The usual legal procedure was not observed by the county court in selecting the official paper for Harney county at the recent term of court. The Times-Herald was not notified that the court was ready to take the matter up or make a selection as no official paper had been designated for several years. It was not asked to submit a list of its subscribers, although it would have done so had it been notified. The management will not enter any protest as the compensation is not worth quarreling about, but it feels the court has not acted fairly in the matter.

Experiment Station Notes.

By L. R. BREITHAUPF.

All results so far published have had to do with winter grains, sown in the fall of 1912. In taking up the spring crops, I will begin with what seems to me the most important annual that can be grown in this county at the present time on the average dry land. This crop is field peas. I will try to make my reasons clear for calling it the most important annual, in the course of this article.

About thirty five acres of peas were grown by the Experiment Station this year. Included in this acreage was a number of experiments with peas as to the proper rate of seeding per acre, the proper manner of planting, the comparative value of peas and wheat grown under various similar conditions, a variety trial in which sixty nine kinds were represented and patches of from one tenth acre to several acres of varieties which seemed promising last spring, sown that the seed might be multiplied in order to be able to supply the people who wish to get a start of this seed.

To give a complete account of the sixty nine varieties tried out would require too much space. A number of the best will be given along with the common varieties, the Golden Vine and Prussian Blue, which are about the only kinds which can be had commercially, for sake of comparison.

Carleton	23.55 bu. per A.
Blue Prussian	18.36 bu. per A.
23547	21.65 bu. per A.
Kabilya	22.60 bu. per A.
Peluschka	22.60 bu. per A.
Kaiser	20.71 bu. per A.
Nelson	21.18 bu. per A.
Grey Winter	22.12 bu. per A.
Cossack	26.36 bu. per A.
24324	23.54 bu. per A.
Clamort	29.19 bu. per A.
Golden Vine	15.00 bu. per A.
Amraoti	21.18 bu. per A.
Alaska Garden	21.65 bu. per A.

Of course there were varieties which went a great deal less, the poorest making a little over six bushels, but the greater number went better than fifteen bushels per acre. Just which variety is going to prove best is hard to say from only one year's results, especially because of it being an off season last year in favor of the later maturing kinds. It is pretty safe to say, however, that neither the Golden Vine or Prussian Blue is going to be the best. Both are late, too late in fact, but should have shown to advantage last year if at all. Then too, there is such a diversity of conditions of soil and climate throughout the county that the best will have to be tried out under these various conditions in order to determine the variety best suited to each locality. This will be done with the help of the substations and co-operators. The saddest thing is that our greatest acreage was of the Golden Vine and Prussian Blue varieties, the only kinds that could be bought in quantity. Of the most promising yielders only a few pounds were grown, all of which must be used to make new trials with and to plant to increase the seed for the following year.

Among the sixty nine varieties planted there is to be found peas from every corner of the globe. Some represent the North with its short cool and frosty summers while others are from the South where seasons are long and warm. And their ancestry soon began to make itself apparent when a few nights after the peas were up, a frost came along, some were frosted back to the ground and nearly all killed, others were only badly nipped, while a large number were not injured at all. Then again, some varieties were so very rapid in their development that they failed to take into consideration that it might frost again and were in full bloom with many pods set when another frost came to take its toll. Others were not very slow in blooming but were had only partly made their crop when the fall frosts came to stop their growth. But happily, there was a large number which made full use or the frostless portion of the summer and made full crops without damage. Ancestry has a powerful influence with plant life as well as with the animal kingdom. Without the proper parentage, it is difficult indeed for any plant to adapt itself to new surroundings, a fact which is true of a same variety grown for years under unlike conditions as well as of different varieties. After all these varieties of peas have been grown here several years, better results should be had from every one of them, and perhaps some of those that did poorly this time will be the best in years to come.

THREE DEATHS.

Died—At the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McHose, on Monday, January 12, Mrs. Charlotte C. Beadles, age 70 years, 8 months and 23 days. The cause of her death was pneumonia.

Deceased had been a visitor at the home since last fall, having come out from her home in Decatur, Illinois, on account of the condition of her son, Albert, who was to undergo an operation as a means of obtaining relief from an injury to the skull of long standing. Mrs. Beadles also visited here a couple of years ago. Her illness was short and her death a shock as she was thought to be recovering, but a turn for the worse came during Sunday night and her advanced years was against her recovery.

Mrs. Beadles, whose maiden name was Hopkins, was born in Ohio in 1843. She was married to Wm. T. Beadles in 1862, the latter died in Decatur ten years ago. There were twelve children born to Mr. and Mrs. Beadles, eight of whom survive her. Mrs. McHose and Albert Beadles being the only children here.

Funeral services were held at the family home on Monday evening, conducted by Dr. Benson of the Presbyterian church. Deceased was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Decatur. The remains were shipped to the old home being accompanied by Mrs. McHose and her little daughter, Charlotte.

Mrs. Beadles was a lovely lady who had many friends in Burns through her amiable disposition and fine Christian character. Her death was particularly sad and many friends extend their deep sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Died—At the family home in this city, on Monday, Jan. 12, of pneumonia, Henry Richardson, aged 44 years, three months and four days.

Deceased had been ill but a short time, but his physical condition was such that he could not withstand the dread disease and his end came quickly.

Deceased had resided in Burns since 1884 where he had been engaged in business and had many friends. Mr. Richardson first engaged in the butcher business but in the early '90' he associated himself with Thos. Stephens and they built the Burns hotel which they conducted for several years. In 1898 Henry was elected county clerk and again in 1900, serving two terms. During all these years he had a reputation for honesty and reliability and enjoyed the confidence of practically every man in Harney county. He had recently been engaged in the saloon business but closed it the first of the year and had intended going to some other place before again engaging in business.

He was married to Miss Nora Goodman in 1893 and is survived by the widow and four children, James, Henrietta, Madison and Ruby. His parents reside at Weiser, Idaho, but were prevented from coming to the funeral on account of sickness. Both are advanced in years and spent a part of last winter here with their son.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Beebe of the Baptist church at the family home on Tuesday afternoon, a large number of his old time acquaintances being present to pay their last respects to a man whom they had known so well and for whom they had a high personal regard.

The bereaved family have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

Died—At the family home in this city on Sunday, Jan. 11, Barthold Buechele, aged 53 years, three months and 26 days.

Deceased was a native of Germany and came to this section in 1907 entering a homestead near the Warm Springs on which he had made proof. He came here for the benefit of his health being afflicted with lung trouble and this was recently complicated by a cancer in the throat. He was engaged in the butcher business in this city for a time and was well known. Mr. Buechele is survived by his widow and three children, Miss Emma, Edwin and Mrs. E. B. Brown, the latter now residing in California. Mr. Buechele was a quiet man who was well respected by those who knew him. Having suffered from illness for many years he showed great fortitude in being always genial to his acquaintances and companions. His wife and children are highly respected by the people of this section and have the deep sympathy of all their acquaintances.

Funeral services were held at the Catholic church Thursday morning and the body was laid to rest in the Burns cemetery.

Instructors in Short Course.

Supt. Breithaupt of the Experiment Station received a telegram Wednesday announcing the instructors provided by the agricultural college to conduct the short course in Burns on Feb. 16-21. There will be five instructors this year and the course will embrace considerable of interest that was not given last year.

Prof. H. D. Scudder of the agronomy department and Prof. E. L. Potter of animal husbandry, who were here last year are two of the instructors; also Dean Calvin of the domestic science department. In addition to these, E. L. Sitz in dairying, and Mrs. Dolman, also of the domestic science department, will take part and give lectures. The latter will devote herself to home nursing, house sanitation and kindred subjects.

The committee recently appointed by the Commercial Club has already been at work, having gone before the county court and asked the assistance of that body toward assisting in making the short course a success. The entire court most willingly consented to giving the course substantial support. The committee is also arranging to send out a circular letter to the farmers of the county outlining the course and extending a hearty invitation to attend. This letter will also carry a hearty welcome from the business men and citizens of Burns and tendering the hospitality of the city to the visitors.

The suggestion to arrange for the care of those who desire at the fair grounds was favorably taken by the committee and a stove will be placed in the pavilion and hay placed at the barns that those who desire may stay there and also keep their teams at the grounds.
