The proposed line of railroad started by local people from Burns south to a connection with through lines to San Francisco is a feasible proposition and is a line that would eventually be built by some railroad system as it opens a big territory and from what is said by those familiar with the territory it is an engineering possibility, more suitable to electrification than steam, however. Should those instrumental in starting the move meet with favor from the Gould road and San Francisco financiers and no formidable obstacles met from other railroad sources, it will be a great thing for the country. This route has been investigated by railroad people, Col. Hollibird, Harriman's confidential man, has gone over the ground and the Gould people have also investigated it. By diverting such a big territory to the San Francisco markets direct and the completion of the Panama Canal it is almost certain business interests of the California city may be relied upon to give the building of such a line active support.

The Times-Herald knows that Harney county has some of the best horses ever raised, not excepting Kentucky, therefore it urges the farmers to bring them in to be judged during the short course. Remember there's going to be free hay and stable room at the fair grounds and Mr. Leedy, of the high school, should be notified at once of what stock may be brought in. The stock judging is not going to be confined to horses only, however. Beef and dairy cattle, swine and sheep are also wanted. The manager of this great religious hasn't ascertained whether Prof. Scudder is going to lecture on poultry—and call them animals—or not, therefore cannot advise as to chickens. The writer is a good judge of chickens after they've been properly prepared in the domestic science department, however, so bring in the chickens.

The farmer who has watched the work at the experiment station, made intelligent observation of conditions on his own farm, applied methods promulgated by Supt. Breithaupt, Prof. Scudder, Thos. Shaw, Bill Hanley and The Times-Herald, and attends the short course Feb. 16 to 21, is going to have a bank account after harvest next fall.

If we can't get a railroad any other way we'll build one ourselves. This scheme has been advocated for years by "Daddy" Welcome and Mart Brenton so it's time some one should get to work.

Published reports are to the effect that the Huerta government in Mexico is being supplied with ammunition by the Japanese.

Agricultural Club
Meets Next Tuesday

The Burns Agricultural Club will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the public school and an exceptionally fine program has been arranged for the evening. The general public is invited to attend this meeting as it promises to be of much benefit to the entire community besides very entertaining. The program is: Piano solo Florence Hoffeditz "Home Sanitation," Mrs. J. C. Foley "The Hog Industry in the Middle West," C. A. Hawley Violin solo, Alex Eggleston The program will start at 8 o'clock.

Report of Library Club.

(Communicated.) The Library Club met at the home of Mrs. Farre, on Saturday January 24. A number of items of important business was dispatched with Mrs. J. W. Geary presiding. The Literary program consisted of three numbers: An excellent paper by Mrs. J. W. Bigg, on "A Journey up the Hudson," was particularly interesting, as it was purely reminiscent of an actual journey taken by Mrs. Biggs some years ago. Mrs. Carl read an able paper on "Yellow Stone Park" and "Niagara Falls" illustrating the same with some fine views. "America" was the closing number, sung by the club, with Mrs. Farre at the piano.

Religious Services At Tonawama.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the religious revival to begin in the city on Feb. 8 has secured Tonawama Theatre for that purpose for a part of the time. Beginning with Sunday Feb. 8 there will be preaching services at the theatre both in the morning and in the evening. There will be no services in the churches on that day other than Sunday school in the morning. Rev. Cleighton will also preach in the theatre Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. There will be no services on Saturday evening but again on Sunday, Feb. 15, there will be two services at the same place. On this date Revs. Lewis and Mathews, both noted singers and preachers, will join in the religious work. It is expected the revival services will continue during the week following, but as the theatre has been engaged for the short course the religious services will likely be held at the church.

Best Cough Medicine for Children. "I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy" writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. "I have used it for years both for my children and myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is pleasant and safe to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all dealers definite information with reference to further construction on these projected lines, and what has been done so far is of no practical benefit to this country, in fact does not relieve the situation at all. It is our firm belief, therefore, that the time has come for independent action on the part of the people themselves, and we therefore recommend that the proposed road be built and that steps be taken immediately to organize for that purpose. We have faith in the ability of the people of Burns and Harney Valley to seek and obtain their own relief from this intolerable situation, and we recommend that they at once proceed in their ultimate success. "To that end we recommend, as an initial step, a temporary organization for the purpose of determining the most desirable route for such road, its probable cost, methods of financing the undertaking, nature and character of the proposed railroad company, and generally to perfect all necessary preliminary arrangements.

Local People Propose Starting Railroad

"We recommend further that every effort be made to interest not only the citizens of this town and vicinity but also every one in any way interested in the development and progress of the country naturally tributary and adjacent to the proposed line of road, to the end that the whole country be united in a common effort to secure transportation facilities. We believe that practically every rancher and farmer in this entire country can be interested in this matter, and we would leave no stone unturned in the effort to secure their unqualified support and co-operation. This movement should be in no sense sectional or local, but rather a united and determined effort to obtain the relief to which we are, and for many years have been, justly entitled.

"Your committee are unanimously in favor of each and all of the foregoing recommendations and beg leave to hope that they will be favorably received." At a largely attended meeting held at the Masonic hall last night, called by President Gault of the Commercial Club, these resolutions were adopted and the general feeling of those present was favorable to going ahead with the proposed line and arrangements were made to carry the work forward.

The president was authorized to appoint a general committee of nine to have charge of furthering this work. This committee is authorized to appoint sub-committees and all the promotion is to be under their supervision. The first matter to be taken up will be securing sufficient funds by subscription to send men over the route to ascertain the best way, after which a committee is to be appointed to compile statistics of the country, gather all data necessary respecting the resources of the territory, the business a railroad would get at present and what the possibilities are when the territory is developed. Armed with this representation will be sent to Salt Lake to confer with the men who are financing the Surprise Valley railroad which is to be built this year and is considered a subsidiary of the Western Pacific. This seems to be the logical connection for a north and south road from this section at present and as the line to Surprise has already been financed and in course of construction it is considered these people will be receptive to the proposition of extending the possibilities of the line.

Should the proposition appeal to the Salt Lake financiers it is the plan to invite them to go to San Francisco with Burns representatives and place the matter before the transportation and commercial people of that city. With such a big territory as the goal it is not questioned but San Francisco will respond. Those familiar with the proposed route state there is no difficult engineering features to overcome and the line can be tied on to the proposed Surprise Valley line by building not to exceed 180 miles, all of which is easy with the exception of about 50 miles which will only be fairly heavy work.

This is an important movement on the part of this section and is one of far reaching effect. The men who are at work mean business and are confident of meeting with success. It is not a Burns proposition, although fostered and started here, but one that the whole country will join in. It will open up a big isolated territory that has long been retarded through lack of communication and transportation and people interested along the line will enter into the scheme with enthusiasm. It is a feasible railroad line that will pay dividends.

Great Area of Land To Be Reclaimed.

Will R. King chief counsel of the reclamation service, told some interesting things at the Progressive Business Men's luncheon at the Hotel Multnomah in Portland recently about the work being done and in contemplation by that department of the government in the way of redeeming arid and swampy lands in the western and southern states. Mr. King said that $80,000,000 had been invested by the government in reclamation projects in 15 or 16 states. The money, he said, was a loan without interest to the people and was supposed to be repaid in ten equal installments after the projects were completed. This benefit, given to the western states, was not shared by the other states, he said.

Mr. King said that the secretary of the interior has started out on a new basis. He had placed the reclamation service on a commission form of government, appointing five commissioners. Mr. King said that Oregon had as many good projects not yet undertaken as any state in the union. He said it was like two states in one. The eastern part was dry, "even in the wet" countries," he added facetiously and the western portion got all the rain it wanted. For the present, the best outlook was for the arid section, the Deschutes, Baker and Harney valleys.

The western country was reaching a condition where it was difficult for private capital to handle irrigation projects, as when they were built with private capital they must pay interest upon the investment, he said. In Baker county alone there were 80,000 acres that could be reclaimed by the government. An apportionment of $800,000 had been made for the west Umatilla project, and about $3,000,000 had been spent on the Hermiston and Klamath projects.

Mr. King said that Oregon had contributed more to the reclamation service than any state except Oklahoma, but at the present there were no available funds for the work. He said that a recommendation had been made to congress to loan the department $100,000,000, and he expected that $200,000,000 would be invested in reclamation projects in the next ten years. Homes would be placed where they had never been dreamed of and the taxable property would be doubled in value in all the western states, he said.

The one serious defect about Oregon, he asserted, was that it had not enough state commissioners to adjudicate water rights. It should have been seven instead of two and instead of $2400 a year the salary should be as large as that of a circuit judge. The matter should be put up to the next legislature, he said. Harney and Malheur counties alone would keep one man busy for 18 months, and at the present way of operating, it would take anywhere from 10 to 40 years to adjudicate the state's water projects.

Seek Species of Rare Deer.

In pursuit of specimens of rare animals, to be added to the collection being made by the state, Stanley G. Jewett, naturalist, and O. J. Murie, field assistant, arrived in Bend this morning on their way to Davis Lake. They will leave tomorrow, accompanied by district game warden C. M. McKay and deputy warden John Riis.

The particular species which the state game department is seeking in Central Oregon is a white-tailed deer. This animal is not found in many localities in the state and is rapidly becoming extinct, hence the efforts of Game Warden Finley to secure a specimen for mounting. There are several of these deer in the vicinity of Davis Lake and the party of hunters will endeavor to get at least two adults before returning to Bend. Bulletin.
