UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN HANDICAPPED BY "FLU"

Chairman Geer of the United War Work Campaign called a meeting of the executive committee together last evening to consider the best method of conducting the campaign for war funds which is to begin on Nov. 11.

It is just as important that this work go forward and the money be raised as any war work ever put before the people. It is unfortunate and a pity that it is to be handicapped in the manner in which it is but the citizens are asked to consider the importance of the contributions and their necessity regardless of the present indications of peace as the work done by these seven organizations must continue for a long period regardless of the result of the peace parley.

It was decided to get out some literature and make it a canvass of personal letters to the loyal citizens of the county, consequently Secretary Farre is to be provided with sufficient help to get out letters and enclosures to the people asking their help and money.

When one receives a communication from the United War Work Committee they should give heed to its appeal and read what is enclosed as it is of vital importance to the army as well as the civilian population of the war stricken countries that this work should go on.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER OF TURKEY

The following are dispatches taken from the Boise Statesman that arrived this morning:

Vienna, via London (AP)—An Austrian deputation has been permitted to cross the fighting line for preliminary parleys with the Italian commander, according to the official announcement Thursday night.

Amsterdam (AP)—There has been an outbreak and a panic among the population in the Rhine provinces, arising from reports that the authorities were prepared, if necessary, to allow the enemy troops to occupy Coblenz and Cologne, according to the Berlin Taglich Rundschau.

London, via Montreal (AP)—Turkey has surrendered unconditionally. An armistice between the allies and Turkey was signed Thursday at Mudros on the island of Lemnos in the Aegean sea, it is officially announced.

The terms of the armistice which is now in operation, include the free passage of the Dardanelles to the allied fleet. Sir George Cave the home secretary, announced in the House of Commons Thursday.

Another condition is the immediate repatriation of British war prisoners. Other terms, it is learned, comprise the occupation of the forts of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus necessary to secure the passage of the allied warships through the Bosphorus to the Black sea.

Get This Out—It Is Worth Money.

RED CROSS WORK IN THE CANTONMENTS

"The most extensive Red Cross service rendered the soldiers in the United States is doubtless in the hospital zones, in conjunction with the army medical corps. To appreciate the nature of this aid, it is well to know something of the organization of the Red Cross camp service. First, there is a field director, who is accredited to the camp commander. He has the status of an officer, is under army orders, and is responsible for all Red Cross activities in the camp. Then there are two associate directors, one in charge of the home service and the other of the hospital service.

"The associate director in charge of the Red Cross activities in the hospitals has one or more assistants, depending upon the size of the hospital, to enable him to conduct the work under his care. First in the order of these duties is what is known as the communication service, an activity created on January 26, 1918, when the Secretary of War requested the Red Cross to extend to domestic camps the service which it was doing abroad in this line of work.

"In compliance with this request, workers have been placed in base and general army and navy hospitals in this country who co-operate with the army and navy officers responsible for keeping families advised of the condition of their sons and husbands and fathers in accordance with army and navy regulations. This necessitates daily visits to all sick and wounded and a great volume of correspondence. Other duties performed by these hospital workers are visiting of the sick, writing letters, furnishing stamps and writing material, supplying books, magazines, games and tobacco and cashing checks.

"Under the supervision of the associate director are also the activities in connection with the convalescent houses, which have been erected by the Red Cross with the approval of the Surgeon General and the Secretary of War. To date 63 of these houses have been built, or are in process of construction. They contain as a rule, 12 bedrooms for the families of patients who have been sent for by the hospital commander to see patients who is in extremis. They have libraries, and club rooms with a platform which can be used as a solarium or as a stage. In fact, they are model houses where the sick and wounded may recuperate and begin such vocational studies as may be desired.

"The calls paid to one of these numbered 3,000 a day for an entire week. Several children have also been born in these homes to mothers who had come to visit sick husbands.

"For the erection and furnishings of these convalescent houses $1,512,600 was spent up to June 30, 1918, and an appropriation of $1,000,000 had been made for additional houses to be erected between June 30 and December 31, 1918.

"Heretofore nurses have had only their bedrooms in which to spend their leisure hours. In accordance with the approval of the Surgeon General of the army under date of March 22, 1918, and approved by the Secretary of War, the Red Cross has undertaken to erect at each base and army hospital in this country a small building as a rest and recreation house for the nurses. Contracts have already been let for the construction of forty-one of these houses and a number are already completed.

"These buildings will have one large assembly room and smaller rooms to be used as a library, sewing room, laundry and kitchen. Their specific object is to furnish a place where the hundreds of army and Red Cross nurses may have a place to get away for a little while every day or two to rest and recuperate, and to perform such work for themselves as will make them comfortable.

"Another line of Red Cross work is its sanitary service. Its purpose is to co-operate with the United States Public Health Service in the sanitary zones of five-mile radius surrounding the 32 camps and naval bases of the United States, in an effort to keep the men free from dangerous communicable diseases and to prevent at all times the entrance of such diseases into camps or their spread in the civil communities, causing incipient epidemics such as smallpox, typhoid, etc.

"It has also to do with the improvement of health conditions in the extra cantonment areas, especially with the welfare, through educational courses on prevention, of the prospective soldiers and sailors before their entrance into the army or navy.

"The Red Cross sanitary service was created to furnish funds and trained personnel for this work where these were not available locally. The service is purely supplementary to the United States Public Health Service.

"The Red Cross sanitary service is maintained out of a special appropriation which, up to June 30, 1918, had amounted to $526,906. Of this appropriation $351,361 was expended. In addition to this $67,578 was expended in the purchase and operation of four mobile laboratory cars which were moved from camp to camp for research purposes as seeming danger of epidemic required."

RAISE HORSES OF BETTER QUALITY

Large numbers of undesirable, mediocre horses are being turned on to the market at present in all parts of the country in order to save feed, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. As a consequence the market is glutted with commonplace animals of this description to the extent that the prices paid are unusually low. The department urges farmers to raise horses of better breeding and quality. The supply of desirable-quality heavy draft horses or animals suitable for artillery or cavalry purposes is below the demand, while the prices of such animals are correspondingly high. In view of both the domestic and foreign demand during and after the war for quality horses, farmers should begin now to stock up their barns with horseflesh of the desirable type. Under existing conditions feeding stuffs for work animals are extremely high in price. On this account it is imperative that the farmer should winter only work stock of the useful, most efficient, and valuable type. One heavy draft horse will perform the work of practically two undersized, inferior plugs, while such an animal can be fed at about the same cost for maintenance as for one of the plugs. When the farmer desires to sell a heavy horse of quality and breeding he can always locate a ready market, whereas inferior animals ordinarily can be disposed of only at a sacrifice.

TO TAKE AWAY HIS BRAY

The following from a recent issue of the Portland Journal is timely:

Portland, Oct. 22.—To the Editor of the Journal—I saw in The Journal some time ago an article stating that two men had operated on a jackass to take the bray out of him. I also saw that the operation was a perfect success. Now I am wondering if you cannot get in touch with those men and make some arrangement with them to perform the same operation on our national jackass, to take the bray out of him—who is no other than Teddy Roosevelt, who for the last three or four years has gone up and down our fair land braying and making hideous noises, trying to disturb our national unity, and cause the people to distrust our beloved president. I believe that I am one of millions who think something should be done to stop his noise.

I also wish to thank you personally for your able editorial and defense of our president against T. R.'s latest treasonable and seditious remarks. J. G.

CHEEZEM OUT FOR OFFICE IN IOWA

Many of our people will remember Andrew L. Cheezem, who was associated with Judge Wm. Miller in the practice of law for a time in this city. Mr. Cheezem went from here to Davenport, Iowa and has since resided there. The Times-Herald received a letter from Mr. Cheezem the fore part of this week sending greetings and enclosing some political pamphlets, together with his picture, setting forth the fact that Cheezem is a candidate for senator for his district and it is full of the Cheezem kind of persuasion. Bet he's elected.

"CARRY ON," IS OFFICIAL CRY

The caution issued recently in Portland by James F. Pershing, brother of General Pershing, against relaxation of war work activities, has been echoed in messages issued by departmental heads in Washington, D. C., copies of which were sent to Executive Secretary John Kollock, of the Oregon State Council of Defense. "Carry on" is the theme of those telegrams, whose senders felt the German peace proposals might interfere with campaign plans just formulated. Consequently, the United War Work drive, which opens November 11, will be conducted with even more vigor than had Germany not sought to bring about peace on her own terms. The departmental heads, as well as Mr. Pershing, emphasize the need of continued activities by the several affiliated organizations participating in the drive, even after hostilities have ceased.

"Off again on again" was the word around town last night respecting the quarantine.

WE WANT SALES REPRESENTATIVES IN EVERY TOWN IN OREGON

We prefer men who have sold stock, insurance, real estate, books; or who have had no sales experience but would like to develop into salesmen. We train every applicant accepted and provide a system that will enable anyone who works to make from $75.00 to $150.00 per week.

Can also use women of exceptional ability. Position permanent. In applying state age, past business experience, number of years you have lived in community and references. Address in confidence—Kane Mfg. Co., 1626-27 L. C. Smith Bldg., Seattle, Wash.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

I wish to say that owing to the request of the War Department for an early classification of the 1918 registrants which follows immediately upon a long term of circuit court, it will be impossible for me to make the customary canvass of the county. My four years as sheriff of Harney county is an open record to all and will show the delinquent taxes cleared up for the first time in the history of the county; it will also show that organized gangs of wholesale cattle rustlers have been eliminated and brought to justice, as well as other law violators punished. If elected to succeed myself the same courteous treatment will be extended to the public in the future as in the past.
