

CELEBRATION FESTIV- ITIES NOW IN PROGRESS

Large Number of People Here to Enjoy
Events Scheduled for Their Entertainment. Parade This Morning
Most Promising Feature. Races,
Base Ball and Athletic Sports

The committee in charge of the celebration has been very active during the past few days and every indication points to one of the most successful celebrations attempted in many years.

One feature that is going to be interesting is the parade of decorated autos and other floats for this morning. A great deal of work has been done in the way of decorating floats to represent the different business houses of those participating and it promises to be exceptionally good. This is a feature that has been attempted in past years but generally has not been representative of the business of the town. Local people have taken an interest this year and visitors are going to see one of the nicest parades ever in an interior town. There will be at least 100 or more decorated vehicles and autos in line and those who have to decide the most representative will have a job.

While there are going to be several celebrations in various parts of the county Burns has a big crowd already assembled and today will see the crowd doubled. The various sport features are attractive and have many competitors, therefore are of much interest.

The Times-Herald goes to press early and will not be able to give much of the actual program as rendered. The force is just as patriotic as the other fellow and desires to take part in all that will make the celebration go, therefore the actual news of the affair will have to be given in our next issue.

The horse races, base ball games, shooting tournaments and other events have brought out all the sports and they are having the time of their lives.

The literary and patriotic program is scheduled for tomorrow at the court house yard and this will be entered into with the proper American spirit. An interesting program has been arranged that is varied to such an extent as to be attractive to all. The usual longwinded speeches that are general on such occasions have been eliminated and therefore will not become tiresome. This appeals to the younger people who like variety. The music, fire crackers, noise, etc., that accompanies such occasions will not be missing and the boys are in spirit with the occasion.

The Adventures of a Boy Scout, Tonawama Tonight

One of the interesting events of the celebration period will be the picture program at Tonawama tonight when five reels descriptive of the Boy Scouts of America will be the feature. While this picture deals with a story it also gives one an idea of this big movement and shows what it is doing for the boys of the United States and points a moral.

This picture should not only appeal to the boys but also the parents who desire to bring their boys by under right environments and make them not only good, patriotic citizens but also robust in health and with proper regard for others, as well as an aid to their fellows.

Remember this program will start just as soon as the lights come on and there are five reels. The management desires all to see this feature and will run as much of a second program as necessary, but there is to be a dance given by the football boys after the show and it is the desire to get through with the pictures just as early as possible. However, the show will not be sacrificed for the dance. No pictures will be put on the screen after 9:45.

Butter Wrappers Don't Have to be Printed

In response to a letter from Mrs. Sturtevant of this city the State Dairy and Food Commissioner has stated that it is not absolutely necessary that butter wrappers be printed as the law provides they may be stamped or printed.

Many inquiries have come to The Times-Herald respecting this law and the advice given was that if they placed their butter in a store for sale, according to a recent report published in the Redmond paper which purported to quote a deputy inspector, they should have printed wrappers. But those who furnish butter to private customers were advised not to have them printed.

The Times-Herald is glad to note this matter and coming from such authority it may be taken as correct. The farmers who make but little butter should not be compelled to go to the additional expense of having printed wrappers.

A Glad Home Going.

Rev. Harlan C. Carter was born in Hindricks Co. Indiana November 13th 1840. Converted in childhood, and received the second work of grace in early manhood.

He was married to Aseneth Elliott in the year 1874 and soon afterwards entered the ministry, spending most of the time since that date in the active work. At the same time teaching in the public schools and as president of a Friends Academy in the East.

While his health was poor and he was living on a Minnesota farm, he wrote a beautiful poem, in which he gave expression to his expression to his appreciation of, "God's out doors." The last two verses are:

"This earthly life is, Oh, so sweet!
I think of its close with a sigh;
This "Living grace" is so complete,
I shudder at the thought, I must die!

"But if like an offering, laid at His feet—
By His great consistency, I know—
This life be expended in service complete,
Of earth I shall be weary and ready to go."

The last Sabbath he spent on earth while suffering the most intense pain, he repeated the last line of the last stanza, using the present tense.

A year ago, Rev. Carter, with his wife and daughter Lila left his Iowa home for Burns, Oregon, where he might spend his last days with his daughter, Mrs. W. L. Blott and her husband. All the plans that he laid out for his last year were carried out to the letter and last Thursday afternoon at 12:35 he slipped away, with a heavenly smile on his face, to be with his Saviour.

He leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, and three daughters Mrs. W. L. Blott and Miss Lila are with us in Burns. The other daughter adopted when a child lives in California. A son also adopted when small was accidentally drowned in North Dakota in 1912.

The funeral was held at the Nazarene church Saturday at 2:00 with a large attendance. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers and one of the pulpit chairs was decorated with wreaths and white ribbons with Brother Carter's bible lying open on the seat.

He was respected and greatly loved by the town's people and especially by the Nazarene church people, for whom he preached a number of times.

Best Diarrhoea Remedy.

If you have ever used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy you know that it is a success. Sam F. Guin, Whatley, Ala., writes, "I had measles and got caught out in the rain, and it settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time, and had it not been for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not possibly have lived but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy, I am now well and strong." THE HARNEY COUNTRY REFLECTS PROSPERITY

Burns Liveliest Town in West According to Men Who Travel. Sale of Horses Leaves Much Money While Railroad Construction Brings Many Land Seekers and Investors in

There are things doing in this section at the present time. Men who come in from other points say that Burns is the liveliest town in Oregon and that evidence of prosperity can be seen all over the Harney country.

The announcement of the extension of the Oregon & Eastern into this valley, the large number of investors coming in to purchase land, the discovery of rich aluminum prospects in this vicinity and the big business in selling horses, has had its effect and Burns is reaping the benefit.

While no announcement has reached here at the time this is printed respecting the letting of the contract for the railroad extension there is little doubt but it will be let and work will begin perhaps next month. This announcement has done more toward the immediate activities in the development of this country than any other thing. It would naturally require a little time after the bids were received to look them over and come to a conclusion.

The impression is general that the railroad building will not be stopped when the proposed 30 miles are completed but that the work will be continued right on across the state as it is important that the line be connected up with the Deschutes road on the West. This will mean very active work in that line for at least two years and will bring much money into the country.

There is going to be a greater change in this country during the next two years than has been noted for many years in the past. The big land holdings will be cut up in a great measure and we shall see homes on every small tract with people prospering. The stock business will be conducted on a different scale and every farmer will have his bunch of stock to turn off at the proper time. The farmer is going to have a steady market for his crops and the hogs, dairy products and kindred industries will go forward with bounds.

The coming of the railroad has been looked forward to for so many years that business conditions will quickly adjust themselves to the change. Already local concerns are making preparations for a decided change in conditions and local people will see a revolution in prices and methods. Burns is the natural center of all this activity and will continue to be for many years. All the business of any consequence must come to this point and with such rich territory surrounding it and the natural advantages of resources, such as the key to the irrigation project that must come with the advancement of the country; the banking houses and prospects for water and sewer; the excellent school facilities, etc., Burns is the natural place for the family home.

The schools are to be given special attention the coming year and many improvements are under consideration that will appeal to the man of family. The modern sanitary public school building with a corps of teachers that are most efficient and the complete equipped high school with courses in domestic science, agriculture, etc., are assets which Burns and Harney county may well be proud of.

Harney county is destined to be the scene of the most active development in the entire West during the next few years and men of means are going to see this opportunity and take advantage of it.

Cured of Indigestion.

Mrs. Sadie P. Clawson, Indiana Pa., was bothered with indigestion. "My stomach pained me night and day," she writes. "I would feel bloated and have headache and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. My daughter had used Chamberlain's Tablets and insisted upon my trying them. They helped me as nothing else has done. For sale by all dealers.

Growing Colts Need Plenty of Portein

The chief need of colts' feed is protein and mineral matter or ash, say the O. A. C. Animal Husbandry officers. It is therefore especially important that these nutrients be supplied in the proper quantities. On an average the proper nutritive ration for growing horses will be about one to five or one to six; that is, the ration will need to contain from five to six parts of carbohydrates, or their equivalent, to one part of protein.

Of the common feeds best adapted to produce such rations may be mentioned the leguminous hays, such as alfalfa, clover, and vetch and among the grain, oats and bran are the best. The native pasture grasses when thrifty will usually supply about the proper nutrients for the growing horse.

Among the feeds which are deficient in protein and mineral matter, and therefore unsatisfactory for growing horses, may be mentioned timothy hay, cheat hay, corn and barley. When any of these feeds are used for young horses a liberal amount of other feeds containing large quantities of protein and mineral matter should be supplied. A great many people make a mistake by not supplying the young horses with a liberal enough ration, especially during the first year. After the colt is weaned from the dam it is a very hard matter to keep it up in shape, and at such time special care and feed should be given it. The feed is seldom made too liberal at this time, since this is the time to "shove" the colt if exceptional growth is desired.

Most horsemen agree that if you stunt the colt you stunt the horse, and that if you have a stunted yearling you seldom get a good-sized mature horse. On the other hand, a well grown yearling does not need the feed nor care afterwards that the stunted one demands. After the young colt passes the yearling stage, it does not need the special care nor the feed that the colt does during the first winter.

Market Report.

Cattle market is steady to weak with fair receipts. Ten loads of Mexican steers brought 7.00. One load of choice Hereford-Shorthorn steers sold at 7.40. In general, quality stuff was conspicuous by its absence. Cows are quoted at 5.75 to 6.25.

With a good run of hogs the market opened at 7.85 for top stuff, going down 10 cents towards end of week. Bulk of sales at 7.75.

Buyers are still forcing mutton prices down. Receipts of sheep are light with good quality stuff. Choice lambs are quoted at 7.15, ewes at 4.75 and wethers at 5.50.

Better Than Life Insurance.

BIG LAND CASE HAS AT- TENTION OF ATTY. GEN.

Question Arises as to Whether or Not
He May be Hampered in Action Against Pacific Live Stock Co. to Recover Large Land Holdings in Harney Valley to The State

A Salem dispatch to the Journal, dated June 29, says: Whether Attorney General Brown will be hampered in an investigation of the state against the Pacific Livestock company, known also as the Harney County case, in which it is attempted to recover title to 26,800 acres of land, alleged to have been obtained fraudulently, is a question that is causing some speculation at the capital.

Attorney General Brown is now engaged in an investigation to ascertain if there is sufficient evidence to warrant continuing the prosecution of the case, which was instituted by Attorney General Crawford, Brown's predecessor.

The general impression after the session of the legislature was that there were no strings to the $10,000 appropriated for the attorney general to prosecute certain cases, inasmuch as the appropriation bill imposed no conditions, but lately it has developed that Brown entered into an agreement with the appropriations committee to use the fund in the Pacific Livestock company case and other cases only if the state land board should consider it advisable to do so.

The agreement is of no effect in a legal sense, it is contended, and it is believed that in case Attorney General Brown finds that he has a good chance to recover the lands to the state he will continue the prosecution, even if the board should decide that they should be dismissed.

Attorney General Brown was not anxious to discuss the case, although he admitted that one member of the state land board had intimated to him that the board might decide to not let him spend any of the $10,000 fund in the case against the Pacific Livestock company. He would not say which one of the three members of the board, which consists of Governor Withycombe, State Treasurer Kay and Secretary of State Olcott, made the statement.

Brown said he had drawn on the $10,000 fund for expenses in making a trip to Washington, D. C., and, while there and at points on the way, investigated the Pacific Livestock case.

Shortly after the session of the legislature, the state land board held a meeting, with all members present, and State Treasurer Kay represented that Attorney General Brown wanted the case against the livestock company dismissed, stating that he would never have brought it in the first place on the evidence.

Secretary of State Olcott said that was his understanding of Brown's attitude and then Kay urged Governor Withycombe to dismiss the suit, arguing that inasmuch as Governor West had brought the suit it would be as well for Governor Withycombe to take action dismissing it.

Governor Withycombe declined to take the responsibility and declared that the whole board would have to vote on the proposition. A vote was taken and all three members voted in favor of dismissing the suit.

Attorney General Brown learned a few minutes later what had been done and hurried over to Governor Withycombe's office, where he entered a strong protest, declaring that he had not had time to investigate the case fully and did not know enough about it to warrant a recommendation for its dismissal.

Thereupon Governor Withycombe declared that the meeting just held was merely informal and of no effect, and that Brown should continue his investigation of the suit and report in due time if there was evidence sufficient to warrant its continuance. He is still engaged in making this investigation.

100 FORDS IN GRAND PARADE JULY 3

Fords have made good all over the world. Their popularity is the same where 'ere you go.

In 1910 Harney county had four Fords. Today there are more than 100 and a score or more people waiting for Fords.

It will pay you to fall in line and wait for your car. Experimenting is expensive--the Ford is not an experiment but an established, practical necessity all over the world--the Universal Car.

On the first of August this year, (barring the unforeseen) more than $1500.00 will be divided among Ford owners in Harney county.

You can get yours if you buy your car before August 1st.
