Profitable Rabbits.

It's a long way to Australia as well as to Tipperary, but even in the distant Antipodes they have had troubles similar to one of Central Oregon's. The Australians, however have contrived to transform their liabilities into an asset.

The exportation of rabbit-skins from Australia now exceeds in value over $3,000,000 annually, according to the Sydney report.

"Now this is astonishing information. The Antipodes, are to be congratulated. For years we have been hearing about their pest of rabbits. Australians have long viewed with gloom the overrunning of their continent."

"It was 60 years ago, or so that an incautious gentleman from New South Wales obtained from Europe, and turned loose in the colony, three pairs of rabbits. As the population and wealth of Australia increased the rabbits increased; and more than correspondingly. Until recently, it has been a tremendous problem how to check them—to say nothing of extermination. They drove the farmers from their lands, and have threatened such devastation as has not been known since the succession of plagues paralyzed Egypt."

"The Australians have found a way, at last. They have solved the exasperating riddle by turning the rabbit profit. A demand for rabbit has been created in the world's markets, it appears, especially for the skins. What was a nuisance, and a destructive one, is found to be marketable."

"This is merely another, illustration, of course, of an industrial miracle with which we are familiar—the utilization of what has been thought useless, the working up of a by-product into something of commercial value."

"Meanwhile the happy situation is that the Australians are able to sell what they have plenty of, and do not want to keep—what, indeed, they would hither-to have been glad to pay to get rid of. Such luck is enough to make that celebrated Australian bird, the laughing jack-ass, split its sides with laughter, and the kangaroo leap for joy."

Carrol Cecil was in town the other day and paid the manager of this great religious weekly for recognizing him on the street. If he is going to make a habit of this he will be overwhelmed with a profuse greeting every time he comes to town.

A delightful surprise party was given Miss Mary Godfrey by some 50 of her former pupils in the high school on last Wednesday evening. It was a most happy gathering of young people to greet Miss Godfrey at the I. O. O. F. hall and the evening was spent in a very enjoyable manner.

Rev. Dr. A. J. Montgomery, Secretary of the Home Mission Board of Presbyterian church, was a visitor during the week. He met with the officers of the church on Thursday evening and last night met with the congregation. Mr. Montgomery is here in the interest of the church and to arrange for a successor to Rev. Dr. Benson who gives up his pastorate the first of the year to retire permanently from the pulpit.

Drs. Griffith and Saurman performed an operation on Geo. Gates yesterday connected an injured nerve that caused partial paralysis of his foot. Mr. Gates had his leg broken several weeks ago and the nerve was injured at that time. It became embedded in the scar when the broken bone healed in such a way that it would not perform its proper function and this operation was to rectify it.

Master Woodbridge Geary had a delightful birthday party on Monday evening Dec. 13, when he was twelve years old. He had three guests of his own choosing, and two of them were grown ups besides papa, and mamma and grandma. He had turkey and cranberry sauce, and everything just as you do on Thanksgiving, or Christmas or New Years when you do your very best. The birthday cake had twelve colored wax candles which Woodbridge and Andrew Irwin lighted, and which Woodbridge blew out leaving twelve momentous years behind him. Happy Woodbridge! May you live to see many more!
