Thursday evening after the mail had arrived and the late papers distributed the post mistress closed the office and departed but later had occasion to return and upon entering the office found "Red" Noonchester stuffing his pockets with small change from the money drawer. He immediately told her he would give it all back to her and upon investigation it was found he had quite a supply. He had crawled through the place left open for packages to be mailed. It is quite evident he was helped in as a little fellow of his age would hardly try such a thing on his own initiative.

THE VOICE OF THE RISING SUN

The chorus of praise drawn from our allies by the gallantry of American troops in France sound almost like the concerted finale at an opera. Among the paeans of appreciation we hear a full-throated tribute from a vocalist whose tones are a little different from the rest. It is the voice of our old friend, the Mikado.

He has a style of his own, has Yoshi. Many of the most eminent in European strategy and statecraft have handed it to us a plate. We get it in a ladle from the Euphuist of the Isles.

The tributes of statesman and generals—French, and Italian—have often been triumphs of literary grace. But for polished verbiage give us the Mikado, or some other cultivated Nipponese. At throwing verbal confetti they are the fair-haired boys.

Even more engaging is the note of sincerity that we observe in the royal message. The foreign policy of Japan has often seemed something of a problem, and the attitude of the Island Empire toward its allies has not always been easy to define, but in his latest utterances the Mikado has unreservedly committed himself.

It is well that the military weight of America is being rightly estimated in Tokyo. The praise of the Japanese war-lords is the praise of experts. It is better to have them with us than against us, and their exact striking power is always an unknown quantity. How Japan stands on submarines, on aeroplanes, on tanks, on machine guns, is a baffling riddle and we can depend on her to keep the riddle unread.

It is not long since Nippon was regarded as America's greatest danger, and the time that we have taken in raising and equipping an army proves that we were anything but secure. Japan now realizes the value of our friendship when she sees that our fighting strength is more than mere potentiality.

If the proof of it—in national preparedness—had been shown to Germany two years ago, we would probably have never been obliged to go to war at all.

Keep the Blood Steam Pure

Rheumatic pains, backache, swollen joints and sore muscles often are the result of impurities in the blood gathering in the region affected, a result of failure of the kidneys to eliminate waste products from the blood stream. Foley Kidney Pills heal, strengthen and invigorate weak diseased kidneys and bladder. W. H. Hill, Justice of the Peace, Detroit, Tex., writes: "I used Foley Kidney Pills and say unhesitatingly that of all I have used they are the best, and have done the work where the rest failed." Sold everywhere.

An American soldiers' food, clothing and war supplies for one year would fill a freight car.

There will soon be two million. Perhaps five. Five million carloads. How many million more to fill contracts with our Allies?

A million and a quarter men already in Europe. A million and a quarter freight cars to haul their necessities to Atlantic ports.

COUNCIL OF DEFENSE EXTENSIONS URGED BY THE PRESIDENT

Wm. Farre, who is in charge of the county for the State Council of Defense, is in receipt of correspondence between the President and Secretary of War Baker wherein it is urged that this organization be extended to cover every community in the entire United States and to have under its supervision every war activity. This is a move that will meet approval. At present it covers almost every phase of war activities of any consequence. This organization is now a factor that will be increased by the proposed extensions.

"The Six Safe Sons of the Kaiser" sounds like the title of a German fairy tale. But it is no fairy tale either.

When our boys come home they will be well up in the geography of France. If they are asked to name four French rivers it will not take them long to enumerate the Marne, the Aisne, the Ourcq, and the Vesle.

We are in the habit of thinking of the president of the United States as the greatest American but just now we are not sure that he is any more important than the soldier or the farmer.
