LIST OF SEPTEMBER TWELVE REGISTRANTS

Harney County Boys and Men Who May Get a Chance at a German. Even Should Peace Come Early Some May Go.

The following is a partial list of the recent registrants for army service with the order of calling. For a while the other day it looked like these men had come into the game too late to have any part in the scrap, and even now it isn't likely that any of them will see actual warfare between the allies and Germany, but nevertheless it is not at all doubtful that many of them will be called to service and will be sent to foreign lands before the final settlement of affairs. The Times-Herald will publish the balance of the names next issue:

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC WELL IN HAND HERE

Few New Cases Developing and Patients Recovering Rapidly. Everybody Getting Vaccinated. Obey Doctors Instruction

The Times-Herald is not informed as to the exact number of cases of Spanish influenza now in Burns but is informed by the doctors that the situation is improving and well in hand. So far we have been very fortunate in not having one fatality from the epidemic and with good care and careful handling we hope this may prove the result thought of the seige.

Dr. B. F. Smith is kept at home by his wife as a suspect at present and C. M. Salisbury is reported as a new case developed. The sickness of last week has improved with every patient on the mend and many of the families are now out of quarantine.

The entire community has been taking turns with the doctors and getting vaccinated as a preventative and every precaution is being taken by the citizens and doctors. There is a disposition upon the part of all to follow particularly the instructions of their physicians and it appears that the disease is in check with few new cases developing.

CITY ELECTION.

Not all our citizens voted at the city election held last Tuesday as several did not know there was an election being held. But one contest was on, J. J. Patterson and C. M. Faulkner were candidates for recorder, the former being elected. The other officers elected were C. H. Leonard, mayor; V. G. Cozad, C. M. Salisbury and Joe Thompson, councilmen; Henry Dalton treasurer and J. T. McDonald marshal.

FRANK TRISKA GOES "OVER THE TOP"

Harney County Boy Writes of Experience. Helps Take Nest of Machine Guns With Loss of But One Man. Frank is Hurt

The following letter was recently received by Mrs. Frank Triska from Frank. She very kindly gave her consent to our publishing it as he describes his experience of going "over the top".

France, October 1, 1918.

My dear wife:

After several days of strenuous work I am able to write you a few lines to let you know I am still alive and happy to mention that I went over the top and think I did my share of scrapping. I am now in a hospital with a sharp wound in my left side and arm, but expect to be out in a couple of weeks. I am proud of the boys from the ninety first and am glad I had the pleasure to be one of them.

October 3.

The one thing I was disappointed in was that it was hard to get close enough to a "Boche" to have a good look at him. They would run before we were anywhere near them. Some would stay with their machine guns until killed or captured but they were few. As far as using a bayonet, I haven't had the chance and took mine off the gun the first day over the top as it was in the way for accurate shooting and fast advance work. Talk about excitement! I forgot to eat or drink the first day. Imagine such a thing to happen with me.

During the advance I picked up a lot of souvenirs but could not carry them for I had a lot of my own things to pack that was quite a bundle with rations for several days in addition. In one place there were twenty one Germans. As we advanced they tried to get away across a field. Those that did try are still there as the boys did some good shooting. The rest stayed and put up a white flag. I happened to be there first to stop one young guy from getting away into the brush. You see there was a distance of a quarter of a mile between them and us with barbed wire entanglements to cross to get to them. Two or three of us boys raced through the wire towards them. I was lucky enough to be there first and march twenty one of them out into a clearing where they were surrounded by our troops and marched away. You ought to have seen them pray for mercy as they went by me. Guess I was a hard spectacle to look upon, crazy mad and ready to shoot at them first move. Many of the dugouts we captured were well equipped and I guess the Huns intended to stay a while and didn't expect to be chased out of that territory.

October 7.

I wanted to write you a line last night but was about all in. Then the bed felt so good I was asleep before I knew it. Being used to trenches and shell holes and then dropping into a nice warm bed would make anybody sleepy.

In one place, the first day over the top, we were advancing across a broken field covered with barbed wire and trenches taking one machine gun after another until we arrived at what looked to be a strong point. The boys watched every move the enemy might make. Some one in the bunch yelled "There goes a Boche". He was a good long ways off when the boys opened up on him and stopped him from getting away. Several of the Boches tried the same stunt with the same results. We could see some dugouts in a ravine and were doing some planning as how to approach them when a white flag appeared on the scene and a big German stepped out of the dugout and twenty more followed in single file. One of them a young fellow about twenty tried to sneak away though the underbrush I raised my gun to stop him and he sure did beg for mercy. He just lost his nerve seeing all the guns pointed at him was more than he could stand. The bunch was surrounded and searched, then marched to the rear with a lot of others.

Farther up the slope we found a young boy of seventeen, wounded, calling Kamerad. The Red Cross men look after all the wounded. Some have immediate aid, others are not so fortunate and have to wait for a good many hours.

During that day we made an advance of several miles. That night I had to stand guard, not a very pleasant job after a hard day's work and no sleep. Our battalion was chosen out of the regiment to go over the top first. I had several notches on the butt of my rifle, but after getting wounded I had to give it up as I could not take it to the hospital. I have been acting corporal for some time and was in line for promotion with my company but now will have to start all over again as I expect to be transferred on leaving the hospital.

During my stay in the first Co. H I met fellows from all parts of the states and had to tell lots of my experiences out west to them as most of them have never been across the Missouri River. Among the bunch was a nigger named George Washington Yates. He was all stirred up about the west and I heard him repeat to the boys many times "Ah is mah goin west". I often think I am too, and mighty fast when I get started that way.

All the stuff I had like toilet articles, towels, shaving outfit and other things have been left on the field. Now I must get all those things new. I lost my tooth brush in the fracas and could not get hold of another one. Consequences are my teeth are not as white as they used to be and when I am allowed out, the first thing I'll do will be to visit a dentist and have my teeth cleaned.

October 9.

Up on the line where I did my share we had the Prussian Guards against us. They are the best troops Germany has, its needless to say they had no chance with us. Those that didn't run away are either killed or captured. Some of the Boches are treacherous and will kill a man from ambush.

I'll never forget one incident happened to a few of us from my company. We were in support of another company when they ran into a bunch of machine gun nests. Before we knew we were fighting on the front line with them. While some of the boys were cleaning out the trenches we were surrounding a machine gun nest consisting of four guns, eight men and a lieutenant. Nobody knows how we got away with only one man wounded as they were firing at us across a flat not over one hundred yards.

Three of us swung away from the main body and started to flank them. One of my men, Staton, had a hand grenade ready to throw I was a little ahead of them directing him how and where to throw. He was either excited or the grenade

ELECTION RESULTS IN MIXTURE OF POLITICS

Republicans Carry State, Lower House of Congress; Democrats Control Senate. Two Contests in County With Close Finishes

The result of the general election held last Tuesday resulted in a victory for the republican candidates in this state. It also appears that the democrats have lost the National congress but have a majority in the U. S. Senate.

In this county the only contests were between Sheriff Goodman and A. K. Richardson for that office which resulted in Goodman being re-elected; and between A. I. Johnson and Jap McKinnon for county commissioner, the latter being successful. In some of the precincts there was no election held. The vote as canvassed this morning shows:

President Wilson is acknowledged to be an excellent correspondent. Opinion, however, seems to be divided as to whether his domestic communications are as satisfactory as his foreign ones.

"U. S." stands for "Useful Santa Clause" this year, as well as for "Unconditional Surrender."

Making Unbreakable Laws for Huns

The course of world events to come for many years has been shaped at the Trianon Palace, at Versailles, France. It has been the scene of the allied conference, which with Poch and other military leaders, mapped out terms of the armistice for Germany. Here is a new photo of the historic spot. David Lloyd George, the great British premier, is seen stepping from the doorway, as our own General Pershing, with an orderly, is shown in the foreground, about to enter his automobile.
