Notice—James McKee has taken over all the property of Cecil McKee and all persons holding accounts against Cecil McKee are requested to present the same to the undersigned at Diamond, Oregon.

Dr. J. W. Geary left the fore part of this week for Denio where it was reported that people were suffering from Spanish influenza and had no medical assistance. We have heard nothing later as to how the situation is down there.

The mother and young brother of Miss Pauline Herner arrived here the latter part of last week and will remain here with her for an indefinite time. They have taken the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McGowan at the Harry Smith residence.

Mrs. J. O. Cawfield recently received a letter from her son Owen who is at the front in France. He sent her a piece of an aeroplane which had been dropped in the vicinity of his company. Owen wrote that there had been seven enemy machines downed in his sight that day.

40 acre ranch 3 miles from Castle Rock, Wash. 4 acre cleared 14 acre tillable all fine soil 4 room house good spring and running stream. Plenty of wood. A good little ranch for any purpose. Price $1600. Will trade for Harney Valley land. Address Geo. W. Fenton, Camp 7-E, Newport, Ore.

"Auntie" Frye is back in town after spending a few weeks with her family out on the Blitzen. Mrs. Frye went out to visit during the epidemic of "flu" but found on her return that it was not all over by any means. However, she decided to stay at home as one may take it in the country as readily as here in town. She is still in good health and not likely to contract the disease.

A telegram was received the first of this week announcing that Ben Slocum had died last Sunday at Granger, Wash., from pneumonia following an attack of influenza. Mr. Slocum was a resident of this city for several years and formerly was associated with Wid Drinkwater in the blacksmith business in Burns. He leaves a wife and children. Mr. Slocum stood well with his neighbors and friends who regret his untimely death.

Frank Johnson, the Oregon & Western Colonization Co. man, came in from Prineville Tuesday evening. He reports his town having influenza but up to the time of his departure there had been but one fatality. He found influenza, measles and mumps prevalent at Paulina on his way over. He said Rex Clark, son of School Supt. Frances Clark, has the measles at the home of his uncle at Paulina. Mrs. Clark had understood the boy had influenza and has gone over to care for him.

Chester, the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Gibson, accidentally shot himself last Tuesday afternoon with a 22-calibre rifle, the ball entering the fleshy part of his leg from the rear. Chester was with a companion in the fields near the Lovens farm house when the accident occurred. The boy thought he had the gun on safety and was allowing it to point down his back from off his shoulder when he pulled the trigger with the result that it was discharged. His companion ran to the house and told of the accident when Mrs. Andrew Irwin, who was at the house telephoned in to his father who came out at once to get him. Mrs. Irwin went out with others to bring the boy to the house and found him nursing his leg but not at all scared as he called to them before they reached him that he was all right and had stopped the blood. He assured his mother upon her arrival in the car with his father that he was all right and objected to being treated as an invalid. He is reported as getting along fine, although nothing much has been done with the wound other than dress it and keep it clean as Dr. Smith has been unable to be out until yesterday and Dr. Geary was called to Denio.

THE BROKEN SWORD

Some Chap with a sense of the poetic fitness of things, and a far-seeing eye for justice, has suggested that the first act of the peace drama should open with Kaiser Bill handing his sword over to King Albert of Belgium.

No more fitting incident could be staged, so far as the Kaiser is concerned.

That haughty Prussianism should give up its sword of might to the king of the little kingdom that stood between barbarism and civilization, well knowing that this stand meant annihilation, that would be a sweet revenge for humanity.

But what on earth could Albert do with the sword of Prussia?

The sword that has washed itself in the virgin blood of innocent Belgian girls; the sword that has hacked babes; the sword that has been born comrade with the obscene torch and the devilish gas bomb?

What would the chivalrous king of brave Belgium desire of such a trophy?

What, would any clean handed man besmirch his good right arm with the feel of the miserable thing? We think not.

No, let Prussia's sword rust in its clotted scabbard; let it rest in the deserted halls of Potsdam palace, forgotten by men and feared by no one forever more.

Aye, let the fat rats of the royal sewers nibble at its stained grip, and the clean rust eat it little by little until it crumbles and disappears; a relic of the age of hats, the stained, clotted, cruel symbol of what freemen have blotted from the earth.

Died Yesterday, November 15, at the emergency hospital in this city, Howard A. Pearce, aged 27 years, from pneumonia following an attack of Spanish influenza. The young man had been over at Bend where he contracted the disease and thought he had recovered sufficiently to return to his home near Weaver Springs. Upon reaching this city he suffered a relapse and was taken to the emergency hospital where he died. He leaves a wife and four small children in this section. Mr. and Mrs. Pearce came here in March 1915 and took up a homestead where they had since resided. He had the place well developed but the crop had been a failure this season and he decided to go to Bend and work in the mills for a time leaving the wife and four little girls on the homestead. Besides his wife and little girls he is survived by his parents at New Bedford, Mass., also two brothers, Dr. G. G. and Charley H. Pearce and a sister, Mrs. Olive P. Whitmarsh. His people were communicated with but owing to local conditions with no place to hold the body it was buried yesterday evening. His widow has the sympathy of many in this vicinity. Thos. Morgan, a neighbor, has the three older children with him and he has signified his intention to put in the crop and aid in any manner he can.

The Kaiser says he was not running away, just getting out of Germany in order not to embarrass the new government in organizing. Very considerate of the old boy. He will likely be required to go over to London for trial one of these days.

Even Modesty Is Expensive

War conditions, working on the characteristics of woman, has done more toward the return to the really modest evening gown than any decree ever issued by fashion maker or moral squad. The new gowns for the winter season show higher necks and sleeves. Shortage of materials and almost prohibitive prices mean nothing to woman. Those conditions only work to exclusiveness—so woman will have it. Here are three new models, satin being the material for the body of the garment with frills and trimmings of filmy chiffon, cobwebby lace and fur. Each garment explains itself to the woman.

"Made in Germany"—War, Ruin, Desolation, Cruelty, Bestiality. No, thank you, after this we want nothing more with the "Made in Germany" label. Why not adopt a French orphan? No, it will only cost you ten cents a day and the orphan will be cared for in France. So you will not have to wash its little face nor wipe its little nose.
