New Bids Asked on Canyon Mail Contract

The Department has asked for new bids on carrying the mail between Burns and Canyon and notices are posted at the post office in this city. Bids may be made in three ways: To carry all the mail or one may bid for the first and second class mail alone and there is also a proposition whereby one may contract for fourth class mail alone—parcel post. The latter proposition provides for seven days each week or oftener if necessary. This method of handling the mails may bring better service than by compelling a contractor to take all the classes of mail and attempt to handle it. The parcel post has changed the old way of carrying the mails on these interior routes very materially and it was a matter that complicated prospective bids to a great extent.

While there is no official authority respecting the Burns-Vale line it is understood the contract has been awarded as was stated in our last issue. Since the order has come to route all west bound mail by way of that line it is likely the contract will be changed to some extent, as it will no doubt mean more pay.

City Election Quiet

The city election held Tuesday was rather quiet and very little interest shown by the voters. There was but one contest, that of marshal, for which there were three candidates: R. L. Haines, present incumbent, J. R. Gould and Joe Vandarpool. The former was an easy winner, receiving 145 votes while Gould captured 82 and Vandarpool 45.

A. C. Welcome was elected mayor without opposition as was also Geo. Fry and Curtis Smith for councilmen; Roy Vandarpool was re-elected recorder, Harry Daline re-elected treasurer, Mr. Welcome was one of the aldermen councilmen and a number will have to be appointed to fill his unexpired term. The voters who will look in the interests of this city, and the voters have every right in their ability and should ask for a different result.

Beef Cow Brings $105.

Raising beef cattle, which is rapidly on the increase in Central Oregon is a very profitable undertaking if properly carried on. Evidence of this is shown by the sale last week of a cow which brought the owner $105. The animal was four years old and her weight ran up to the high sum of 1500 pounds. O'Donnell Bros. paid 7 cents a pound.

This cow was one of a bunch of 24 which O'Donnell Bros., bought of R. E. Grimes of the Pilot Butte ranch east of town. During the past 14 months this firm has not found it necessary to ship in any meat, being able to secure all that has been needed for the market in the district around Bend. The quality of the livestock has also improved greatly, they report.—Bend Bulletin.

Alfalfa Secured by Government in Asia

Alfalfa is one of the most valuable crops in the country now, but it never would have been here if the government hadn't sent a scientist to Asia to get it. Something like 30 million dollars' worth of Durum wheat was grown in the United States last year, but there never would have been a spear of it raised here if some scientist hadn't gone into the high, dry steppes of Russia and found it and brought it here. It was the government that first imported Kafir corn and the agricultural experiment stations that showed the government how to raise it. It was the work of the farm adviser that showed the farmers of the South how to grow cotton in spite of the boll weevil or how to raise other crops if the weevil got too thick for them. It was a farm adviser who showed the fruit growers of California that it wasn't necessary to cut down their orchards in order to get rid of the San Jose scale. It was a farm adviser in Connecticut who showed the tobacco growers there how to produce tobacco that would sell for $2 a pound instead of for 20 cents. If a proper man is selected for the farm adviser in this county he will revolutionize many of the farm methods in this county and materially increase the incomes.—Ontario Argus.

Hotbeds Are Valuable In Every Farm Garden

Hotbeds are artificial means of giving seed and young plants the benefit of summer weather in early spring. Aside from their aid in growing crops that would not come to maturity otherwise, they have a real economic value. By their means enough plants for the home garden and some to sell to the neighbors can be grown at a slight cost. As designed by Professor A. G. Bouquet, garden specialist at the Oregon Agricultural College, their construction is simple and inexpensive. After the first season there will be no further money cost, as the glass may be stored and kept for years. All other material and all labor are supplied by the resources of the average farm.

The pit may be made by excavating a foot or two below the surface. The sash is three feet by six feet, and the frame is made to suit these dimensions, rising eight inches above the ground in front and twelve inches above at the back, or north side. If the pit is made 18 inches deep it should be filled 14 inches with manure and six inches with good loam or other garden soil. After the soil has cooled to a safe temperature the seeds are sown. For early green food lettuce, radishes, and bunch onions are good. These and other similar vegetables may be thus grown early in the spring and late in the fall, greatly lengthening the growing season.

Best Profit in Young Beef

Profits in beef production come from quick maturing stock sold at one or two years of age. This is the theory of the Portland expert livestock men who conducted the meat demonstration for the farmers and stockmen at the O. A. C. Short Course. "A man recently sold a yearling in Portland for $95 at the same time that his neighbor sold his two-year-old for $117," said Mr. Forestel, of the Union Meat Company. "There is no money in feeding steers after they are two years old. The gain is not worth the cost and the interest on the investment, and the meat sells for one or two cents a pound less. A good many growers think that they want a great big beef, and then get mad when they get no more for it than their wiser neighbors gets for the smaller and better type. It pays to keep in touch with the market, know just what the market wants, and then furnish just that."

Market Report.

Receipts for the week have been Cattle-1721; Calves-20; Hogs-5484; Sheep-5264. This week cattle trade showed a few soft spots but was generally good. The big Monday run of steers clipped about 10 cents off former prices. Since Monday the receipts have been light. Butcher stock on the other hand was firm throughout. Best cows brought $7 00 and $7 05, bulls $6 00 and calves $9 00. Killers have not been over supplied on she stuff and the market appears very steady.

Tops dropped back to $8 70 Thursday which is 15 cents under Monday's price at $8 85. It is scarcely probable that March receipts will be on a par with February, but so many unexpected things have occurred in the swine market this year the dopesters have gone to cover. Market steady with outlook good.

Mutton and lamb prices hit the high places this week. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday were barren of receipts, but Friday saved the week and market from stagnation. Monday was the big day and fat mutton or lambs were attractive commodities a few $6 00 yearlings appeared in the run old wethers sold "off cars" at $5 85, ewes at $4 70 for tops and $4 50 to $4 65 in bulk featured Lamb demand excelled supply and the prime fat kinds found an easy outlet at $6 75.
