New Road Building Equipment for County

Road Master Faulkner took the manager of this paper out the other day to see the new road grader at work and to inspect the equipment that has recently been installed. The piece of work then being done was one to test the fitness of the machinery and it was accomplishing many times more during the afternoon than the old way of grading.

The county court has been casting about to see how more road work could be accomplished with the money available and it would appear they have accomplished the purpose by securing the new equipment. The new machinery consists of a big Avery tractor, elevating grader, push grader and a ripper or scarifier. This is all arranged to work upon one base and therefore convenient and most compact.

There has been a demand upon the court for more road funds as the usual levy of some $20,000 was not sufficient to cover as much territory as required, but with this new equipment it is possible to cover five to seven times as much territory as the former way therefore the same levy will give us what would equal $100,000 under the system that has been followed.

The machinery seems to be giving good satisfaction and while it will not be in use long this season it will demonstrate its economy next year and give this big county better roads and more of them than in the past. The road question has become a problem in this big county and it was necessary to get more modern equipment. This move will not doubt prove a good investment and the court will receive commendation.

George Marsden Springs Surprise on His Friends

George B. Marsden was married last Saturday afternoon in Portland to Miss Emily Petrain.

The wedding was intended to be a surprise to all his friends, his mother was not even to share in the secret until later, but an automobile accident immediately following the ceremony in which George took part in rescuing some unfortunate who were hurt spoiled the secret as the papers published it and thus his friends in Burns were wise. He sent a telegram to his mother, however, and she was guarding the secret but to no avail after the papers arrived. George and his bride arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Biggs just north of this city Thursday evening where they joined his mother and expected to leave today for the Bear Valley ranch where they will make their home.

Mrs. Marsden was most happy in telling The Times-Herald of the arrival of her son and new daughter over the phone and we are sure the many old time friends of the family are just as happy over the event and express their best wishes for a happy life of the young people.

Delightful Evening of Music

The piano recital given by Dent Mowrey at the Levens last Tuesday evening, assisted by Mrs. James Lester Gault, soprano, proved a most delightful affair and those present are high in their praises of both these artists.

Mr. Mowrey's playing was masterly and his rendition of some of his own compositions as well as those of the world's most famous composers showed him to be a finished musician. It was certainly a treat to the music lovers of our city who appreciate the opportunity of hearing him. He has great technical ability and excellent musical taste which greatly pleased the large and appreciative audience.

Mrs. Gault appeared to advantage in two groups of songs which were very pleasing to all. While Mrs. Gault is "home folks" it doesn't detract from her popularity as a musician and her many admirers certainly appreciate her wonderful ability. They fully realize the excellence of her singing and are proud of the fact that she belongs to our city and is so generous in sharing her talent with us.

Such entertainments are always a sacrifice to those who promote them; the visiting artist never receives adequate remuneration, generally, leaving their regular work to make the long journey to this city, but it is for love of the work and the desire to assist in bringing about a greater appreciation of high class music. The Times-Herald believes in supporting all such efforts and the musicians are commended in using their efforts in bringing such artists to us. Many of our young people have few opportunities of hearing such artists as Mr. Mowrey proved himself to be and Mr. Fellows is to be congratulated and given much credit for this entertainment.
