closely identified with the agricultural development of Oregon and thoroughly understands agricultural conditions in every part of the state. His appointment is an important step in the development of the extension service."

WE MAY HAVE A FAIR THIS FALL

A Meeting of Business Men Called for Monday Night to Discuss the Matter

While in Portland the manager of this paper found the Commercial Club very anxious to have an exhibit of the products of this county to send to the Eastern land shows and as those in charge were so insistent he promised to see that a creditable exhibit of agriculture would be gathered and sent down. He met with President Donegan and Secretary Loggan of the Commercial Club last evening and the matter was discussed. Sam Mothershead and Wm. Farre, the latter one of the old time directors of the Harney County Fair association, were also present and it was found that there is a decided interest among the business men of this place to have a fair this fall, especially since it is desirous of securing a display to send out to the land shows and after the matter had been considered for a time Mr. Donegan suggested a meeting of the business men, Commercial Club and stock holders of the Fair Association for Monday night at 8 o'clock to get an expression and see if it were possible to have a purely agricultural fair in connection with the school fair which is to be held in this city beginning Sept. 30.

There is $550 available for fair purposes, but this is not sufficient to cover the premium list of former years, therefore it was considered an agricultural fair, leaving out the livestock, might be financed, provided the business interests of Burns would show a disposition to help. Should it be decided to hold a fair it will be necessary for the stock holders of the Fair Association to elect a board of directors who will qualify and serve (those elected at the annual meeting last January refusing to serve.)

It is absolutely necessary that all that will help this enterprise present Monday evening and show a disposition to help or there will not be any fair—that's a "cinch," as a few men are tired of carrying the burdens of the exhibition without the support of those receiving direct benefit. It is up to the business men whether we have a fair or not.

Business Conditions Good In Harney County.

That business conditions in this section are satisfactory is reflected by the Government report of the First National Bank to the Comptroller of the Currency in response to his official call for statements at close of business Aug. 9th. In view of the fact that July and August are naturally quiet months in a business way in this section, the report of this solid institution is an excellent one, showing its affairs to be in splendid shape. The bank reports a capital and surplus of $100,000.00, a cash reserve of $110,980.78, while its resources total $539,615.75.

The First National is recognized as one of the strongest and most conservatively managed country banks in the Northwest. Ever ready to lend its assistance in a legitimate way towards upbuilding the business interests of this section, it has attracted a large clientele who appreciate the efficient service rendered, and the courteous treatment universally accorded all its patrons.

Three Governors to Meet And Talk Good Roads

It is the purpose of a meeting to be held in Eureka, Cal., Aug. 20, to organize a good roads association which shall embrace three states, Governor Lister of Washington, Governor West of Oregon and Governor Johnson of California; it is announced, will be in attendance, Governor Lister taking the chair.

Eureka has been chosen as the meeting place because it is the largest city in the United States without a through railroad, except in the summer months Eureka is dependent on sea traffic to keep it in touch with outside world.

Governor Johnson will meet the chief executives of the two other states August 18 at Redding, Cal., where luncheon will be provided by the Chamber of Commerce. The journey to Weaverville will be made by automobile and on the following day the trip to Eureka will be completed.

The journey of the Governors will cover 169 miles of picturesquely mountain scenery.

Rumored Sale of The Sumpter Valley R. R.

A special dispatch from Baker, Or., to the Journal says: The presence here today of David C. Eccles, son of the late David Eccles, president and principal stockholder of the Sumpter Valley railway, gave rise to further rumors concerning the sale of the S. V. to the O.W.R. & N., so often reported of late, and as often denied by the officials of both companies.

Guy L. Anderson, former O.W.R. & N. official and present head of the Sumpter Valley as general manager, and other officials, as usual, deny the visit had any significance in the reported deal and local people are beginning to believe the oft-repeated tale of a sale is made of whole cloth. On the other hand, those who believe in the deal point out that O.W.R. & N. agents have acquired property at Sumpter and other places, of no use to the company otherwise. The S. V. has acquired another big bunch of timber land adjacent to its terminal at Prairie City, in Grant valley.

Carroll Cecil and son Pat, motored in from their Silver Creek ranch Thursday.

Mrs. G. W. Clevenger and son Geary left Sunday for their annual visit and outing over at Prairie City.

Miss Laura Dawson was in the city this week, her first visit since her trip to the East in company with Phil Bates and party.

The Misses Lulu and Agnes Miller have returned home from an extended visit with relatives and friends over at Canyon City.

Mrs. Gardner of Cutmeat, S.D. arrived last week and will remain some time in making final proof on her desert claim south east of town.

Dr. Minnie Iland reports the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred West at Lawton on Aug. 1 and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Fushug at Harriman on Aug. 8.

Harry Danley, Ernest Musick, Clifford Reed and Grover Jameson returned this week from a vacation trip to the mountains. They had a fine time, succeeded in bagging some deer and lots of fish.

Dr. Griffith expects to leave tomorrow morning for Klamath where he will take in the Development League meeting and extend his visit to Crater Lake and other points of interest before returning home. He will be absent a couple of weeks. "Curly" Potter will drive his machine.
