The Connecting Link

The local newspaper is the connecting link between the merchant and the public. Without this connecting link the merchant would find it much more difficult to reach the heart and pocket book of the buyer.

There is a strained relationship between the buyer and seller, and there is no denying that the local paper does more to clarify the local market situation, and to produce good will on the part of the local buyer toward the local merchant than anything else. Every merchant profits thereby. Good will may be of two kinds—good will toward the merchants generally, and good will which is an asset in each business. The good will which is an asset in a business is but a part of the general good will, and who does more to create that general good will than the local paper.

The local paper wins the confidence of its readers by giving the news in an honest way and supporting those things that tend to make a better community. Every enterprising merchant, who advertises in the paper, shares in the confidence thus created in the paper, as it is natural for a reader to have confidence in ads that appear in a paper in which he has confidence.

The merchant should inspire greater confidence in his store and his goods by judicious advertising. He can do so because advertising always reduces the cost of distribution and enables the merchant to sell cheaper.

A noted writer hits the nail on the head when he gives the advertiser this advice, which if followed would be immensely beneficial to the advertiser: "Make your advertisements morally useful to the public, and educationally useful to the public as well as materially useful."

The Burns Times-Herald has a story about a co-operative packing plant, where all the farmers are invited to have their hogs killed and the meat cured. This will afford a home market for the farmers and keep money at home that has been going to the eastern packers, commission men and railroads. The Snake river valley imports trainloads of bacon, hams, lard and cheese, all of which can be produced here cheaper than elsewhere.—Ontario Argus.

The drouth in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Missouri is driving stockmen to rush their cattle to market. This will temporarily reduce the price of meat, but will ultimately cause a much larger permanent rise by depleting the supply unless we can make up the deficiency from abroad. Imports from Australia, Argentina and Mexico will increase under the new tariff, but the only lasting remedy will be a great increase in our home supply. Cultivation of the range forces us to look to the farmers for our meat hereafter. By making livestock a part of their business they can replenish the meat supply, increase their earnings by adding a new source and increase their land more fertile.—Oregonian.

Crops Turning Out Well.

The manager of this great religious weekly accompanied Profs. Shirk of the High School and Sutton of the public school on a trip to the home of Commissioner Bain near Harney Thursday afternoon and the return was around a different section of the valley which furnished an excellent opportunity to view the crop. Mr. Bain will have an immense crop of grain this year, his barley yielding at least 75 bushels according to his estimate. His crop of fruit is fine and Mrs. Bain's turkey crop is nearly 100 percent and she has lots of them. Observation from the auto along the road indicated that all crops are turning out much better than had been hoped for and there will be a great lot of grain this fall. The increased output of hogs solves the problem of what to do with the surplus on the farms and with the proposed packing plant we may expect prosperity. Many fields showed active work in harvesting and everywhere the yield was above the average.

Rabbits have caused some loss but this is a small item in the territory covered Thursday afternoon. These pests are doomed as there is a general movement to rid the country of them and while no definite plan has yet been decided upon there is every reason to believe that some method of exterminating them will be arranged before another crop season.

The party was caught in a severe shower out near the McPheeters place but found a little distance this side there had been no rain. We are not going to be classed as a dry section much longer if these frequent rains continue. No sage hens were found on the trip but several rabbits were picked off that will not be eating any grain in the future. The field of flax on the McLaren place just east of town is most promising and if not caught by the frost will make a fine showing for Harney Valley as a flax producing section.

The Mexican Situation.

President Wilson read his Mexican message to congress on Wednesday in person. He announced the position of this country to be:

No armed intervention.
Strict neutrality "forbidding the exportation of arms or munitions of war of any kind from the United States to any part of the republic of Mexico."
Under no circumstances to "be the partisans of either party to the contest that now distracts Mexico, or constitute ourselves the virtual umpire between them."

To urge all Americans to leave Mexico at once and to assist them to get away in every way possible.

To let everyone in Mexico who assumes to exercise authority know that this Government "shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away, and shall hold those responsible for their sufferings and losses to a definite reckoning."

"That can and will be made plain beyond the possibility of a misunderstanding," declared the President.

Negotiations for the friendly mediation of the United States are open to resumption at any time on either the initiative of this Government or of Mexico. Accompanying the President's address was the reply of the Huerta Government rejecting the American proposals. It was written by Foreign Minister Gamboa. It suggested the following alternative policy for the United States:

Reception of a Mexican Ambassador in Washington.

That the United States send a new Ambassador to Mexico without restraints.

Strict observance of the neutrality laws and "see to it that no material or monetary assistance is given to the rebels."

Unconditional recognition of the Huerta government.

J. B. Balcomb, the Alberson civil engineer, is in the city.

Misses Helen Purington and Bessie Swain take their departure Monday. The former will attend the Reed College in Portland this winter and the latter goes to Wallowa to assume her duties as one of the teachers in the public school of that place.

Some of our local sports who secured hunting licenses early in the year are under the impression the duck season opens the first of September, as in former years, it being so indicated on the license. The last legislature changed the opening season to Sept. 15.

At a meeting of the Rod and Gun Club the fore part of this week a communication from State Game Warden Finley was read in which he offered some more birds to be turned on the preserve in this vicinity and it was decided to take all he would send us. Arrangements were made with a truck to have the birds brought in from Bend as soon as they arrive there. About 50 will be sent to Frank Clerk and some 200 of the shipment will be liberated in this vicinity.

Wm. Hanley is authority for the statement that Gov. West, Secy. of State Olcott, State Treas., Kay and Game Warden Finley have expressed a desire to attend a rabbit drive in this section. Mr. Hanley suggests that the Rod and Gun Club take the matter in hand and arrange for a drive as early in the fall as it would be practical and invite the state officials to participate. This will be done and arrangements perfected at the proper time. These men should get first hand experience in the rabbit question as they are going to help eradicate the pests if possible.

Miss Marie Hastie returned Monday from Colorado where she has been visiting relatives for a year.
