WILL ENFORCE THE LAW

Since accepting the nomination for sheriff's office at the recent primary, I have been asked to make myself plain with reference to their administration and conduct of the office. If elected to serve the people, I will carry out its duties with out fear or favor, not overlooking economy with efficiency. Particularly do I make myself plain on the Prohibition LAW, for the reason that I have been asked many times concerning my stand with regard to same. "I will enforce the Prohibition law with the same fidelity that I would any other law in the State of Oregon." I firmly believe that no man has a right to make a living by breaking the law of the state, and would use every means at the command of the office to place such offenders where they belong.

EDWARD J. CATLOW.

WANTED:—Man and wife for a responsible position on a large cattle ranch. Must have had previous experience and able to give references. A good place for the right parties. Inquire of The Times-Herald.

James Donegan and Tom Allen left Thursday afternoon for a trip to the southern part of the county in the interest of the War Saving Stamp campaign.

A United States deputy marshal was here this week serving subpoenas on witnesses to appear in the federal court at Portland on July 8th.

RALSTON SAYS THINGS WILL MOVE NOW

The Times-Herald had a letter from Principal Basil E. Ralston on last Wednesday morning in which he asks that we send this great religious weekly to his Portland address. He adds:

"I am living an exceedingly busy life as a shipbuilder and find that it agrees with me, now that the preliminary soreness of muscle is wearing off.

"Musick and Sullivan as well as young Allen (Fred) are engaged in the same line of work as I am, and the work is going very rapidly now that all of us are on the job. Portland is thoroughly busy for the first time in its history, and there are more jobs than there are men to fill them. Cost of living has gone up to a marked extent but wages have kept up pretty well with the advance."

A. G. Clark, the Home Industries preacher, who was here last Saturday and Sunday lending his aid toward getting things lined up for War Savings Stamp Pledge Day, is an old time friend of Chas. T. Lillard. Mr. Clark wanted to go out to Charley's place to have a little fishing and shooting but found it was too far to walk out before breakfast and as he wanted to go on over to Bend on Monday morning he couldn't make connections. He had to be contented with going out with the manager of this great religious weekly for a short time during the afternoon and put some pests in the nature of rabbits and sage rats out of the way. He did it too.

Walter Gray is in town today from Lawen. He states he is preparing to go to outside points for a few months to engage in work.

C. C. Page has moved his Sweet Shop from the old stand where Mrs. Gibbs was located across the street in the Fry building adjoining the Welcome Pharmacy.

Miss Malvina Marcott is expected to arrive from Portland next Monday to take a position as bookkeeper in the First National Bank.

Joe Morris is up from Narrows today on business. He states his neighborhood is cheerfully complying with the food administration request in respect to wheat flour.

Roy C. Moullen has recently taken charge of the repair department of the Lampshire Garage and that shop is a scene of activity. Mr. Shireman has retired from the business.

FARM LABOR MEETING IN PORTLAND

Means of securing helpers to harvest the wheat and fruit crops in the Northwestern States have been worked out at a meeting in Portland, Oregon, which was the second of a series of farm-labor meetings called by the United States Department of Agriculture. The meeting was attended by representatives of the State Councils of Defense, State Departments of Labor and various city organizations. Prof. G. I. Christie, Assistant to the Secretary, and Dr. E. V. Wilcox, of the Office of Farm Management, were the representatives of the Department of Agriculture. Plans were made whereby city organizations will secure lists of city residents who have had farm experience and who are willing to devote at least a part of their vacations to farm labor when they are needed. The "fight or work" program is being carried out in the Northwest. Pool rooms have been closed and all idlers and persons doing unimportant work are being set at useful occupations, thus relieving the labor situation both in cities and rural districts.

Live-Stock Dealers

A federal license by every commercial stockyard in the country which is to continue in business after July 25, 1918, and by all commission merchants and dealers in live stock in connection with stockyards, is required by a proclamation issued by the President. The licensing proclamation is one of a series issued by the President, under authority of the Food-Control Act of last August, bringing the dealing in necessities under the control of the Federal Government.

CANNEGRAMS

Get down to cases—cases of home-canned products.

Sterilized, sealed, saved the three "S's" of home canning.

S. O. S.—Sterilize on stove—another way of saying "boil those jars of fruits and vegetables so they will keep perfectly."

The useful life of a preserving jar—filled in summer, ready by fall, emptied in winter—hungry to save more food next spring and summer.

A wooden false bottom in a home-canning outfit is a raft that keep lots of perishable food from being lost.

An all-round good thing for the Nation—a rubber ring on a preserving jar.

A fourth floor apartment is a fine place to produce a canned garden.

Persons of every level should can, the family in the top flat as well as the dweller in the bungalow.

You don't need even a foot of earth to raise a canned garden—in fact the less dirt the better in home canning.

The colors of those jars of canned and preserved products put a service emblem in your kitchen.

Brighten the corner in that kitchen closet—with canned beans, fruits, berries.

The Club Cafe, Lee's place, is going to move into the rooms vacated by Page's Sweet Shop next to Crawford's.

For Sale—Horses, saddle and work animals, also Jersey cow and calf and Jersey heifers, at bedrock prices.—Mrs. E. J. Newell, Narrows, Oregon.

FARNUM AT LIBERTY TOMORROW NIGHT

Never did knight of old, for the sake of his lady fair, brave more dangerous encounters than did John Winton in his attempts to rescue from perils that beset her the lovely girl who mysteriously came into his life one stormy night—and refused thereafter to leave him undisturbed. From peril to peril he pursued her, always releasing her from the menace of her immediate danger, but never being able to quite come even with her in the mystery-chase that led through exciting episodes galore. Finally determined to have an end to matters, Winton applied his ingenuity, forced the issue and checkmated his elusive quarry. Then the truth came about and the mystery explained—the girl wanted to be sure that the man who became her husband carried no "yellow streak." There is much of the novelty in the presentation of "A Stormy Knight," the Bluebird photoplay to be exhibited at the Liberty Theatre on Sunday, June 30th, with Franklyn Farnum and Brownie Vernon the stars. The outline of its plot gives but a mild idea of its surprising details, and the cloud of mystery that shrouds the various exciting operations lend an item of suspense that makes for the best of entertainment.

Reader, Patterson, N. J.: War bread is not a new thing; very far from it. Rev. Howard B. Grose, of the U. S. Food Administration, points out the fact that the children of Israel, when they defended Jerusalem against siege, were advised by Ezekiel to utilize means of supplementing their wheat supply. That was 2,400 years ago. Ezek. 4:9 tells us how the prophet said to the defenders of the city: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentils, and millet, and fitches, and and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou shalt lie upon thy side, three hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat thereof." His instructions were in effect that during the siege they were no longer to be able to make the bread with pure wheat, but would have to mix it with all kinds of grains and vegetables, which are not ordinarily utilized in making flour, except in times of extreme need. Ezekiel, Dr. Grose remarks, really furnished a recipe for war bread, which is pretty nearly the oldest instance of the kind the world knows of.
