PREPARE TO FIGHT PESTS

The Times-Herald finds there is a movement among the people of this county to make preparations for future campaigns against pests that are becoming such a nuisance.

It is learned from adjoining counties that poisoning has been a success for both rabbits and squirrels where it is conducted under governmental supervision.

The plan suggested is to ask the county to provide at the time of the annual budget is made up for sufficient funds to secure the necessary poison.

One feature of such a campaign in this county is the number of non-resident land owners. These lands would have to be given attention and for that reason it might be possible to get aid from the government and state as in the case of road work.

This is a matter that should have the consideration of the farmers of this county and it is none too soon to prepare for next season, as the budget is made up in December and all details should be worked out and a practical plan decided upon before the matter is placed before the county court.

A LETTER FROM FRANCE

On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Force.

June 2nd, 1918.

Dear Friend Chas.: I was more than glad to hear from you but was surprised that you had not received my letter.

Your subscription to the Oregonian was a life saver, although it came from two to six weeks late, at that there was a lot of interesting news.

Was not surprised that you returned to "Wonder Land". I have seen a great deal of country and don't know of any where, just now, I'd rather be than up on the reserve with you and Harry.

One thing France and England do have in good roads, everything here is permanent, one sees buildings and bridges that have been here since the "Godless of Liberty" was a little girl.

As a whole France is similar to western Oregon and Washington in climate, but is much smoother where I have been.

How is Burns progressing? I've been planning on returning sometime to even up on Burns for being beaten in that baseball game the last day I was there.

Tell Dr. Brown the teeth he made for me are good for anything less than cast iron.

When this is over I may be back in that country if I am able to land a good job.

Is Sutton still there? I believe Sutton should be an army officer rather than a school principal.

We are still cutting lumber, piling, wood, pitprops, in fact everything in the timber line, it is nearly as important as food to the armies.

I have charge of part of the logging—sort of straw boss—seventeen horses and thirty some men.

Give my best wishes to all. Remember me to any Harney people you see.

When peace comes I hope to be back with you again and have another hunt to the hills or lake and go branding calves at the Bower ranch.

Yours, NELSON S. ROGERS, Co. C. 10th Engrs. Forestry Am. Ex. Force.

P. S. Write often I enjoy hearing from that neck of the woods mighty well.

Are you saving NOW for the Fourth Liberty Loan? Nothing would please the Kaiser more than to know that you feel and act on the feeling that the war's nearly over and the Government won't need your few dollars.

The day is forever past when the child can be left to just "come up," and amount to anything. With the increasing complexity of life he demands increased attention if he is to escape the multiplying pitfalls in his path.

This country could with profit largely increase its force of truant officers. Every community should maintain such an official, and in the present conditions, where the attention of our men is riveted on the problem of winning the war.

The army, like a college education, does not make a sage out of a fool, nor a gentleman out of a cad.

QUALITY OF ROUGHAGE IMPORTANT IN FEEDING

The present serious situation caused by scarcity and high price of concentrated feeds emphasizes as never before the importance of quality in hay and other roughage used in feeding dairy cattle.

Of the crops grown in this country hay ranks third in value being exceeded by only corn and wheat, the annual yield being nearly 100,000,000 tons.

The average quality is inferior. Government reports on the quality of hay of the country give the following grades. Government figures indicate a possible increase of 50 percent or more in feeding value through better methods in curing and handling the crop.

"The greatest loss comes from bleaching, in the sun, bleaching by rain and dew and general exposure to the weather," said Professor Fitts. "No crop grown requires more care in harvesting and none is more easily damaged by neglect."

"A slowly growing interest in better methods of curing hay is evident each year but if dairy production is to be maintained and the dairy herds continued on a profitable basis a radical improvement in methods of curing must be made this year.

WAR INCREASES CHILD DELINQUENCY.

Criminal statistics show a most alarming increase in child delinquency in this country during the period elapsing since our entrance into the war. In some sections the increase is reported as high as 100 per cent, and in all parts of the country it is plainly noticeable.

The answer is, that in grappling with the greater questions arising from the world conflict, we have—unintentionally it is true—tended to lose sight of an even weightier matter, the welfare of our young people.

America can never afford to neglect her growing children. We are today the proud nation we are; our armies "over there" are the wonder of nations, because in the years past the child has held first place in every scheme of American life.

Yes, we know our women have a large share in the practical affairs of the great conflict, but in the interest of the future men and women of our country, they must open their great hearts and look after straying children of the land.

There is no nobler task that could engage their services.

ALLIED FOOD SHIPMENTS REACH LARGE TOTAL.

A general idea of the quantity of food sent to European allies by the United States from July 1, 1914, to January 1, 1918, is given by figures just announced by the U. S. Food Administration.

The total export of wheat and wheat flour to the three principal allies is equivalent to about 384,000,000 bushels.

"On your side are boundless supplies of men, food, and material; on this side a boundless demand for their help."

"Our men are war-weary and their nerves have been strained by more than three years of hard, relentless toil."

"Our position is critical, particularly until the next harvest, but the United States can save us."

"You Americans have the men, the skill, and the material to save the allied cause."

SIR JOSEPH MACLAY, British Shipping Controller.
